Air News.
Russia's New Gun.
Eat Meat.
More Dress, Less Leg.
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ANOTHER successful ocean flight, with little margin to spare.

While two Americans flew the ocean, two others were breaking the refueling and endurance record, only a few hours old.

When this was written yesterday, Mandell and Reinhart, flying in California, passing their hundred and ninety-fourth hour of continuous flight, reported "engine working perfectly."

THIS is the important thing, that an air engine can run without stopping, 200 hours. In another year or two that will mean around the world in a week.

And only the other day France celebrated Bleriot's flight across the channel, when Northcliffe gave him a prize of $50,000 for "a marvelous achievement."

THE Germans have built a real airplane. It took reporters an hour to go through its three decks, machine shop, sleeping quarters, etc. It will carry 120 people, and soon fly to see us.

THIS plane is built to stand a hurricane, and land on rough waves.

With one switch the pilot can shut off six of the twelve motors, change the gas, or stop any motor. One knob stops all motors in emergencies;

THAT'S an airplane, and only the beginning.

THE Russian government's new gun, firing 150 shots per minute, is faster, lighter, better than our Lewis gun.

Weighing 17 pounds and eight ounces, about half the weight of the Lewis gun, it sends a bullet 4,265 feet.

It is replacing the heavier, slower Lewis gun in Russian airplanes.

Of course, we are not afraid of anything that walks and shoots, but it might be as well to be friendly with Russia.

THE Arctic explorer, Stefansson, and a companion, Anderson, have lived for a year on nothing but meat, eating enormous quantities.

Physicians say their health is better, their resistance to disease strengthened.

Let vegetarians muse on that.

THE rock in 1,000 million years produces soil, with the aid of earth worms.

The soil, after more centuries, produces grass. The cow eats grass for three years, digesting it slowly. Man eats the beefsteak in fifteen minutes.

Great labor-saving device. Give your children meat.

DRESSES will be longer, legs less blatant. Blatant is the word, no matter what the precisionist may say. Nothing could b louder than two intensely pink knees.

Evening dresses already reach the ankles.

Backs are still worn down to the coccyx. They will rise. Women want to see how many queer things they can do, that's all.

TUNNEY, retired heavyweight champion, is in Prague. As a real fighter, he will want to visit the tomb of an old blind king of Bohemia that never tired of fighting.

In his last battle, he had his horse chained on either side to the horse of a knight and sword in hand, galloped with the two knights in the thick of the fight, slashing at the foe until he died. Blind, he did not want to miss the fight.

And there were no gate receipts.

THE big war was started by a murder in the Balkans, when so-called "Serbian patriots" murdered the Austrian heir apparent.

Now four Balkan nations are "seething" to use the customary expression. Bulgarians and Jugoslavs indulge in a pitched battle. Zecho-Slovakians and Hungarians have a quarrel that will need the attention of the League of Nations.

Patching nations together, making new nations out of old material, does not end old hatreds.

ANCIENT Filipinos were buried, sitting down, in huge porcelain jars, sealed at the top. A sitting skeleton was recently taken from its jar, near Manila.

Those ancient primitives probably wanted their bodies to be safe from the rats, while waiting for Mumbo Jumbo to come and get them. They have waited some time. When, as, and if those jars are emptied for the judgment day, what a surprise for those Filipinos, meeting kindly Angel Gabriel instead of a vindictive island god.

PRESIDENT HOOVER wants the postoffice to pay its way. He hates waste.

However, merely charging the people more for postage would be a little TOO EASY. That is the method of a power trust, anybody can do that, with a monopoly.

PRESIDENT HOOVER, an engineer, will want service more efficient, saving money that way.

Incidentally, a couple of battleships that we would build without thinking, and that are only targets for airplanes after they are built, would equal a year's loss in the postoffice.

THE Prince of Wales gave a dinner party for Ambassador Dawes and his wife. A young English woman, using a bogus title, crashed the gate, was presented to the prince, curtsied, sat down in the wrong place. She was politely asked to leave, not arrested, nobody made her tell her real name.

Wise British royalty, does not seek for trouble.

SENATE'S VARE PROBE HERE ENDS

DAVIS LEADS IN JUNIOR GOLF

More Than 300 Boys in Play for Hearst Trophy On Schenley Park Course

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Elmer Davis, 15, of 305 Lippert street, who plays at the Country Club of Pittsburgh, took the lead this afternoon in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's second annual Western Pennsylvania junior amateur golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst trophy, which is being staged over the Schenley Park municipal links, when he scored a superb 70.

Elmer went out in 34, one over par, and came home in 36, three over par, to negotiate the round that sent him into the lead over Shern Roni, of Castle Shannon, and Charles Brosky, Peabody High School lad, who had been deadlocked for the lead at 71.

The day was perfect for the event and the scene at Schenley was a colorful one. Approximately 300 boys teed off in the tournament, including the 21 club caddie teams which are competing for the special team prize as well as the other awards.

Conrad Dodson, of 506 Fennell street, caused a three-cornered deadlock for second place, when he turned in a 71. He was out in 38 and home again in 33—the latter half of the 18-hole trek being made in par figures.

James Veltri, of the Pittsburgh Field Club team, and Regis Di Ninno, of the Stanton Heights team, each turned in 72 and were among the leaders.

BRAME PICKED TO HOLD PHILS

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—With four games won in a row since they left the Oakland Orchard last Saturday, the Pirates today were anxious again to assault the notorious right field fence in the Baker Bowl with a view of hanging up another triumph.

Manager Bush will rely upon Ervin Brame or Larry French to check the Quaker fence-busters. As a general rule it requires more than one pitcher to flag down the local home-run wallopers. Brame is the first choice to start the game. Luther Roy or Claud Willoughby is expected to face the first place Pittsburghers.

Nine homers were recorded yesterday as the Pirates downed their fellow Pennsylvanians, 15 to 9. The Pirates made five of the boundary hits, with Boots Grantham connecting for two. Fred Fussell pitched most of the game for the Buccos and aided the attack with his second homer in the invasion.

JOHN A. BELL APPLIES FOR PAROLE

Carnegie Bank Embezzler's Term in Hospital Prison Now One-Third Completed

John A. Bell, bankrupt coal operator and banker, serving a sentence of six and a half years, today began a new battle for freedom.

With one-third of his jail sentence behind him, served almost entirely in the Allegheny General Hospital, Bell asked Judges Ambrose B. Reid and Frank P. Patterson, in Quarter Sessions Court, for a parole. A hearing was set for July 25.

Bell's petition was presented by Attorney Oliver K. Eaton. The paper bore the signature of approximately 500 persons, and included those of former depositors in the wrecked Carnegie banks, business men and friends of the one-time political power.

"PENNILESS" HE SAYS

Bell's intention to apply for parole was exclusively announced in the Sun-Telegraph recently.

Reputed to be worth $10,000,000 at one time, Bell in his petition, said he is "penniless." He declared he will be dependent upon relatives for maintenance and care if released.

Following the crash of his extensive business enterprises and

Rome Fliers' Own Story Of Battle With Fog And Two Ocean Storms

Of the Trans-Atlantic Airplane Pathfinder, Which Last Night Completed Its Journey from Old Orchard Beach to Rome.

(Written expressly for the New York American and allied Hearst Newspapers.)

ROME, July 11.—Here we are in Rome. We were forced by fear of our fuel supply to land Monday night in Santander, but our arrival here yesterday was none the less happy and the enthusiasm of Premier Mussolini and the Italian officials and people seems none the less real and sincere than if we had broken every record in the world and made our trip in even better time than we hoped for when starting.

When we dropped into the Littorio flying field there was such a crowd and such enthusiasm that we were overwhelmed. We looked for the world-famed features of the Italian Dictator, but we learned that he had waited a long while and left the field only a few moments before we winged down from the clouds to our goal.

Greeted By Mussolini

So on our way into the Eternal City from the airfield we were taken to the Villa Torlonia, the residence of Italy's great Fascist chieftain, where we received the embraces of the man who not only is guiding the destinies of the people of Italy in

5 DIE IN TRAIN WRECK

CORNING, N. Y., July 11.—(AP.)—Five persons were burned to death and a sixth may die, as the result of a fire which broke out after the East-bound Cleveland-New York express on the Erie Railroad struck a freight train near here today.

The locomotive of the passenger train ploughed into a tank car, which had buckled and left the rails, the contents of which broke into flames, the fire spreading rapidly to the baggage car, two mail cars and a passenger coach, which had been derailed by the crash.

The dead were identified as Fred E. Blake, of Hornell, engineer; W. J. Latonik, of Susquehanna, Pa., fireman; Railway Mail Clerks Henry N. Hulburt, 53, of Arkport, and R. A. Fagan, 53, of Salamanaca, and a wayfarer identified as Swan Berger, 38, of Moline, Ill.

VOTE FRAUDS CITED BY GARDNER

District Attorney Tells of Ballot Corruption And Names Six Districts

The Senate probe into the Vare-Wilson contest ended here today after District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner had given all but six Allegheny County election districts a clean bill of health as far as the 1926 election was concerned.

Before Gardner testified, 10 witnesses from the Fourth district, Second Ward, Homestead, denied that they had voted, although their names had been checked as depositing ballots. This was one of the six districts in which he had discovered fraud, Gardner said.

Members of the Fourth district board, who had pleaded guilty when placed on trial, appeared before the committee yesterday declaring their innocence and stating they had made the plea on the advice of Attorney Benjamin Lencher, their counsel.

NAMES DISTRICTS

The precincts in which fraud was found, according to Gardner, were the First, Second, Third and Fourth of the Second Ward, Homestead; the Twenty-second of the Third Ward, Pittsburgh, and the Second of the Fourth Ward, Pittsburgh. The members of these boards, all of whom had entered pleas of "no defense" or "guilty" or had been found guilty, appeared before the committee during the week.

"We investigated everything that looked suspicious," declared Gardner on the stand today. "We found enough evidence to warrant indictments in only six election districts."

"Was your investigation a thor-

NO MORE 'DRUG STORE' BEER

The prohibition bureau at Washington dealt the local drug store trade in "good beer" a severe blow today.

Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington was directed to notify brewers of malt tonic to increase the solid content to 18 per cent and hold down the alcohol to 2 per cent. That will make it unpalatable as a beverage, it was said.

The bureau's original requirement was that malt tonic contain 20 per cent solids and a maximum of 3 per cent alcohol. People would not even take it as a medicine when thus concocted.

The bureau accordingly reduced the requirement as to solids to 12 per cent. While the alcohol maximum was, at the same time, reduced to 2 per cent, the tonic in the new form found favor as a beverage. Connoisseurs of malt drinks declared it was "good beer."

Government chemists here recently analyzed the malt tonic produced by Pittsburgh brewers. The government prescribes a formula for its manufacture.

Lucky Bucks—New Money for Old

(This New Money Game, Copyright, 1929 by the Sun-Telegraph. All Rights Reserved.)

By ONE BUCK.

Haven't you got any of that new size money yet? No? Well, here's your chance. Play the Sun-Telegraph's Lucky Money Game and watch your old dollar bills. We are trading certain old one dollar bills in for the new model Simplified Simoleons, and the ratio is (to holders of the Lucky Numbers) 20 to 1.

Twenty smackers for one buck—how's that?

Each day the Sun-Telegraph will print serial numbers of the old One Dollar bills. Watch these numbers; paste them in your hat; drop them in your handbag, or memorize them.

Old Man ONE BUCK is circulating the Lucky Bucks himself.

He visits all sorts of places in Pittsburgh, paying for his purchases with the Luck Bucks. Yesterday he wanted to get a number of them out quickly to start the bucks a-rolling, so he had a few assistants in the good work. For instance, your friend ONE BUCK dined yesterday with a boy friend in the restaurant of Gimbel's Store. The check for two was more than One Buck, so two dollar bills, each bearing a lucky number, were used in paying the check. A certain tall waitress with square-bobbed hair may remember the incident, for One Bucks' check was an even two dollars and he gave the girl three one dollar bills, asking for change of the third.

Helen Kusko, 19, pretty lass of 511 Forward avenue, was first to receive 20 smackers from the Sun-Telegraph. Miss Kusko, cashier at Donahoe's Fifth avenue restaurant, said she noticed customers were looking at thei. money and comparing the numbers of their bills with those published in the newspaper. When she quit work at 8 o'clock she bought a paper and looked on the numbers of four $1 bills in her purse and there was R84003683D, which she brought to the Sun-Telegraph office, turned in and received a new $20 bill of the tabloid size.

Study today's Lucky Buck Numbers and if you hold any of the old bills listed today, dash over to the Sun-Telegraph office and trade them in—twenty new bills for each old bill listed. Watch your old bills and lookout for the numbers listed EXCLUSIVELY in the Sun-Telegraph. Today's numbers:

Mr. Buck at the Sun-Telegraph office will give holders of the above numbered bills twenty dollars each in new money.

If you haven't a Lucky One-Spot, some of your friends may have it. Be sure to tell everyone you know of the Sun-Telegraph's offer. It may mean many dollars—new ones for them.

Many Lucky One-Spots will be put into circulation. Every day numbers of these Lucky One Dollar Bills will be printed exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

Bills must be redeemed within 10 days of publication.

U. S. MISERLY IN BUILDING BARRIERS AGAINST NARCOTICS

LIQUOR LAWS GET HEAVY CASH AID

Survey Shows Dope Addicts Far More Dangerous Class Than Consumers of Rum

By KENNETH CLARK.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Federal government spends 50 times more money each year in the effort to enforce prohibition than it does to enforce the narcotic laws.

And yet, a new survey of Federal prisons reveals that 33 per cent of all prisoners were sentenced for violation of the drug laws, while only 14.7 per cent were convicted under the prohibition act. Further, under present law, a person may be given heavier penalties for selling a pint of liquor than for selling a ton of dope.

The total appropriations this year for prohibition are roughly $52,000,000, while the money allotted to enforce the narcotic laws is but $1,400,000.

HUGE CRIME BURDEN

With this small appropriation for narcotic enforcement, the government is endeavoring to combat a criminal element whose depredations, officials estimate, levy a crime burden between $5,000,000,000 and $10,000,000,000 on the nation each year. None contends that the crime attributed to prohibition in any way approximates this staggering amount.

A striking comparison of the evils resulting from prohibition and narcotics has been prepared for the President's National Commission on Law Observance and Enfrocement by Capt. Richmond P. Hobson, on behalf of the International Narcotic Education Association. Hobson said:

"Investigation of the criminal type of narcotic drug addicts will bring out, without question of a doubt, that the psychology of the narcotic drug addicts, especially in the case of heroin, cocaine and veronal, is the most anti-secial and destructive known.

"Those becoming addicted to alcohol are seldom regarded as hopeless and in most cases are not considered, necessarily, social liabilities. Drug addicts, on the other hand, in scientific circles, are called the "living dead," and constitute the most dangerous units that menace the public health, the public morals and the public safety.

"Drinking is done openly. Narcotic drug activities are secretive in the extreme. Neither individuals nor society at large have any real conception of the peril now presented by the growing menace of narcotic drug addiction.

"A civilization where habitual drinking becomes general may, as a consequence, suffer a gradual decline and possible downfall covering a period of centuries. On the other hand, where narcotic drug addiction becomes general the very foundations disintegrate and the structure must swiftly crumble."

Hobson urged the commission to recommend to all the states the enactment of uniform narcotic defense laws.

5 ACTORS DRAW SUSPENSION

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 11.—(AP.)—Suspension of five actors from the Actors' Equity Association and the reinstatement of two others was announced by Frank Gillmore, president, early today. While no statement was made as to the cause of the supensions, it was understood they resulted from making contracts with talking motion picture producers without sanction of the organization.

Those suspended were Tully Marshall, Anders Randolph, Raymond Hatton, Louise Dresser and Henry Otto.

The action, taken at a meeting of the association here last night, was interpreted to be the first move of Equity in its demand that producers here accept only contracts from paid-up members of Equity. The leading members of the industry here made a flat refusal of the demand, insisting that open shop would continue.

Rumors, the source of which could not be located, were current yesterday that the Equity association planned a preliminary strike by setting today as the last in which its members may appear as extras with non-members in talking picture production work.

banks. Bell was tried and convicted of embleszling of Carnegie Trust Company funds. He was sentenced February 1, 1926, to pay a fine of $19,000 and serve six and a half years in jail.

After serving three days he was released on bail, pending an appeal to the higher court. Having lost his appeal, Bell was re-committed to jail May 18, 1927, to serve his unexpired term and at once was transferred to Allegheny General Hospital. On July 15, he will have served two years and two months, or one third of the sentence and will be eligible for parole.

In his petition, Bell said, he has suffered two paralytic strokes and his wife has died since his incarceration. He has observed all rules and regulations, he asserted, and previous to the offense of which he was convicted was never guilty of any crime nor had he served time for any offense in this state or elsewhere.

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner has not indicated whether he will oppose the granting of a parole.

Hastings, of 19 Warren street, while it was parked in Arch street, near North avenue. He was released on bail of $100 pending a hearing in Traffic Court.

Huge Feast Marks World Business Conference

AMSTERDAM, Holland, July 11.—(AP.)—Eighteen hundred members of Chambers of Commerce, with their wives, representing every civilized country on the globe, sat down last night to the largest banquet ever held in Holland, given by the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Holland.

The dinner followed a day in which the economic prospects of China and American tariff increases occupied the chief interest. Thomas W. Lamont, leader of the American delegation, warned the Chinese delegates that their country's credit was at a low ebb and that there could be no question of further credits on a material scale until security for present foreign loans had been restored to its proper status.

American tariff increases were mentioned in the course of a discussion of trade barriers. British, French and German delegates said that they constituted a hardship to countries which are obliged to pay reparations.

It was a Gargantuan feast of which the delegates partook. For their refreshment 4,500 quarts of champagne and other wines were provided as well as 3,100 pounds of fish, 3,450 pounds of meat, 890 pounds of vegetables, 1,620 pounds of chicken, 650 pounds of mushrooms, 4,610 pounds of fruit, 1,450 quarts of ice cream, 860 quarts of liquers, 1,460 quarts of coffee, 6,300 cigarets and 2,300 cigars. Besides all this 66 tons of flowers were used for decorations.

Also he disapproved the McMillan bill to authorize the secretaries of the navy and war to issue a commemorative button to certain government civilian employes during the World War.

RECORD FLIERS AIM FOR 300 HOURS

Endurance Plane Enters 10th Day of Amazing Test; Motor Still Runs Easily

By GEORGE HYDE.
International News Service.

CULVER CITY, Cal., July 11.—Swinging into the tenth day of their gruelling flight, Loren Mendell and R. B. (Pete) Reinhart today doggedly drove their stout endurance plane Angeleno onward toward their self-set goal of 300 hours of continuous flying.

Emerging victorious from an all night battle with a menacing fog, the tenacious fliers still stuck to their record smashing grind after having remained aloft 218 hours at 9:30 o'clock this morning (1:30 Pittsburgh time).

"SECOND WIND"

"We're just getting our second wind," said they in a note tossed down from the Angeleno.

The Angeleno's motor, an old reconditioned Wright whirlwind which already had seen 450 hours of service before being installed in the endurance ship, was humming sweetly, even improving, as was indicated by the slower consumption of gasoline. The engine is consuming on an average of 11½ gallons of gas an hour. A total of 2,402 gallons has been fed by the refueling planes.

AIM FOR 300 HOURS

The fliers plan to stay up until they pass the 300-hour mark. Yesterday morning the tireless brace of birdmen roared past the week-old record of 174 hours and 59 seconds, hung up at Cleveland by Pilots Newcomb and Mitchell.

A dramatic sidelight to the record-breaking feat was the reunion in the clouds of C. D. Reinhart, Long Beach (Cal.) investment broker, and his son. They had lost track of each other after the father left Salem, Ore., three years ago. The elder Reinhart read of the flight a few days ago. He cruised beside the Angeleno in another plane, waving and shouting congratulations to his boy.

BACKED BY M'ADOO

Mendell is 30 and a native of Russell, Kan. He formerly flew on the Mexican border for the government, seeking smugglers. Reinhart is 29 and was born in Salem.

William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, revealed that he is owner of the Angeleno.

"I agreed to provide the facilities for those gallant young fliers as I thought it would be a contribution to aviation if they could establish a higher record for sustained flight than any heretofore made," said McAdoo.

ELKDOM HOSTS ON PARADE

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—(AP.)—Installation of Col. Walter P. Andrews, of Atlanta, Ga., as grand exalted ruler and other newly elected officers of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, marked the activities of the sixty-fifth convention today.

The grand parade of the delegates, bands, drum and bugle corps and drill teams also was on the program.

A spectacular electrical pageant in the Coliseum tonight will be staged by motion picture producers of Southern California.

Yesterday at a session of the grand lodge, announcement was made of the contribution of $675,000 to the national foundation fund started six months ago. It is planned to make this a $20,000,000 fund for charity work.

VARE INQUIRY IS CLOSED

ough one?" asked Senator C. W. Waterman.

"It was," said Gardner. "I don't mean to say we investigated every district, but we did look into every one that seemed suspicious."

"Do you recall that your grand jury at that time limited its investigation to only 15 districts?" asked Ralph H. Frank, counsel for William B. Wilson.

INVESTIGATED MORE

"I believe there were more than that," replied Gardner. "I am certain we investigated more than that, although we may not have found sufficient evidence to present them to the grand jury."

Senator George H. Moses, New Hampshire, arrived today and assisted Senator Waterman during the closing hours of the probe here.

Residents of the Fourth District, Second Ward, Homestead, who testified they had not voted, although they were listed as voting, were: Richard Bevan, Mrs. Margaret Bevan, Earl Gibson, who declared he never had voted in his life; Patrick McDonough, Mrs. Lena Gibson, Mrs. Emily May, William Oatmeal, Mrs. Thalia Oatmeal and Elizabeth King.

Mrs. Oatmeal testified that she had voted this year.

"What did you vote for?" asked Edward A. Kelly, counsel for Vare.

"I don't know," the witness replied. "A man came and asked me to vote."

This occurred at the special charter election in June.

EXPLAINS DELAY

Gardner explained the delay in bringing the 1926 fraud cases to trial by saying that first they were in the hands of Ralph H. Smith, who resigned to become a Federal assistant district attorney, that later he turned them over to another assistant, Harry R. Phillips, who became ill and was away for several months, and that later the attention of the office was centered on about 80 election cases arising out of the 1927 primary.

He said that Alderman John Carr, of the Fourth Ward, had been indicted by the grand jury in connection with the 1926 election against his advice and had been acquitted. Frank asked if the acquittal was not due to the failure of the commonwealth to secure sufficient evidence. Gardner said that was true, adding, "We never had sufficient evidence against him."

Gardner was not asked about some election records which, according to testimony yesterday, had been tampered with by attaches of the District Attorney's offive.

"They ought to be prosecuted," Kelly had said when this fact became known to the committee.

POWER KINGS TO DISPOSE OF PAPERS

Negotiations Begun for Sale Of Vast Journalistic Holdings at Big Profit

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—The Associated Press learned on high authority that negotiations are now under way for the gradual disposal of all of the newspaper investments of the International Paper Company. The company, however, will retain its contracts for newsprint.

While no official statement was forthcoming from the company its attitude was said to be that since its objectives of stabilizing prices and building up future volume through long-term contracts had been attained, the need for newspaper investments no longer exists.

SALES CAMPAIGN

When made, these investments were the backbone of an aggressive newsprint sales campaign, the International Paper Company lending financial assistance to publishers in consideration of long-term agreements to purchase newsprint from the company. This program, the company contended, minimized the danger of violent price fluctuations.

The paper company is now running its low cost Canadian mills at full capacity, it was said, and, by curtailing production in its higher cost American mills is contributing to stabilization of conditions throughout the industry by substantial purchases of newsprint from the Quebec and Ontario mills of other companies. This, it was said, will enable the company to run at a higher rate than would otherwise have been possible.

SELL AT PROFIT

On the basis of testimony given before the Federal Trade Commission by A. R. Graustein, president of the International Paper Company, the company, in addition to strengthening its newsprint sales position by long term contracts, expects to realize a profit from its investments. Mr. Graustein stated at that time that on the Boston Herald financing, the International had a potential profit of at least $1,000,000.

Early in May the International Company disposed of its interest in the Brooklyn Eagle and other papers of the Frank E. Gannett newspaper chain. Mr. Gannett, in announcing that he had retired all of the International's investments in his papers, said that more than $2,700,000 was involved. This sum was included in the $10,000,000 which Mr. Graustein told the Federal Trade Commission that his firm had invested in newspapers over the country.

AUTO MANUFACTURERS AGREE TO SLASH IN TARIFF RATE

U. S. HOLD ON INDUSTRY SAFE

America Produces Over 83% Of World's Cars, Senate Sub-Committee Informed

By WILLIAM S. NEAL.
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The American automobile industry has achieved such a remarkable dominance of the world market that leaders of the industry today volunteered to accept a slash in the passenger automobile tariff from 25 to 10 per cent, the present countervailing duty to remain.

At the same time witnesses appearing before the Senate Finance Metals sub-committee, of which Senator Reed (R.) of Pennsylvania, is chairman, opposed complete abandonment of the protective tariff on passenger cars and said more protection is needed on heavy duty trucks, buses and electric motor trucks.

LEADERS HEARD

Among the witnesses appearing before the committee at the invitation of Chairman Reed were Alvan Macauley, president of the Packard Motor Company and president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors; Walter C. White, president, the White Company, of Cleveland; H. H. Rice, chairman legislative committee, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce; R. I. Roberge, assistant manager of sales of the Ford Motor Company; T. R. Dahl, motor truck committee, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, and Alfred Reeves, general manager of the chamber.

"A canvass of most of the passenger car manufatcurers of the country indicate their willingness to try out a 10 per cent ad valorem duty if coupled with the same countervailing duty that is now provided," said Macauley, summarizing the automobile chieftan's views.

31,000,000 CARS

There are more than 31,000,000 motor vehicles in the world, of which 83.5 per cent were produced by American companies, MacCauley told the committee. Last year American companies sold 842,000 units abroad and he predicted that the figure would rise to more than 1,000,000 this year.

Macauley asserted, however, that foreign competition is increasing with adoption of American methods, and he opposed absolute lifting of the tariff.

Testimony that Edsel Ford favored free trade in automobiles, light trucks and tractors as far as his products were concerned, was given by R. I. Roberge, assistant sales manager of the Ford company.

He said he did not know what Henry Ford's views were on the subject, but promised Chairman Reed to find out and submit them to the sub committee.

Another development today was that President Hoover advised Senate Republican leaders to apply the yardstick of "adequate protection" to the pending tariff bill.

The tariff was discussed at a White House conference attended by Senators Watson, of Indiana, the party leader, and Reed, of Pennsylvania, second ranking Republican on the finance committee, and two outstanding protectionists.

The Republican chieftains would not commit themselves afterward on what the effect would be on the House tariff measure by the application of the rule laid down by the President.

DOPE EVIDENCE LINKS WIFE OF VICE CONSUL

Mrs. Kao Incriminated by Discoveries, Investigators Declare—May Be Arrested

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—(AP.)—Ramifications of a purported international opium smuggling ring were being traced by government officials here today as they awaited instructions from Washington regarding Mrs. Susie Ying Kao, wife of the suspended Chinese vice consul here, in whose baggage a fortune in opium was found last Monday.

Investigators last night announced that "incriminating evidence" had been found in Mrs. Kao's personal baggage, which was opened after the opium had been found. It was said to have implicated "a high official" in the Chinese consulate here.

United States Attorney George J. Hatfield said that only Mrs. Kao's quasi-diplomatic standing had prevented her arrest thus far. He said he expected instructions from the Department of Justice today on the case.

Investigators declared they had found "indisputable proof of Mrs. Kao's culpability" in her personal baggage. She has insisted that she was unaware of the presence of opium in her trunk and that she had been made the dupe of smugglers.

MACDONALD AIR JAUNTS CENSURED

Conservatives Criticize Use Of Government Ships to Attend Political Meetings

LONDON, July 11.—(AP.)—Conservatives in Parliament scored Premier Ramsay MacDonald's airmindedness and criticized him for using army planes in keeping political engagements. They argued that addresses at political meetings did not constitute government business and that the prime minister ought to engage private airplanes for such trips.

The counter argument from the Labor benches was that the object of the air journeying was to save time that could be better devoted to government affairs. The discussion promised to become heated, but the speaker intervened and said that official notice must be given of any further questions on the subject.

The House rejected an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, offered by Scottish Liberals and calling for suspension of the local government in Scotland act. The vote was 374 to 51. The government said the limited time at their disposal before the summer recess prevented adequate consideration of this subject.

This concluded the debate on the address, and the decks were thus cleared for regular legislative work. Among other amendments that were crowded out, was one offered by John Wheatley and David Kirkwood, leaders among the "Clydeside extremists," in favor of nationalization of the key sources of economic power. The Glasgow men would have applied this nationalization to banking, the importation of foodstuffs and raw materials and to power, transport and land industries.

The committee decided to postpone indefinitely a mass meeting called for tonight to discuss calling a general strike in sympathy with the carmen, which would involve approximately 46,000 tradesmen and workers. The meeting was deferred at the request of a civic committee after the Public Service, Inc. declared an open shop policy and refused to recognize the carmen's union.

The first petition set forth only that Mrs. Halfhill wished to end the marriage.

PARIS, July 11.—(AP.)—Premier Poincare fired the first gun in Parliament today in what promises to be a keen battle over ratification of the Mellon-Berenger debt accord. In beginning his speech, which was expected to last most of the day, the premier strongly urged unreserved ratification.

Contrary to his custom, M. Poincare refrained from making an elaborate review of the history of the case, but squarely confronted the chamber with its responsibilities.

"There are two ways in which you may destroy the Young plan," he began. "First by non-ratification and, second, by ratification with reservations unacceptable to our creditors."

The premier rather stunned the chamber by the combative manner in which he pressed home the following argument:

"How can we ask Germany to bind herself to pay us during 60 years if we are not prepared to do likewise toward our creditors?"

GIRL LEAPS OUT OF AUTO, HURT

Sixteen-year-old Frances Marsh, of 917 Heth street, is in Pittsburgh Hospital today with concussion of the brain, received, she told county detectives, when she leaped from a speeding automobile on the Frankstown road to prevent being taken to a roadhouse with her sister and another girl.

Frances is employed at the home of Joseph G. Armstrong, Jr., son of County Commissioner Armstrong, at the Heth street address.

After hearing the girl's story detectives sought two youthful automobile "sheiks," who, after seeing she was badly hurt, and permitting the other two girls to alight, sped away without proffering aid.

A passing motorist took to the hospital Frances, semi-conscious; her sister, "Vicky" Marsh, 18, and Peggy Marshlewski, 15, also of Heth street.

The youths picked up the three girls in Penn avenue, East Liberty, last night, Frances told hospital authorities and County Detective John Carmichael.

WANTED TO GO HOME

After riding around until nearly midnight, the men suggested taking the girls to Friday's Inn, on the Frankstown road, Frances related.

"I told them it was too late and I should be at home," she said. "I wanted to get out of the car but they wouldn't stop so I jumped."

The girls said they did not know the names of the men. Their description and that of the car are the only clues to their identity.

HIS MAJESTY, KING GEORGE V OF ENGLAND

Teddy Nice, Dolores Says, But Denies Betrothal

CLEVELAND, July 11.—"Engaged? Oh, no, no, I have many boy friends—very nice ones. I like them all—but not one better than the others."

That was Dolores Del Rio's response yesterday to the rumor of her engagement which had arisen following the visit to Cleveland Saturday and Sunday of Teddy Joyce, popular young master of ceremonies in a Baltimore theater.

Seated on a lounge in her dressing room at the Allen Theater, she freely discussed meeting the young man on her recent trip to Baltimore, and admitted that she liked him very much.

"He will go far, that young man—if he does not lose his head," she said.

"He came to see you this weekend, didn't he?" she was asked.

"Yes, he came to see us," she corrected, preferring the plural, which included her mother who always travels with her.

Miss Del Rio gazed down at her smart red and white sport sandals as she said:

"I like to go to the theater and to dance; and I like to have nice friends to go with me. But my heart—it is all in my worrk."

Officers Stage 'Lion' Hunt; May Be Police Dog

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 11.—(AP.)—A "lion hunt" kept Binghamton police, Broome County sheriff's men and eight state troopers on the jump here. For three days the object of the search, whatever it is, has been the cause of much activity hereabouts.

The sheriff's office reported that the search for the alleged African jungle beast, first seen the hills near here Monday, had become confused by a number of conflicting descriptions of the animal and its whereabouts.

Jerry O'Con..ell, living here, going home through the city streets, w what he was positive was the lion and did not stop running, he told police, until he reached their headquarters. A special detachment of police, armed with riot guns, dashed out in search of Leo, but he was not sighted.

The first belief o. ity and county officials that the "lion" was a dog, was strengthened when an unidentified woman in Utica reported to police that she lost a police dog clipped to look like a lion, in the environs of this city early in the week. She asked that police in Utica be informed if the dog were found. The superintendent of Ely Park reported that such a dog had slept on a ford near the park for several nights.

James H. Andrews, commissioner of public safety, warned all persons living in the outskirts to keep their children indoors.

Sergt. Joseph Murphy, of Troop C, state police, tried to bait the animal with a large piece of meat. The lion did not appear.

Farmers were reported to be carrying guns in the field as they worked.

'AIR PULLMANS' LINDY'S AIM

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh declared in an interview here last night that within six months or a year his company, the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., would put "Pullman airplanes" into its cross-country air-rail passenger service.

Tests are being made, Col. Lindbergh said, with this type of passenger airplane, equipped both with two and four motors. The colonel declared that tri-motored planes were fast heading toward obsolescence.

The use of Pullman sleepers, he said, would result in an all-air service between San Francisco and Columbus, O., and that the distance would be covered in two nights and one business day. Passengers from the east coast would entrain at Columbus and cross the eastern mountains by rail, thus avoiding flying over an area which he said was a hazardous one for aviation because of atmospheric conditions.

Col. Lindbergh predicted that within two years every major city in the United States would have air connections to a transcontinental airplane passenger route. He declared his company would inaugurate a 36-hour air-rail passenger service from San Francisco to New York in the future. He flew here yesterday, opening the Los Angeles-San Francisco leg of the company's new route.

BRITISH OPPOSE SUBMARINES

LONDON, July 11.—(AP.)—There were persistent reports today in the lobbies of the House of Commons that the new Labor government had decided to eliminate from the current naval building program six submarines and their necessary parent craft.

The decision was said to have been taken at yesterday's cabinet meeting, the ministry being influenced partly by the disaster to the H-47 and partly by a desire to make a gesture of disarmament intention to the United States. It was said also to express a ministerial desire for abolition of all submarine warfare.

The government's wish to reduce the naval program it inherited from the Baldwin conservative government is well known. The ministers would like, it was understood, to do more than eliminate submarines from the plan, which embraces two cruisers and nine destroyers.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(INS.)—The Army Air Corps and the Coast Artillery Corps will stage an air demonstration at the national rifle matches to be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, next September, the War Department announced today.

13 IN HOSPITAL AFTER WRECK

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., July 11.—(AP.)—Thirteen of two score persons injured in the wreck 20 miles north of here yesterday of the Seminole Limited, fast Florida-New York train of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, were in the railroad's hospital here today. None was believed fatally injured.

Five Pullman cars of the train overturned down a six-foot embankment, sliding into a swamp. W. B. Darrow, superintendent of transportation, blamed the breaking of a truck under the dining car for the accident.

Passengers caught in the overturned cars were rescued by the train crew and uninjured passengers who broke the glass in windows of the Pullmans.

Most seriously hurt of the injured was Mrs. Arthur T. Averill, of Tampa, Fla., whose skull was fractured. Others in the hospital are C. B. Sisson and Miss Dorothy Sisson, of Edgewood, R. I.; Miss Elsie Hook, Detroit; Henry Hillman, Poorman, Alaska; Mrs. Luther Hanson, Leesburg, Fla.; Mrs. Ernest Barnett, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. Anford Borden, St. Cloud, Fla.; Mrs. Ada Hammond, Baltimore; Mrs. Lottie W. Meredith, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Mrs. Sarah Hawkins, Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. Hedwig Bohn, New York, and Miss Sallie Colwell.

GROVE CITY, Pa., July 11.—Misses Sarah and Tirzah Williamson, 18, twin daughters of the Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Williamson, are recovering from shock, suffered when they were stunned by lightning, which struck a cottage on the Butler-Chicora road. Miss Charlotte Spalding, 18, of Butler, also was stunned.

Miss Sarah Williamson was burned about the arms, legs and face. Her sister was less painfully injured. The three girls were sitting on an iron cot when the building was struck.

NEW SUSPECT IN MARLOW QUIZ

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—An artichoke merchant, who owns an armored limousine, emerged today as a new figure in the investigation of the slaying of Frank Marlow, Broadway racketeer.

Sought 10 days by the police, Ciro Terranova, whom Police Commissioner Whalen contends had an engagement with Marlow on the night of June 24 when he was slain during a ride from Broadway to Queens, accepted an "invitation" to visit headquarters last night.

He was questioned five hours and then permitted to return to his $52,000 home at Pelham, N. Y. He denied having an engagement with Marlow the night of the slaying, but Commissioner Whalen said he would be confronted today by five witnesses held by the police.

"The five witnesses who dined with Marlow on the night of his death," said Whalen, "and who saw him greeted by a man outside the restaurant shortly after the party broke up, will be asked to look at Terranova."

Bruises and lacerations were suffered by Julian Eltinge, 46, noted female impersonator; Mitchell Harris, 40, actor; Mrs. Lenore Casanova, 25, actress, and Mrs. Belle Spottswill, 25, former New York actress.

Women in Modern Dress Ejected From Church

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia, July 11.—(INS.)—Under-dressed flappers, not money changers, were driven from the temple of worship over which the Rev. Iildweghy presides. This clergyman is well-known throughout Central Europe for his ecclesiastical activities.

After compelling a number of "fashionably dressed" women do leave his church, the priest announced that short skirts, sleeveless dresses and "come-hither eyes" will be banned in the future. He delivered a bitter tirade from his pulpit against the indecent display of anatomy by women."

SENATOR URGES U. S. BANK QUIZ

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(INS.)—New mergers and renewed activity in the stock market has revived Congressional proposals for a sweeping investigation of the Federal Reserve System and the entire credit situation in the nation.

Senator King (Dem.), of Utah, author of an investigation resolution, declared today that recent developments emphasize the necessity of a thorough inquiry into the banking structure of the country.

He declared the latest rise in brokers' loans is caused by new stock issues, buyers' rights and numerous consolidations engineered by Wall street bankers.

"It simply means that banks are no longer commercial houses, but are in the brokerage business," King said.

ALL-AIR ROUTE TO OPEN AUG. 1

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—The United Aircraft and Transport Corporation and affiliated companies announced it had formulated plans for an all-air system of passenger travel from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The new coast to coast system, which will be formally opened on October 1, will be approximately 3,000 miles in length from New York to San Francisco, all but 400 miles of which is now open to passenger travel. The route from Cleveland to New York will be completed as soon as a new York air terminus has been selected.

The elapsed flying time from coast to coast will be about 30 hours.

The United Company is making survey flights for a new passenger line from Seattle to Juneau, Alaska, which, when completed, will give an air passenger line from Alaska to New York by way of San Francisco.

The New York to San Francisco route by way of Chicago will be over a 2,000-mile lighted airway, over which passenger planes will fly both day and night.

Associated with the United in the plan are the Boeing Aircraft Company, the Boeing Aircraft Transport, the Chance-Vought Aircraft Company, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Engine Company and the Stout Air Lines.

FLIERS FETED; PLAN TOUR OF EUROPE

Williams and Yancey Not Considering Return Flight; Get Enthusiastic Welcome

ROME, July 11.—Roger Q. Williams and Capt. Lewis A. Yancey, recovered from their fatigue after their long flight yesterday from Santander, Spain, to Rome, today began a series of official and social engagements in honor of the completion of their trip from Old Orchard, Me.

Accompanied by the American air attaches, they first visited a tailor and had measurements taken for several business suits. Then they had lunch at the home of Alexander Kirk, charge d'affaires of the American embassy, during which plans for their stay in Rome were discussed.

After the wild reception on the Littorio air field last night when the crowd broke through the gendarmes the authorities have taken closer hold and the greetings to the fliers have been more orderly.

MOTOR IN FINE SHAPE

The airmen this morning went out to the Littorio air field where they inspected their plane. The motor was in excellent condition, but the fuselage will need a long strip of fabric, torn off by the wind, replaced. This strip, first torn on the trans-Atlantic hop, was temporarily fixed at Santander, but was torn again during the 10-hour flight to Rome.

The American colony will be given its first opportunity to see the fliers at close range at a public reception to be given this evening at the Villa Sparta by Kirk.

From an early hour of the morning, dense throngs packed the street in front of the Hotel Excelsior, where the fliers spent the night following their arrival from Santander, Spain, waiting for the airmen to make their appearance. Special squads of Fascist police were assigned to keep the crowds in order, and traffic in the street was severely hampered by the congestion.

NOT TO FLY BACK

Both fliers were emphatic today in declaring they have no intention of attempting a flight back across the Atlantic.

"We have achieved our aim in flying across from West to East. And even though we did not reach Rome in one hop, we are satisfied with what we have done," Williams told International News Service.

The flier said that after a short period of rest in Rome he and Yancey would probably take off in the Pathfinder for a European tour, cruising leisurely over points of interest for sight-seeing purposes before returning to the United States.

KEPT BENITO WAITING

Williams and Yancey did more than blaze a new trans-Atlantic trail in connecting the City of Seven Hills with the Atlantic seaboard of the United States by plane. They achieved another record in being the only Americans ever to keep Premier Benito Mussolini waiting for an hour and a half or anything like that length of time.

Accompanied by Under-Secretary for Air Balbo and other government officials, Mussolini arrived at the Littorio airfield early yesterday evening when reports were received that the Pathfinder would shortly arrive from Santander. For 90 minutes Il Duce waited patiently—without a doubt the longest time he had ever waited for any individuals—and then returned to the Villa Torlonia.

However, in spite of this disappointment, he was none less lavish in his welcome when the airmen were accorded an interview with the premier immediately after their arrival at 9:30 p. m. (4:30 p. m. Pittsburgh time).

'Great Boy,' Says Yancey's Mother, Tells of Pranks

CHICAGO, July 11.—(INS.)—Mrs. Margaret Yancey, mother of Capt. Lewis A. Yancey, navigator of the Pathfinder; Mrs. Ruby Pierson, his sister, and Ruby Rose, 14, his niece, rejoiced today over the triumphant landing of the trans-Atlantic plane in Rome.

"He's a crackerjack. I knew he'd make it," his mother exclaimed.

"Neither he nor his wife told me he was going. They thought I'd worry, but the newspapers told me the story from start to finish. A great boy, my son. I'm proud of him."

The little gray-haired woman, who is suffering from heart trouble, seemed greatly buoyed with joy and relief over the success of her son's flight.

Yancey was born and raised in Chicago. His father, Detective Sergeant Charles Yancey, was stationed for many years at the Desplaines Street and Maxwell Street Stations until his death eight years ago.

The flier attended Notre Dame Academy, Skinner School and Crane High School. In 1911, at the age of 15, he ran away from home and a wide searc for him was conducted for four months until he was found on a battleship.

"We thought he was going to be a bad one," explained Mrs. Yancey. "But in 1920 he came home with the Wimbledon Cup, champion rifle shot of the world, and with a medal from President Wilson.

"His father always said he was a world-beater, even when the kid cut the pants leg off of his new suit to mend his own ragged one."

Gasoline on Truck Burns; Blast Averted

A gasoline storage shed of Dunn & Ryan, contractors, at the Sylvan avenue bridge and Swinburne street, was threatened by fire early today when two drums of gasoline on a truck nearby caught fire from an unknown cause while the driver was absent. Firemen said the loss would amount to $600.

Rome Fliers Tell Own Story of Trip's Perils

politics, industry, agriculture, but whose plans for his people include a magnificent interest in aviation.

It was a democratic meeting. He patted us on our shoulders and saluted us with a kiss on our wind-burned cheeks. We felt at home last night in Italy.

We left Old Orchard, Me., at 10 minutes to 9 o'clock on Monday morning. We had loaded gas enough to carry us to Rome and, as we thought, with plenty to spare. But we soon found out that the wind and the long beach at Old Orchard was giving us an appalling difficulty right at the start.

Sacrificed Much Fuel

The ship refused at first to rise. We did not wish to repeat our disastrous experience of 10 days beforew hen we were forced to return after getting into the air. At the last minute we made several trials with a small plane and then as a final concession to our difficulties we decided to drop 60 gallons of gas.

The weather bureau reported favorable winds, but foresaw hazardous atmospheric conditions in the clouds and dense fogs that promised to beset our way across the thousands of miles that lay between us and Rome.

The sky that morning was hazy and misty. After our successful take-off we took our course for Rome with the fog seeming to grow thicker every minute. We decided to fly back for some 20 minutes to gain our altitude and to get above the fogs and clouds. There is nothing so dangerous as low flying on the ocean, even with a light plane.

During one of them we lost the bottom of our fuselage, but we did not discover it until some time later.

There were long hours when we did not know whether we were being held back by winds or whether we were being driven up or down, but we continued forging ahead. And as we flew we hoped.

The loss of the fuselage cover greatly crippled us, as it reduced our speed materially for the rest of our voyage.

Towards morning a faint light that hardly could be called dawn gave a gray color to the fogs and clouds. Then we were flying at a height of about 7,000 feet. Suddenly we saw a brilliant light ahead and for a moment we took it for the light of a steamer.

Guided by Star

The light blazed wonderfully and cheered us up and we began to chase after it. After two hours we finally determined that we were following the morning star. It rose on the horizon and as we realized this we convinced ourselves that it was the morning star.

The light became gradually better. The clouds rose and piled up higher in the sky. We had been flying for 20 hours against rough odds and we were stiff and tired. The struggle almost had us licked.

Both of us had been feeling badly two days before the start so now we had a chance to take little bits of rest alternately—falling off to sleep almost overcome by the fierce strain on our muscles and nerves.

We succeeded in gaining our altitude and then again shaped our course in the direction of Rome. Looking over our right wing we saw a coast guard boat below, following us, while over our left wing we saw the Savoia escorting us.

Fog and Clouds

After one hour our escorts left us as we were gaining rapidly on them. We continued our flight in the dense fog and clouds for seven long hours, battling against dangerous winds and squalls.

It was a hard job to keep our ship in balance.

Both of us agreed that this was the toughest flight in all of our flying experience.

"We saw the ocean for the first time through a hole in the clouds and we were flying at that time at a height of 5,000 feet. Centered in the middle of the hole was a grey tramp steamer which looked like a painted ship in a chromo picture.

In less than an hour we again lost sight of the ocean and the fog again became so thick that we kept on climbing into the clouds. We fought against the mists and fog drifts all day long.

After that long, hard day of struggling with the enemies that took away all chance of seeing our way for ourselves, the night came on with its worse dangers, difficulties and uncertainties.

Between Abysses

We never realized before what it meant to fly in total darkness without the slightest idea of where we might be—just hanging between one abyss and another.

There was no moonlight and no visible star. Always and always it seemed we were doomed to keep up the struggle against drizzling clouds and mists, in pitch darkness. The sky never seemed so black.

Twice during that awful night cold blasts and squalls banged into us, giving us a shiver. Yet there were no icebergs near.

Two storm hazards were our worst night experiences.

All our attention during those 20 hours had been required to keep the balance of our ship and to navigate safely. We had not taken a minute of that time to either eat or sleep.

As the clouds rose higher, towering into the sky we also steered for higher altitudes, climbing to about 14,000 feet when some miles off the Spanish coast.

About 11 o'clock Tuesday morning we saw for the second time in the whole trip, the blue green ocean below us—this time 14,000 feet away. We tried to spot a ship or something, but we never saw a thing until we reached the coast of Spain.

Steered for France

We tried to avoid Spain, fearing difficulty in landing if that should become necessary, and so we headed our course over the Bay of Biscay towards Bayonne, as we thought, hoping our was would hold out until we reached some point on the French coast.

At Bayonne we hoped to be able to refill our gas tanks and start again immediately for Rome. But just about an hour before dark we saw that our gas would only last us about another 30 minutes.

The situation that faced us was tremendously serious and we veered directly for the Spanish coast which, fortunately, before long appeared in grey dim outline.

We saw a long narrow strip of beach which the angels seemed to have put there for us, as no other landing place appeared for a hundred miles either way along the coast.

We headed for the little grey-white beach, which was just wide enough and long enough for us to land on.

We came down beautifully, without the slightest scratch or jump.

We were immediately surrounded by gazing, wondering natives in strange, many-colored costumes. We did not know whether we were in France or Spain.

We fired all sorts of questions at them, but they could not understand us, until someone came up and spoke to us in broken English, telling us we were at Santander.

When the natives heard we had flown across the ocean they became enthusiastic, some of them even almost hysterical. They waved their arms and hats for joy and ran about excitedly.

LION SPEAKER BOOSTS WORK

"Bigger and Better Mt. Lebanon" was the subject of Attorney Andrew G. Smith's speech at the regular weekly dinner meeting of the Lions Club of Mt. Lebanon held in the Mt. Lebanon Presbyterian Church, Castle Shannon and Washington roads, yesterday.

Mr. Smith in part said that the club made a man feel good to be invited to speak before a new organization. He went back to the day's when he taught school and had as his pupils all those who lived both in Dormont and Mt. Lebanon. It so happens that one of the members, Attorney Samuel A. Schreiner, was one of his pupils. Mr. Smith created a lot of merriment when he told how in his days they taught the evils of prohibition and the evils of nicotine. He also spoke of the good the Lions Club can do in making a bigger, better, more livable and lovable community in which to locate. Mr. Smith closed with saying that the Lions Club of Mt. Lebanon should live up to its high ideals, and if they did not and started to lag behind, he thought he would be tempted to organize an Elephant Club.

C. W. Scheck, president of the Mt. Lebanon Township Commissioners, won the weekly door prize, a slab of bacon, donated by Frank Schilling. T. M. McKinney, of Mt. Lebanon, was a guest. Walter W. McMain, of Jefferson drive, sang two solos and was accompanied on the piano by his wife. Thirty-six members were present.

It was announced that the meetings were called off till August 1.

The club accepted the invitation of Attorney Smith to use the grounds of his estate for the picnic which will be held in August.

BURGESS WILL QUIT OFFICE

After 14 years' service as a borough official, Burgess Alex Stewart, of Emsworth, has announced he will not be a candidate to succeed himself at the September primaries.

Mr. Stewart served as a member of Council for 10 years, prior to his election as burgess four years ago. He became a resident of the district 38 years ago when it was a part of Kilbuck Township.

"The citizens of Emsworth have honored me sufficiently," said the Burgess, "and I will retire from public office. I will, however, be keenly interested in the borough's affairs and will do all in my power to promote its welfare."

BOOTH CODICIL AFFECTS 'ARMY'

LONDON, July 11.—(AP).—The manner in which the second codicil of the will of Bramwell Booth, former Salvation Army chief, affects the Army's properties, is discussed in the forthcoming number of the War Cry.

This codicil, the War Cry will say, vests these properties in the executors, Mrs. Bramwell Booth, their daughter, Catherine, and Solicitor Frederick C. R. Sneath.

It adds, furthermore:

"The effect of this substitution compels the general (Gen. Higgins) to go to the executors for legal transfer of Army property. Whether they will give this transfer without further difficulty, or whether they will insist upon the courts being referred to, is not yet clear. They are getting advised upon their position.

"One thing seems perfectly clear—that these executors only hold the property for the purpose of passing it over to the general of the Salvation Army. They cannot do anything else with it. They are only trustees for that limited purpose; they cannot enter into its administration or control. They can only hold legal title."

APPEAL OCEAN RADIO ORDER

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP.)—The Universal Service Wireless, Inc., filed in the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia notice of an appeal from the action of the Federal Radio Commission in assigning to a single corporation 20 trans-oceanic short wave radio frequencies for handling communications.

The appellant is a subsidiary corporation formed by the Hearst newspapers and news services. The suit contends that the order requiring formation of one corporation open to all the country's press on an equal basis is a direct negation of a previous order by the Commission granting short waves to Universal Service Wireless.

Organization of the Press Wireless, Inc., was approved Tuesday by the Commission to handle the 15 trans-oceanic channels, but the Hearst newspapers did not enter this group, which included the Chicago Tribune, Chicago Daily News, Los Angeles Times, San Francisco Chronicle, Christian Science Monitor and the Gannett chain of newspapers.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 11.—(AP.)—After a slight decline in May, the number of passenger automobiles registered by the Bureau of Motor Vehicles showed an increase of 479 for the month of June over the same period a year ago, the bureau announced. The total for the first six months is well above 1928.

The number registered last month was 43,535, as compared with 43,056 in June, 1928. For the six-month period the registrations were 1,383,302, as compared with 1,296,104 the previous year.

The total number of commercial vehicles registered for the year is 69,484, in contrast to 199,163 for the first six months of 1928.

Phantom of Leavenworth.
This tale is a true story of a battle of wits between a $100,000 a day supercrook and a trained and brilliant detective, and tells how the master sleuth had to use his brains and his nerve in uncovering the caches of a quarter million dollars in loot.
In spite of the fact that the prison of Leavenworth is supposed to be escape proof, the villain in this authentic history made a miraculous escape. At the same time his wife and co-worker escaped from prison in Leeds, Md. The two then fled across the country, committing daring crimes at short intervals, until a blunder finally led the fugitive into the arms of the Philadelphia police.

'JUST TALKS' ON ARMS CUT

LONDON, July 11.—(AP.)—Negotiations between Great Britain and the United States regarding naval reduction were emphasized in authoritative British circles today as being "just conversations."

No conference has been held nor is one contemplated, it was stated. The purpose of the conversations was to reach an understanding which in turn would result in the inclusion of the three other naval powers.

It is understood that plans in such an event call for turning the matter over to the preparatory Commission of the League of Nations to carry on where they were left off.

Premier MacDonald, it was indicated, is definitely prepared to accept an invitation coming from an official source in the United States to visit America for conversations with President Hoover.

CHECK SUSPECT NAVY DESERTER

CHICAGO, July 11. — (INS.) — Thomas C. Seymour Botts, 25-year-old son of the general counsel of the Southern Pacific Railroad, who is in a cell here charged with issuing fraudulent checks for more than $2,500, is a deserter from the United States Marine Corps, his mother told Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege over the long-distance telephone today.

Mrs. Botts told Stege, he said, to turn her son over to federal authorities. She said she hoped this would thwart prosecution by the Chicago authorities. Stege said he would investigate the Marine Corps angle after young Botts was prosecuted in Chicago courts.

WOMAN AGAIN SUES HARDINGE

CHICAGO, July 11.—(AP.)—Four days after she was awarded $35,000 by a jury for breach of promise, Miss Ann Livingston filed another suit against Franklin Hardinge, millionaire oil burner manufacturer, this time for $200,000. Miss Livingston originally sued Hardinge for $250,000 in the breach of promise litigation, and arguments for a new trial are pending.

Associates of Benjamin Ehrlich, her attorney, later said the basis of the suit would not be revealed at this time.

Miss Livingston's first suit was based upon Hardinge's failure to marry her after she had come to Chicago from Tulsa, Okla.

The trial was enlivened by bits of sensational testimony and charges of perjury were hurled at Hardinge's witnesses by counsel for Miss Livingston.

Miss Livingston painted a picture of an ardent wooing and finally a proposal of marriage from Hardinge. The wealthy manufacturer, however, told a different story. He maintained that he had merely befriended the woman and asked her to marry him on the condition that she would sign a pre-nuptial agreement limiting her claim on his estate to $100,000 in lieu of her dower rights.

The prenuptial agreement, however, never was signed.

Following the verdict Hardinge's counsel asked a hearing on a plea for a new trial and the motion will be argued here Saturday.

"KONJOLA MADE ME FEEL LIKE A NEW MAN!"

Prominent Grocer Relates His Happy Experience With Modern Medicine.

No small part of the wonderful fame and success of the new medicine, Konjola, is due to the fact that it almost invariably succeeds in cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles, and in rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness, even though all the other medicines, treatments and prescriptions tried failed dismally. For Konjola is a different medicine from all the others, a modern medicine, a medicine in a class all of its own. Call on the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, and find out all about it. Learn how each one of the 32 medicinal ingredients of which it is composed (22 of them the juices of roots and herbs) has a special duty to perform in attacking the very cause of the trouble, and in aiding Nature to remove that cause from the system. Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drug, no heart-depressing chemical. It has no use for ingredients of that kind. It is a powerful compound, yet so quietly and easily does its work that the sufferer is hardly aware that a medicine has been taken. Just a short time ago Mr. J. G. Grove, a prominent grocer of Glenfield, Pa., near Pittsburgh, called on the Konjola Man and made the following happy statement:

MR. J. G. GROVE

"Konjola made me feel like a new man, and I am truly grateful for all that this new medicine has done for me. I had been miserable for the last two years. My kidneys were all out of order. I had to get up as often as six times a night on account of bladder actions. My back was stiff and sore, and the terrible pains over my kidneys were hard to bear. My stomach, too, was in a poor condition. I dreaded meal time, for I knew that suffering was bound to follow. Food fermented, and gas and bloating followed. I was subject to dizzy spells and awful headaches, and frequently spots appeared before my eyes. I didn't rest well at night. I had been disappointed by different remedies so often that I became discouraged.

"Then a friend told me of Konjola, and though I was very skeptical, I decided to give it a trial. How glad I am that I did. The first bottle convinced me that I had at last found a medicine of merit, and I continued for a while longer. Well, I am at last free from all my suffering. My kidneys are in a fine, healthy condition. My sleep is never disturbed, the pains and stiffness have been driven from my back, and dizzy spells and headaches are things of the past. I rest well at night. I have an excellent appetite, and the food I eat agrees with me, and never causes the slightest distress. I have gained several pounds in weight. Konjola is a wonderful compound. I am glad to be able to recommend it to all who are bothered as I was!"

That is how Konjola almost invariably works. It welcomes the most severe tests, and it can be depended upon to give a good account of itself.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this modern medicine.

News From Hollywood Studios Coupled With Chat About Local Theaters

CHESTER CONKLIN, COMEDIAN, MAY QUIT PICTURES, REPORT SAYS

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 14.

THEY do be saying that Chester Conklin is nigh ready to call finis to his flick career. Chester has worked for a pretty long stretch and he has worked for durn good do-re-me. Now he's set to play and enjoy it. 'Tis said that when his contractural option expires he moves his walrus moustache and the rest of the wardrobe from his Famous Players' dressing-room. Sorta hate to see Chester wave gudaby to the silver sheet.

Chico is a violinist. He is known as a concert fiddler in Europe, but here in Hollywood Chico fiddles for Universal at ten dollars an hour. As a result of conscientious saving, he recently purchased a $10,000 violin. He insured it for $8,000.

Reginald Denny

'Tother day on Reginald Denny's "No, No, Napoleon" set, Denny and Director William Craft framed against Chico.

When Chico is not playing, his violin is placed in the case and covered with a cloth. Denny and Bill Craft, however, snitched the coveted instrument and re-placed it with a "prop" fiddle. Then Craft started to pick a fight with Denny. Everyone was wise except Chico. Denny swung at Craft and Bill backed away. He backed to the open violin case. Chico rushed at them. But too late. Crash! Craft plotzed upon the fiddle. Splintering wood and snapping strings. Chico froze. His face turned ashen. Dead silence. Slowly, Chico crept to the battered violin.

All eyes focused upon him. Serious eyes, slightly apprehensive of the prank. And then, to be sure, he discovered the bashed fiddle to be a fraud. But it was a goodly time before Chico managed a smile at the gag. Hie ho, these playboys.

Cooper Plans Ranch Chain

SPEAKING of violinists, there's a darb on "The Love Parade" set, the operetta starring Maurice Chevalier which Ernst Lubitsch is directing. This fellow chews gum the live-long day. The highly tuned Lubitsch can't keep his enraged eyes off him and when he doesn't he loses his temper. For the gum chewing musician chews against his rythm—if you know what I mean. Mr. Lubitsch, it is intimated, plans drastic action against his unconscious tormentor.

Gary Cooper

Gary Cooper boarded an airplane 'tother morn and flew to his Dude Ranch in Montana. The ranch is umpty ump miles from a railroad and sotta sits near three states. 'Tis either a stone's chuck from Yellowstone or the Yosemite. Those familiar with geography will know!

At all events, Gary is excited over this Dude Ranch venture. He has a hundred or so acres, with horses and hunting and nature the lure. He plans to sponsor a chain of Dude ranches, which listens like an eye-raiser. Gary's dad is the ranch supervisor and 'pears to be as elated with the business as his W. K. son.

Neil Hamilton Acquires Yacht

SCREENALITIES: George K. Arthur recounted that he absent-mindedly gooed tooth paste instead of shaving soap on his face 'tother morn . . . and, of course, you've heard the one 'bout the absent-minded scenarist who polishes the crystal of his watch when he wants to clean his glasses . . . POLLY MORAN jingles this flick bureau to report her white Selingham pup has been returned. Um, the little feller went A. W. O. L. and it looked as thonugh ads promising a reward weren't gonna be worth their weight in print . . . LEW BRICE, Fannie's clever brother—and his wife have joined the Celluoid Colony. Purpose: sinematic . . . HARRY GREEN went to sleep on the "Kibitzer" set and snored crescendo. DIRECTOR ED. SLEMAN promptly took a sound shot of him and the next day Harry listened to his hi-jinksing. Engaged couples might check up on each other this way? . . . JACK CONWAY, now directing JOAN CRAWFORD in "The Jungle," is financially interested in a local airplane company . . . D'ja know that NEIL HAMILTON has purchased a baby yacht? . . . and—that's all.

Richard Arlen is the "man" of "The Man I Love," in which Dick and Mary Brian will be seen in the coming Aldine film feature.

ACTRESS GIVEN WIDOW'S SHARE

BALTIMORE, July 11.—Following the dictate of the Maryland Court of Appeals, Judge Eugene O Dunne signed a decree giving a verdict of $125,000 from the estate of George W. Whitehurst to Mrs. Claire J. Ulrich Whitehurst, former New York actress.

The estate of Mr. Whitehurst, in which the former Claire Ulrich, united to him in the famous "Prayer Book Ceremany," in which both knelt and signed a prayer book, claimed a widow's share, amounted to approximately $280,000.

The case, fought through two courts, was finally taken to the appeals tribunal, which held the marriage legal, at least as far as a lawsuit went.

Walter Winchell On Broadway

NEW YORK, July 11.

Newspaperman Stuff

WESTBROOK PEGLER'S pappy Arthur was famous as a newspaperman long before he was, and this anecdote about Pegler, Sr., made the Park Row rounds again yesterday. About two decades ago Mr. Pegler frequented a Chicago sheet's office, but the editor whose desk he faced as he waited every day for a week wouldn't grant him an interview.

One day, however, the boss was burned to a crisp because none of his star scribes could get a picture of a woman then in a scandal. He looked at "Peg" and said: "Here you! Let's see what you can do. Get me a photo of that woman who is being sued for alienation of affections, she lives on the North Side. If you click I'll give you a job."

Pegler returned in 30 minutes with the photo. The boss summoned all those of his staff who failed on the same assignment, and pointed to Pegler. "Take a look at a good reporter!" he thundered, "there's a hustler for you. He came back with the picture, not any excuses!" Then, turning to Pegler, he added: "Please tell this bunch of stiffs how you did it, old fellow, make them ashamed of themselves. In fact I am also anxious to learn of your ingenious method of getting pictures nobody else could get."

"Well," drawled Pegler, as he looked at his shoes, "I don't know, I just went up and knocked on the door and asked the lady if she'd give me her picture."

"Yes, yes, go on, go on," said the boss breathlessly.

"Well, she gave it to me," was the devastating answer.

RAISON RUMPUS

MILTON RAISON, representing Laurence Schwab, the producer, complains over the New York police discourtesy. It appears that "The New Moon" show went intact to play at Roton Point, Conn., and returning they feared missing their curtain cue. Arrangements were successfully made in Connecticut for a police escort which brought them speedily to the New York State line, where state troopers brought them hurriedly to the city line. This was all done gratis, of course. "I desperately phoned Mr. Whalen," grumbles Mr. Raison, "urging help to get us back on time. The Commissioner's secretary said Mr. Whalen was sorry, but he couldn't arrange it."

"Considering that Schwab and Mandel pay heavy taxes on their theaters and shows, giving the police every courtesy (and believe me they ask for plenty) they might have done as much for their own natives as the Connecticut crowd did. Then again, when Whalen was striving to solve his traffic problem it was Mr. Schwab who suggested that dramas start at 8:45 and musicals at 8:30 which was adopted by Whalen, who was complimented for his genuis. I hope Whalen sees this. Cordially, M. Raison."

THEORY

AS a result of the many alleged rackets now operating along the Main Stem, and because of the constant newspaper copy going over the country in wire reports and syndicate letters, many thoughtful real estate operators maintain that a decline in the value and desirability of Broadway-Seventh avenue property, at least from Times Square to Columbus Circle, is imminent. These lads, who think five to 15 years in the future, believe that the Mazda Lane will play second fiddle in a few years both to Eighth avenue and Sixth avenue, particularly if the elevated comes down on the latter-named street. That this is not all just guess is indicated by the fact that attempts to assemble a Broadway blockfront for a towering building carried on for three years have been abandoned because the builders became convinced that, like the Bowery, Broadway is getting a bad name and the crowds "will never go there any more." All of which brings to mind that comparatively few of the rackets which give the street a bad name actually are operated on Broadway itself.

OF ALL THINGS

CHRISTOPHER MORLEY, who parented the Hoboken revivals, was once a columnist, which explains many of his extremely fantastical promotions. Morley's most recent successful "gag" was "The Three-Hour-for-Lunch-Club" in Jersey, built in a time-worn foundry. A rusty derrick still stands, which Morley argues is for "atmosphere." He does such things, he will tell you, because they strike him funny.

Not long ago, however, when he got fed up with kibitzers in restaurants he set out to locate a new hide-away. While strolling along the East River front he discovered a dilapidated scow which had just been condemned by the city and ordered sunk. His influence saved the ugly thing and then he got three friends to contribute $250 each. He paid the amazed and puzzled owner $1,000 for it, had it renovated in the cozy manner, hired a chef who once worked at a smart hotel and the foursome dined there "away from the rabble;" where no fussy restaurant owners could stop them from smoking their pipes and where process servers could be drowned.

BY WAY OF REPORT

THE Sammy Levy problem has been solved. For the benefit of those subscribers who might not have followed the account of the unfortunate fellow here last Saturday, Sammy Levy, the dean of song-pluggers, who for 22 years served Tin Pan Alley only to be stricken and in want, with a widowed sister and her child depending on him, is being well taken care of by the army of Broadwayfarers and others whose hearts are softer than their heads.

To Leo Lewin, the professional manager for the Irving Berlin, Inc., however, must go the loudest bravos, for it was Mr. Lewin who did most of the trumpeting in Levy's behalf. And it is with great satisfaction that one discovers newspaper readers, unprofessionals and folks who do not know Sammy Levy, had a five, ten or twenty spot to spare for him. This corner doffs its dusty Dunlop, bows low and thanks Leo Lewin and the following good sports for their speedy response. The fund now totals $1,100.

Brown, DeSylva & Henderson employes, $200; Ben Bloom, $10; Henry Bergman, $10; Irving Berlin, $100; Saul Bornstein, $50; Fred J. Coots, $10; Eddie Cantor, $50; Walter Donaldson, $100; Joe Davis, $10; Billy Dunham, $25; Otto Gladstone, $5; Green and Stept, $25; Arthur Rosenfeld, $10; Al Jolson, $100; Arthur Johnston, $10; Georgie Jo, $10; Sam Lewis, $10; Benny Leonard, $50; Lindy's Restaurant, $25; Nell Martin, $10; Bernie Pollack, $10; Piantadosi Brothers, $50; Max Rich, $50; Ben Rocke, $10; Murray Ritter, $10; Santley Brothers, $25; Max Winslow, $100; Joe Young, $10; Anonymous, $25.

And Mack Goldman has arranged to send Levy to the country for the season and will foot all bills.

THREE HELD IN HILL KILLING

Three Negroes were held for murder by a coroner's jury today in the slaying Edward J. Kretz, 55, proprietor of a drug store at 1800 Center avenue, the night of June 21.

Lieutenant of Detectives David Corbett testified the Negroes had confessed participating in the hold-up and killing. Those held were Martin Avery, William Sled and William Walker.

The only light on the motive disclosed by Corbett was that the Negroes thought Kretz was "too slow" waiting on them when one asked for cigarets.

JAILED FOR TRIP WITH GIRL

John Kenneth Wilson, 30, of Beaver, pleaded guilty in the United States District Court today to a charge of violating the Mann act, and was sentenced by Judge W. H. S. Thomson to serve three months in the Beaver County Jail.

Two years ago he went to a party with a 16-year-old New Brighton girl. The hour was late when the party dispersed, and she said she was afraid to go home, fearing her parents would punish her. Wilson accordingly drove her to Chicago.

He left her there and continued to Los Angeles, where he was arrested six weeks ago.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

Many is the family today that makes it a rule always to have a bottle of this perfect preparation in the house. Keep it handy and observe these three simple rules of health: keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

Why not try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin today?

ARABIAN TRIBES REBEL IN NEJD

JERUSALEM, July 11.—(AP.)—Reports were published here that Ibn Saud, king of the Hedjaz, was facing a serious uprising in the Nejd and also possibly Hedjaz. Three of the most powerful Arabian tribes, the Ajmann, Ateiba and Mutair, had formed a confederation against him.

It was said the rebels had occupied Taraba, an important strategical point, whence they had launched an attack upon Ibn Saud's forces. A sanguinary battle ensued in which several of the rebel sheiks were killed and three others were captured and executed.

The rebels, however, rallied, the reports added, and by fresh attacks gained a great victory and compelled Ibn Saud's soldiers to flee to Riyadh, capital of the Nejd.

British sources here admitted the gravity of the insurrection, but felt confident that Ibn Saud would be as successful in dealing with it as he was with the uprisings in 1916 and 1918.

Baltimore Asks Air Mail Contact

BALTIMORE, July 11.—(AP.)—An attempt to have Baltimore made a stopping point on the proposed new airmail line between Pittsburgh and Norfolk will be made. A party of citizens will confer in Washington with the postmaster general, Baltimoreans will urge, it was said, that the line be extended far enough south to connect with the Miami-Atlanta line at Jacksonville.

Airplanes Feared As Spreaders Of Plagues

PORTLAND, Ore., July 11.—(AP.)—A prediction that the airplane may cause rapid spreading of dangerous plagues throughout the world was made here today by Sur. Gen. Hugh S. Cumming, head of the United States Health Bureau, who is attending the American Medical Association convention.

The surgeon general declared he was prepared to take official action at the first outward sign of an increase in the meningitis situation in Shanghai.

Murder, Suicide Inquest Verdict

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 11.—At an inquest at Canonsburg, into the death of Mrs. Edith Johnson, of Morgan, and John Farr, formerly of Greensburg, a coal and iron policeman, the jury returned a verdict of murder and suicide. Farr had been paying attention to Mrs. Johnson for several years. There were no witnesses to the shooting.

INDIAN LIQUOR FLOW BARED

LAC DU FLAMBEAU, Wis., July 11.—(AP.)—Charges that United States Indian officers on the Bad River reservation, near Ashland, Wis., make no effort to suppress liquor traffic there, were made here by witnesses in the United States Senate Indian Affairs Sub-committee investigation into conditions of Indian reservations in Northern Wisconsin.

Earlier in the day stories of alleged apathy of the Federal Indian Bureau toward aiding indigent and sick tribe members were told to the committee members, Senators Lynn Frazier, North Dakota; Robert M. LaFollette, Wisconsin, and Burton K. Wheeler, Wisconsin.

It was pointed out that counties in Northern Wisconsin have been shouldering the burden for caring for Indians. Senator Wheeler, on hearing of the conditions, declared "the government of the United States should not permit the Indian, a Federal ward, to be the object of county charity."

Mrs. Veronica Raische, of Odanah, told of alleged inattention to sick Indians, and said men in automobiles swoop into town, pick up young Indian girls and bring them back intoxicated.

52 YOUTHS FAIL ARMY TEST

FORT WASHINGTON, Md., July 11.—Fifty-two of the 852 Western Pennsylvania boys who applied for admission to the Citizens' Military Training Camp here have been rejected for physical defects and sent home. The majority of the 52 were lads of sturdy appearance and had played football and other rough sports at high school, but the doctors' examination disclosed cardiac ailments.

Second Lieut. I. W. Littell, athletic officer, expressed the opinion the rejected boys had been too strenuously exercised. He was the captain of the Lehigh football team in 1927 and intercollegiate wrestling champion.

"The boys with the heart trouble," he said, "have probably played on teams where the 'win at any cost' attitude prevails. The majority of high school athletes come to college burned out. Over 50 per cent of the high school stars are practically valueless in college because they have been pushed too hard in their high school games."

One boy who was rejected because of being under weight was allowed a day of grace before being sent home. By drinking inordinately of water during the intervening 24 hours he succeeded the following day in tipping the scales at the required mark, and was accepted.

First Lieut. Harry Epstein, of Pittsburgh, was a member of the Board of Physicians that conducted the physical examinations.

DROWNING HOAX LAID TO PAIR

EVANSVILLE, Ind., July 11.—(AP.)—Police today believed Allen C. Yeager, Evansville business man and boys' worker, was heading for Arizona after perpetrating a drowning hoax here.

It was revealed last night that Russell Morris, 13, who disappeared with Yeager, had told friends he was going to Arizona and New Mexico with a friend who had a car and "lots of money." To strengthen this theory, an employe in Yeager's produce house here told police Yeager recently had asked him many questions about Arizona.

Yeager and young Morris were presumed to have drowned after the boat in which they were riding on the Ohio River Saturday night was found capsized near here Sunday. Search for the pair was started after Carl Cowles, another young friend, exhibited a note purporting to show it was Yeager's intention to go to Ludington, Mich. Police today believed this note was written to hide Yeager's real destination.

Personal papers of the missing man found yesterday contained insurance policies for a total of $43,000, which with double indemnity clauses would have amounted to nearly $80,000. Yeager was said by friends to have worried over debts of approximately $8,000.

Monkeys Prance On Lawn, Then Flee Dogs

BEAVER, Pa., July 11.—Farmers along the Tuscarawas road are looking for two large monkeys, which were seen playing on the lawn of Dr. Frank R. Holt. Dogs gave chase, but the monkeys took to the trees. It is believed they escaped from a carnival or circus.

Man Jailed in False Naturalization Claim

Guiseppi Chiarelli, of 1143 Sixth avenue, New Kensington, was arrested by Deputy United States Marshal D. A. Goldman. In a true bill returned May 14 by the Federal grand jury Chiarelli was charged with making a false affidavit at a preliminary hearing September 6, 1928, on his petition for naturalization. He was alleged to have fraudulently claimed to have resided continuously in the United States prior to filing the petition.

Hurry, hurry, something Good for breakfast!

Down the stairs they come in an eager scramble—anxious for this king of Breakfasts—Heinz Rice Flakes!

Gone are the days when breakfast was a duty. Now it's the time for rejoicing. The time for crunching crispy, golden-brown flakes of nut-like goodness. How can anything taste so good!

And how can these fairy-like flakes do you good? Why, because Heinz Rice Flakes are made by a special, patented Heinz process entirely new to cereal-making! A process which transforms the natural roughage of the rice into a pure cellulose that acts as a gentle, natural laxative. This is the first time that this particular health quality has been present in a ready-to-eat cereal food.

Good for young—good for old—good for everyone! Good for breakfast. Good for health. Good to be alive!

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk Enjoying Shore and Mountain Summer Retreats

PITTSBURGH society is really a "floating population," isn't it, since it treks southward every winter and in summer wends its way to the eastern shore resorts, to the mountains or to one of the western ranches. Apparently, though, "a good time is being had by all," and that's what summer is for, don't you think?

Going away very soon are the James Hay Hammonds, who have been living at Hotel Schenley for the past few years. The Hammonds are leaving next week to be at their summer place, "The Ledges," at Alexandria Bay, for the rest of the season. And when they return in October, I hear that they will take possession of their new home in Woodland road. Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock, of Ellsworth avenue and "Vosemary," Babcock boulevard, is going up early in August to visit the Hammonds for a while.

Speaking of Mrs. Babcock reminds me that her daughter and son-in-law, the Junior Gordon Fishers, and their small daughter, Mary Arnold Fisher, are just back from Provincetown. There they visited the senior Fishers at their summer home. By the way, I understand that the senior Mrs. Fisher is going to give a house party at her Provincetown cottage shortly for her other son, John M. Fisher. The guests will include Clarissa Reed, Eleanor Longenecker and James Kuhn.

Did you know that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hale Matthews, Jr., have just returned home from a trip, too? They have been spending a month in London and Paris, and arrived here in the city yesterday morning. And I understand that Mrs. Mathews' sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert McEldowney, of Johnstown, who was Helen Nicholson before she was married, you know, is taking her children up to Chautauqua to spend the remainder of the summer.

Leaving town next week, too, are Mr. and Mrs. Biddle Arthurs, of Center avenue, who are going to Sunbury, Pa., to visit Mrs. Arthurs' mother, Mrs. S. P. Wolverton. The junior Mr. and Mrs. Biddle Arthurs will leave a little later by motor to spend some time with Mrs. Wolverton.

Sailing for Europe on Saturday are Miss Margaret Adair and her brother, Watson B. Adair, of Quaker road, Edgeworth. In England they will join the Stuart H. Robinsons, of Sewickley, and tour Scotland and England with them. Mrs. Garrett Denise Browne and her sons, of Boston, are traveling with the Robinsons now and Mr. Browne is arranging to join them in August. The Adairs will return to Sewickley early in September.

Another Sewickley valleyite going abroad is Alfred B. Harlow, of Newbury lane, Edgeworth, who sailed last week for France. He will meet Mrs. Harlow and Miss Lucy Moore in Paris and they will sail for home on July 20.

Europe is also attracting Mrs. David Wilson Kuhn, of Woodland road, East End. Mrs. Kuhn is in New York for a few days before she sails for a trip abroad. She will be joined in Europe a little later by Mrs. Charles S. Shoemaker, of Termon avenue, North Side, who is now on Long Island.

Mrs. George E. Tener, of Grove street, Sewickley, is in New York for a short time before going up to her cottage at Gloucester, Mass. She is planning to remain there all summer, I understand. At their summer home now are Mr. and Mrs. James B. Haines III and their children, James B. Haines IV, John and Claire Haines, of Glen Osborne, who left by motor last week for their cottage at Stoney Lake, Ontario. They have as their guest John J. Koch, of Thorn street, Sewickley.

I'VE been told that another date has been added to next season's calendar, and that is Friday, December 20, which, it seems, has been taken by William Jackson Crittendens, of Shields, for a ball to be given in the Pittsburgh Club for their debutante daughter, Caroline. Caroline made her bow at a tea on June 22, you know.

THE marriage of Miss Hazel Ley, daughter of Mrs. Henry E. Ley, of Perrysville avenue, and Russell Vohr Beckett, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Beckett, of South Lang avenue, will be solemnized tonight at 7:45 o'clock in St. Luke's Lutheran Church, North Side, by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. G. Arthur Fry, assisted by the Rev. George A. Long, pastor of the Homewood United Presbyterian Church. The bride will wear white satin embroidered with pearls and crystals and her tulle veil will be held with a cap of pearls. She will carry a shower of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Mathilde Ittel, as maid of honor, will appear in pale blue chiffon, and similar chiffon frocks will be worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Bertha L. Hieber, in yellow; Miss Katherine M. Miller, pink; Miss Genevieve M. Pfordt, green, and Miss Alice Cording, orchid. They will carry summer flowers. The flower girl, Margaret Syroth, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Syroth, will wear a white crepe de chine frock and will carry a basket of variegated flowers. Durbin Beckett is to be his brother's best man and the ushers will include Charles Beckett, Henry E. Ley, John Lowry Trimble, Dr. Raymond J. Hipsley and James D. Pitcairn. Mrs. Claire Ausburn will play the wedding music and Mrs. E. L. Jones will sing. A reception in the Ley home will follow the ceremony and later Mr. and Mrs. Beckett will leave for a motor trip to New England.

IN the Smithfield Street Methodist Episcopal Church, the marriage of Miss Ida Barbara Weichsel and William H. Meyer, both of Wheeling, was solemnized Monday by the Rev. C. E. Brenneman, pastor of the church. The couple was attended by M. S. Mentzer as best man and Miss Anna Mentzer, as maid of honor. Mr. and Mrs. Meyer will make their home in Wheeling.

ROBERT W. M'KOWN, of Aspinwall, announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Dorothy McKown, and John Alexander MacKay, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacKay, of the East End, which was solemnized last Saturday in the McKown home by the Rev. H. A. Gearhart.

Woman's City Club Moves Into New Quarters

MRS. HENRY CLAY McELDOWNEY

MRS. EDWARD VOSE BABCOCK

Pittsburgh society and club leaders, Mrs. McEldowney, president, and Mrs. Babcock, first vice-president and chairman of the house committee, chatting in one of the quiet corners of the library in the new quarters of the Women's City Club, newly-decorated and furnished for the club in the William Penn Hotel. The club takes possession of the rooms today.

Woman's City Club In Fine New Rooms

WHEN the Woman's City Club takes possession of its new quarters in the William Penn Hotel today, it will have made a decided stride forward. Commodious, convenient and beautiful are the new rooms. One enters on a large hallway, from the left of which a smaller hallway leads to the large lounge. The office is also to the left off the main hall, while beyond it a second smaller hall leads on to the rest room and bath. Telephone booths, service kitchen and club kitchen are to the right of the entrance hall, but the most attractive feature of the suite is the tea-dining-card room arrangement fronting on Oliver avenue. These three rooms are finished in soft plain green and parchment, with bright hangings at the windows and especially effective lighting fixtures. The three rooms open into one by means of the folding doors, which are somewhat modernistic in design. The furniture from the old club rooms lends itself well to its new surroundings. The library-lounge, the new unit in the suite, is attracting especial attention both because it is new and because it is so beautifully furnished. Walls and ceiling are painted in a plain parchment shade, as are all the rooms with the exception of the dining trio, and against this soft, almost golden hue the figured draperies show up most effectively. A decorative border carries out shades of green and eggplant which predominate in the new upholstered furniture and in the handsome carpet that covers all the floors. The green and white kitchen with its steam tables, huge electric refrigerator and dainty cupboard is enough to delight the heart of any housewife. With these new facilities at her service, no doubt Mrs. Casselman's culinary art (and, as the club members know, it is a real art) will blossom forth as it has never had opportunity to do before.

To Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock, as house committee chairman, the club owes praise for its changed quarters—an achievement in artistry and comfort.

Open house will be kept all day today, luncheon and dinner being served both to members and their friends, and tea for the members only this afternoon. There will be music during the late afternoon and evening.

LAST night Mrs. Babcock entertained at a charmingly appointed dinner in the tea room, her guests being the press women of the city, the press committee of the club and the president, Mrs. Henry Clay McEldowney. Covers were laid for 18.

EVENTS planned by the program committee of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club for next year include the annual luncheon, which will be held on President's Day in October; an address on "Home Safety," by F. R. Phillips; a talk by Mrs. Elizabeth B. Motz on the Metropolitan Plan Charter; a program for the blind; a children's Christmas party, which the home department will give; an address by Dr. A. M. Jamieson; an entertainment by the drama, music and literature departments; a talk on "Telephotography;" the "publication" of a club magazine; the annual election; the annual business meeting, and the community basket picnic, which the club sponsors.

MRS. W. A. CRAWFORD will be hostess for tomorrow's meeting of the Bradford Woods Women's Club and will be assisted by Mrs. Frank Finlay, Mrs. J. L. Hanan, Mrs. Chauncey Lobinger, Miss Dorothy Morrow, Mrs. E. Steele and Mrs. E. E. Waechter. "Life in Japan" is the topic for the day, which will be discussed under Mrs. J. B. Kelley's leadership.

* * *

FRIENDS as well as members of Roosevelt Chapter, No. 264, Order of the Eastern Star, will attend the chapter's annual picnic in Carrick Park, Saturday. Mrs. May Miller is picnic chairman and Miss Marie Moore is worthy matron.

MRS. GOODHUE'S CONDITION FAIR

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 11.—(AP.)—Mrs. Lemira B. Goodhue, 80-year-old mother of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, was said at the Coolidge home here to be resting comfortably, contrary to reports which said she was "very low," at the Cooley-Dickinson Memorial Hospital here. She has been ill for more than a year.

Former President Coolidge telephoned from New York, where he attended a directors' meeting of the New York Life Insurance Company, to inquire whether Mrs. Goodhue's condition would make it advisable for him to return directly to Northampton. He was told that she was comfortable. It was supposed that he left for Wareham, where he planned to spend a few days fishing.

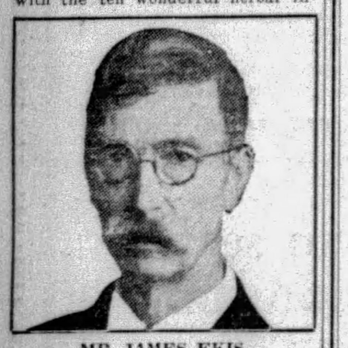
DECLARES IT DID WONDERS FOR HIM

Claims He Feels Like a New Man Since Using Famous Ten Herbs.

Thousands here and almost everywhere say there is no other medicine on the market today that gives such far-reaching results as Ten Herbs, the new natural compound with the ten wonderful herbal ingredients, which really make it ten medicines in one. Many men and women of this section have found new health and happiness by this famous preparation, relieving them of such health troubles as stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders, rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness, and a general weak, rundown condition. Learn more about Ten Herbs by calling at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, where this successful medicine is being introduced.



MR. JAMES EKIS

"Ten Herbs certainly was the right medicine for my case," was the recent statement of Mr. James Ekis, miner, living at Claytonia, Pa. (near Butler). "It did wonders for me—I feel like a new man. For years I had been bothered with constipation. My stomach troubled me. Gas, bloating and heartburn made me feel miserable. I would go for days without eating much of anything, and this kept me very weak.

"My nerves troubled me so that I would lie awake at night and feel terrible when I got up in the morning. I had dizzy spells, headaches and pains across my back, and was compelled to arise many times during the night. There were rheumatic pains in my arms and shoulders, and at times my vision would be so blurred I could hardly see. Catarrh bothered me. My nostrils would be stopped up in the morning and my ears would ring. I had poor blood circulation, and my muscles and joints would get sore and stiff.

"I heard so much in favor of Ten Herbs that I started using your medicine. Now my appetite is fine, and I can eat almost anything without having gas, bloating, heartburn, or other distress afterwards. Constipation is gone, and my nerves are in the best of condition. I sleep soundly all night long and feel good and rested when morning comes. I am free of dizzy spells, headaches and pains across my back. Rheumatism has disappeared, and my vision no longer becomes blurred. My blood circulation is normal. I have gained in strength and feel like my real self again."

Ten Herbs is sold at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, and at all

GAMBLING RAIDS OPEN POLITICAL WARFARE

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Boyle is in Paris. Until his copy arrives, Mr. William Pfarr will conduct his daily column.)

A GENTLEMAN who should know reports that the best entertainment in New York today was written by a Pittsburgher, George S. Kaufman. It's a sketch entitled "The Firemen" in "The Little Show," which is a first-rate sophisticated revue. Kaufman daily grows more important to the theater. He has written a half-dozen hits with Marc Connelly (McKeesports best playwright) and Edna Ferber. He directed "The Front Page" (and it was swell direction). He wrote the book for the Marx Brothers' "Cocoanuts," and he still writes of the theater for the New York Times. At the moment he and Ring Lardner are busy collaborating on one of Lardner's short stories, "Some Like Them Cold," for the stage.

His clothes remind you of the late Whoopee McGurk's. He sleeps in the Court House yard. The other night rain chased him to cover, so he straggled over to the Morgue and, unseen, crawled into the morgue ambulance. For a bed he used the morgue basket, designed for the late and lamented.

During the night a call came from New Kensington for the ambulance. At a New Kensington undertaker's, ambulance attaches reached for the basket to deposit the proper passenger.

They discovered him, sleeping but alive. They dumped him into the highway. He walked back.

AT Kennywood Park's swimming pool they frown on one-piece suits and we'd like to be able to say that when Boss Brady McSwigan goes to Atlantic City he wears a one-piecer himself . . . but we don't know . . . We do know that Bino Bower, who paints portraits of nephews masterfully, was arrested for speeding . . .

in a 1926 Ford . . . And Sidewalks was wrong when it printed the exclusive story that a bolt had been added to the Cathedral of Learning . . . It was a nut.

If you're interested in the boxoffice and professional angle of theaters, read Harold Cohen's Pittsburgh stuff in Variety . . . And if you'd care to hear a dirty dig, ask the wit who said, when he learned who was pinch-hitting for Boyle, "Well, they oughta call it 'Alleys of Pittsburgh" . . . It's easy to report Counsellor John M. Haverty who insists that you can't fly an ocean unless you have Standard Steel propellers . . . But it's not so easy to advise Councilman Garland, the papa of daylight saving, to spend that extra 60 minutes practicing his drive at Stanton Heights.

Anonymous contribution: "There," said John Bozo, lamping the town's master of ceremonies, "but for the grace of heaven goes me" . . .

Hot billiard news: Charlie Ellis announces that, because of the change in temperature, caring for billiard balls in the summer is a man's size job.

"SAY," said a corpulent chap approaching the room clerk's wicket at the William Penn Hotel, "There isn't any running water in my room!"

"Well," well-welled the amazed clerk, "Why not?"

"Ha," ha-hawed the corpulent guest, "I just turned it off!"

They fell out of their chairs all over the lobby.

COUNTY MORGUE BUILDING MOVING INTO SIGHT OF NEW LOCATION

Moving at the rate of one foot each three minutes, the county morgue building, 5,000 tons of granite, is in sight of the end of its 267-foot journey on rollers. Within three weeks, as this illustration shows, the building will have ended its trip.

SCHOOL FIELD SALE MEETS OPPOSITION

Controversy at Bellevue Revived by Trade Board Offer; New School Needed

The proposal by Burgess W. J. Longmore, of Bellevue, that the borough purchase the high school athletic field is not likely to be accepted by the school board, in the opinion of George W. Judd, president.

A controversy over use of the field led to abandonment of the Fourth of July celebration.

In a recent communication to council Burgess Longmore expressed the view that the field should be bought by council and fitted up as a playground for children.

"I cannot answer for other members of the board" said Mr. Judd, "but my own feeling is that it would be inadvisable for the board to sell the athletic field. It is the only field suitable for football. The high school also is planning track events next year.

Veterans of P. R. R. Hold Annual Picnic

A special train today carried many Pittsburghers to the ninth annual outing of the Veteran Employes' Association, Eastern division, Pennsylvania Railroad, at Meyers Park, Canton, O.

LIEUT. MALONE SEEKS OFFICE

Politics in Pittsburgh during the fall fight will have a decidely Malone flavor.

With James F. Malone, of the Fifth Ward, already a candidate for Mayor, Thomas D. Malone, of the Twentieth Ward, today entered the field of battle, with a favorable nod at members of the Police Veterans Association, who have asked him to run for Council.

Thomas D. Malone, of 3133 Jean street, Sheraden, will seek the place now held by W. Y. English, member of Council from the West End. He is not related to the candidate for Mayor.

A former member of the Legislature, having served there in 1909, later as assistant superintendent of police and now lieutenant of detectives, Malone was one of the founders of the Police Association. For 16 years he has been representative for the Police Pension Fund.

CONSTABLES ARREST MANY

County Aids When Officers Complain Police Refuse To Disperse 'Hill' Crowds

A sweeping "clean up" campaign by raiding constables appeared today as the vehicle for opening of the political skirmishing in lower wards.

While constables from the offices of Alderman Thomas Flanigan and John J. Verona continued raiding in the Hill district today, following arrests last night, petitions were presented in court for appointment of four deputies in the Second Ward and a constable in the Fourth Ward.

COUNTY SENDS AID

A crowd gathered at Whitcomb and Townsend streets today when constables raided an alleged lottery headquarters. The constables complained to county detectives that police refused to disperse the throng which was interfering with the raid. Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren sent several sleuths to aid.

Three Negroes were arrested as proprietors. The same constables a few minutes later raided another alleged lottery plant at 55 Washington street and arrested Louis Price.

Attorney Samuel Rosenberg presented a petition in court for appointment of four deputy constables in the Second Ward to be attached to the office of Alderman Flanigan.

"What do you need so many deputies for?" asked Judge Frank P. Patterson.

"We want to clean up the ward," replied Rosenberg.

FOUR DEPUTIES SOUGHT

Those whose appointments were sought were Leonard G. Delp, John P. Sullivan, Frank Keefe and Eugene Ford.

Michael V. Conroy was named in a petition as the Verona choice for constable of the Fourth Ward. Coleman Coyne, brother of State Senator James Coyne, also seeks appointment. George McFarland, a deputy, filed as the independent applicant. The court indicated a hearing would be held two weeks from today.

RAID BREWERY IN MT. OLIVER

Prohibition agents yesterday raided an alleged wildcat brewery in a one-story frame garage in the rear of 709 Brownsville road, Mt. Oliver, and seized 1,500 gallons of beer and 2,000 gallons of beer mash, they reported. The plant was valued at $8,000 by the agents.

William Shaffer, 42, arrested in the raid, was lodged in the Central Police Station, agents said.

In a shed in the rear of 1009 Bedford avenue, the raiders reported finding a 25-gallon still and another of five-gallon capacity. Nobody was in the place at the time of the raid.

Joseph Bennett, 30, alleged saloonkeeper, of 92 South Twenty-sixth street, and Vesper Taylor, 26, of 53 Arthur street, were arrested, it was said, after moonshine had been seized in their places.

CHILD AND MAN FOUND KILLED

Deputy coroners and county detectives today were endeavoring to learn how Edward Noel, 49, of 604 Seventh street, Trafford, suffered a fractured skull which caused his death late yesterday in the Braddock General Hospital.

He was found unconscious on the Pitcairn-Trafford road by motorists some hours before.

A theory that Noel may have been a victim of robbers was advanced after Mrs. Noel informed authorities that her husband had $50 when he left home Monday night. No money was in his clothing when he was found.

CHILD KILLED

Wandering from her home Sarah Jane McGee, 2, of No. 2 Mine, near Castle Shannon, was killed by an interurban street car yesterday afternoon. The child left her home and strolled onto the car tracks when the trolley struck her.

The motorman saw her and made a futile attempt to stop the trolley. The child was caught under the front wheel.

CITY WILL ASK FIRE COST

Efforts to collect $602, the estimated cost of extinguishing a fire in the butcher shop of Sam Benjamin, 5170 Butler street, March 27, will be made by the City of Pittsburgh at the direction of Director of Public Safety James M. Clark.

After the finding of the body of James Lomeo in the basement of the shop an investigation disclosed, it is alleged, the fire to have been of incendiary origin. This, under an act of 1915, gives the city the right to collect for the fire, Clark claims, and he put the bill in the hands of Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd today for collection.

MOVING PERMIT GIVEN KDKA

Radio Station KDKA of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company was granted final permission by the Federal Radio Commission to move its transmitter from East Pittsburgh to a point about 26 miles northeast of Pittsburgh near Saxonburg. Field tests carried out on the new site have assured Westinghouse engineers that it is the best of several considered.

The site selected is a 90-acre tract one and one-tenth miles south of Saxonburg and 15 miles southeast of Butler on an elevated table land. The altitude is about 1,300 feet, about 100 feet higher than the present transmitter. Exhaustive surveys of the contour of the land through field observations and government topographical maps have revealed that the new location is the highest near Pittsburgh of the desired surface contour.

Radio frequency tests are still being made on the site in order to determine the exact characteristics of the site. These tests have shown that the presence of hills have an effect on the signal strength of a station and indicate that the new location should be an excellent one for KDKA.

That KDKA would construct a powerful new transmitter at Saxonburg was the content of a story printed exclusively in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph several weeks ago.

POSTS TO GET RELIEF FUND

The Homewood Post of the American Legion has received word from Paul V. McNutt, national commander, it was said today, that a national emergency fund for the use of legion posts during relief work, is being built up.

Commander McNutt pointed out in his communication, it was said, that in the past legion posts have not only furnished man-power for rescue work, but that they have had to furnish funds from the very pockets of the legionnaires doing the work.

The fund will be established to prevent recurrence of such a condition, it was said. The Homewood post already has a permanent emergency corps, but to date no funds have been available for the work. In the future it is planned to have the national treasurer distribute money from the emergency fund on orders of the national commander.

AIR MAIL FALLS OFF HERE

Air mail handled on the Pittsburgh-Cleveland route during June dropped 428 pounds below the amount handled in May, and 6,011 pounds handled in April, according to figures announced by the Post-office Department in Washington. A total of 5,891 pounds was handled during June.

One reason assigned to the decrease in business was the fact that June contained five Sundays, and was one day shorter than May.

ARREST YOUTH, GIRL ACCUSER

Charles Keefe, 22, of 117 South Twenty-first street, was arrested by North Side police late last night as a suspicious person after he was alleged to have attempted to attack Anna McKune, 18, of 19 Letsche street. The girl was arrested charged with disorderly conduct.

Police say the couple met at a dancing academy at Erie and Federal street. A short time later the girl's screams attracted a policeman, who arrested them.

Leaders Installed By Salvation Army

More than 100 visiting officers of the Salvation Army attended the installation last night of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Charles B. Campbell as commanders of the Western Pennsylvania Division in the Army headquarters, 425 Second avenue. Col. Campbell succeeds Lieut. Col. Joseph Atkinson, who has been made provincial commander of New England. Speakers were the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, and Adjt. George Brooks. Col. W. F. The fifth of a series of community church services will be held next Sunday night on the lawn of the North Boroughs Y. M. C. A., Lincoln avenue, Bellevue. The speaker will be the Rev. Raymond B. Drukker, pastor of the Forest Avenue United Presbyterian Church.

The Dorcas Sunday School class of Trinity Lutheran Church, Avalon, will meet tonight in the home of Miss Elizabeth Karthauser, 312 South Birmingham avenue, Avalon. Mrs. Helen H. Geiser is the teacher.

Missionary to Sail For Africa Aug. 21

George Gustav Hemminger, 22, of 626 Reed street, McKeesport, will sail from New York, August 21, for West Africa, where he will enter the missionary field. Hemminger is a member of the Free Gospel Mission of McKeesport, and became interested in the West African missions which the Gospel Church supports. During the three years that he expects to serve as a missionary, Hemminger's object will be to instruct the natives in civilized modes of living rather than promote the creed of his church, he said.

Picnic to Be Held By Sunday School

The Sunday School class of the Brushton Methodist Episcopal Church will hold its annual picnic Saturday afternoon in Highland Park. There will be a program of athletic games and a basket luncheon. The committee in charge is comprised of S. O. Klingler, James Wilson and Warren T. Barton, Sunday School superintendent. The Rev. C. J. Chilcote is pastor of the church.

The fifth annual outing of Lutheran Churches of Western Pennsylvania will be held in Cascade Park, New Castle, next Thursday.

U. S. Planes Going to Canada's Air Exhibit

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(INS.)—A squadron of the First Pursuit Group at Selfridge Field, Mich., will be sent to Toronto, Can., September 5 on invitations of the Canadian government to participate in the National Air Exhibition on that date, the War Department announced today. The squadron will consist of 19 pursuit planes and one transport plane, under command of Maj. Ralph Royce.

CROWDS WATCH MORGUE MOVE

Moving at the pace of one foot each three minutes, the Allegheny County Morgue building is on its journey from Diamond street with the expectation of reaching Fourth avenue by Saturday.

And it's playing to capacity crowds. Observers report that the operation is attracting larger crowds than any downtown construction in years. Daily hundreds line the sidewalks to watch the snail-like progress of the building.

Sixty-six feet was covered from Diamond street yesterday in the first actual moving operation towards its new site. There are 55 feet more to travel before the structure will reach the north curb of Fourth avenue. Following this operation, it is expected by the contractors, Kress-Oravetz House Moving Company, that three weeks will be needed to lower the building seven feet, which will leave it ready to move across the throughfare.

The total distance which the morgue building will be moved to its new site is 267 feet. Several weeks ago it was moved 32 feet towards Ross street in preparation for this week's operations.

Man Quizzed Here In Slaying of Six

Two Detroit detectives, who yesterday interviewed Louis Evangelista, living near Coraopolis, obtained what they termed valuable information regarding the slaying of Paul Evangelista, his wife and four children in their home in Detroit, July 3. The Detroit officers were accompanied by Allegheny County detectives who located Louis Evangelista for them, and after questioning the latter, the visitors left for New York.

Juniors Win in Bible School Test

The Young People's and Junior departments of the Sunday School of the Bellevue Christian Church, have been declared winners by Supt. J. V. Schrock in an attendance contest with three adult classes, Bethany and Delta Alpha women's classes and the Men's Bible class. Robert Stewart was captain of the young people's forces and Edward F. According to the police reports, Pastorias driving his truck east on Bingham street, crowded the machine driven by John Rodgers, 20, of Bellaire avenue, who was westbound on the same street. R. E. Hilton, 50, of Lindview avenue, who was driving east, also figured in the collisions.

The 18-Day Diet Again

In response to an unabated flood of requests, the Sun-Telegraph is reprinting in daily installments Hollywood's 18-day diet, first presented to Sun-Telegraph readers by Louella O. Parsons, motion picture critic and writer.

FOURTH DAY

Breakfast—One-half grapefruit, melba toast, coffee; lunch, pot cheese, 1 tomato, ½ grapefruit, 1 slice melba toast, tea or coffee; dinner, broiled steak, watercress, ½ grapefruit.

Melba toast is made by cutting white bread very thin—less than one-fourth inch—toasting it very slowly in oven under low fire until crisp and toasted all the way through and then buttering it as desired.

(The fifth day's installment of the diet will be published Friday).

Will Rogers in London

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 11.

I just come from the Culver City flying field, where those two fliers had been up in the air longer than a tariff commission. They were on their ninth day, they would have gone some place, but there wasn't no place far enough to go to.

Lindy and Annie landed here with a stage coach full of New Yorkers. Why don't some of these trans-Atlantic fliers announce that they are headed for Spain. They all land there and that would make their trip look like a success.

Germany launches an airplane tomorrow (not a dirigible), that seats 100, so we still got a long way to go to catch Europe in aviation.

Yours, WILL.

PITT LIBERAL LEADERS HELD IN COMMUNIST RAID

POLICE STOP NORTH SIDE MEETING

Ousted Student and Co-ed, With Red Organizer, Base Pleas on 'Free Speech'

Echoes of free speech arguments that caused the passing of the Liberal Club at the University of Pittsburgh were heard in Morals Court today when two former members were arraigned with an organizer and spectator arrested in a raid of a Communist meeting.

William Albertson, 19, of 222 Coltart square, ousted Pitt student and one of the leaders of the Liberal Club fracas, and Miss Frieda Truhar, 18, of 2503 Arlington avenue, secretary of the former organization and a Pitt freshman, were held over with Samuel Herman, 22, of 805 James street, organizer of the Communist Youth League, by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg on charges of illegally holding a meeting last night at Union avenue and East Ohio street, without a permit.

CARPENTER RELEASED

L. A. Weeks, a carpenter, of 1301 Federal street, arrested on charge of making uncomplimentary remarks to arresting officers, was discharged.

According to Patrolman Ernest Whitworth, who was aided in the arrests Patrolman William Poland, Albertson was making a soapbox address in behalf of the Communist League. When told he was under arrest for failure to secure a permit, Albertson submitted and upon leaving the box was followed by Herman, according to Whitworth. The latter speaker was then arrested and Miss Truhar attempted speak. Her arrest followed.

DECISION DEFERRED

Albertson admitted to Magistrate Rothenberg that he had not had a permit and considered it a right of free speech insured by the Constitution. He said the meeting was for the purpose of arousing sympathy for the Gastonia (N. C.) strikers.

Attorney Henry Ellenberg, of the Union Civil Liberties League, represented the prisoners and asked the cases be dismissed on the grounds of the right of free speech. Magistrate Rothenberg answered the constitutional right was not a question in the case, but that the prisoners violated a city ordinance.

The magistrate set next Tuesday for the decision.

BEATEN, PLANS SUITS AGAINST POLICEMAN

Officer Accused of Hitting Man Who Asked Patrol Keep Off Home Driveway

Attorney Henry Ellenbogen will bring civil and criminal court actions against Wagonman Thomas Kirly, he said today, because of an alleged attack last Monday on John Kuchta, of 3245 Arlington avenue.

Kuchta, who is confined to his bed, says that Wagonman Kirly knocked him unconscious because he told the policeman he did not want him to run the patrol wagon attached to the South Side Police Station into his driveway to turn it around. Kuchta denies the police version that he interfered with the arrest of two men on a charge of reckless driving.

LIBERTIES UNION ACTS

In the meantime, the American Civil Liberties Union has demanded an investigation, and as soon as the letter is received, Mayor Charles H. Kline, James M. Clark, director of the Department of Public Safety, and Peter P. Walsh, superintendent of police, will start an investigation, they said.

Kuchta said today that he first stopped above his house, where the police had arrested Thomas Morris, of 2507 Cobden street, and George Short, of 1209 Theona street, for reckless driving, and then went to his own home. When the patrol wagon arrived at the Kuchta residence, Kuchta says, he requested the policemen not to drive into his runway to turn the police car.

Kuchta says that Kirly immediately struck him on the left eye, knocking him unconscious, and then struck him a number of times while Kuchta was in the patrol wagon. Kuchta's statement was corroborated today by Frank Heller, a neighbor, of 3243 Arlington avenue.

VETERAN RAILROADER

According to Kuchta, Wagonman Kirly told him, "You are not going to boss me," when he made the request not to use the driveway, which is being filled in and repaired.

Kuchta has been employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad for the last 17 years, and now is working in Homestead for the railroad company as a car inspector.

Kuchta is being nursed by his daughter, Rosalia Kuchta, 14. In the meantime on the South Side Police Station docket he is charged with resisting and attacking an officer and disorderly conduct.

CITY ACCUSED OF 'BAD FAITH' IN GARBAGE DEAL

SALE DELAYED BY EVANS' CLAIMS

Gillespie Charges Violation Of Contract in Branding Audit of Books 'Grotesque'

John Gillespie, of Detroit, who is about to assume ownership of the American Reduction Company, today accused the City of Pittsburgh of bad faith in withholding payments of $275,000 due the company for garbage collection in May and June. Controller H. O. Evans is not abiding by the contract, Gillespie declared.

He came to Pittsburgh today to close the transaction for the purchase of the company from the George H. Flinn estate, for which the Colonial Trust Company is executor. The deal was to have been consummated yesterday, but complications that have arisen as a result of the city's filing claims against the company for $1,000,000 alleged excess charges under the cost-plus system have caused delay.

LACKS CASH RESERVE

Gillespie said he expected to wind up the negotiations this week, pay for the stock, and assume ownership and management on Monday. The board, composed of George H. Flinn, Jr., C. R. McMillen, William F. Hill and D. C. Jones, will resign, and a new board representing Gillespie and headed by him as chairman, will be elected. New officers will also be elected. Hill will be retained as president and McMillen will be vice president.

"Our first problem," said Gillespie, "will be how to operate without money. We have no big reserves, but are dependent on the money the city owes us for service."

Gillespie said the city's claims were grotesque and that the audit on which they were based has been poorly done. He cited, as an instance, that the auditors found the company had spent money for radio sets for employes, but failed to follow the transactions through. If they had done so, he asserted, they would have found the employes reimbursed the company. This was a comparatively trifling item, Gillespie said, but was a good illustration of the manner in which he declared the accountants worked.

COUNCIL DISCUSSION

The question of paying the company for current service was to be discussed at a council meeting today.

Controller Henry O. Evans advised Council at a conference yesterday not to authorize payment of the May and June bills until the company had met other requirements.

Council referred the request to City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt and asked him to collaborate with Evans in a recommendation to be submitted at today's meeting.

Council also has authorized Evans to engage special counsel to prosecute litigation to recover all the money claimed to be owed to the city.

AID QUESTIONED

Council questioned the retaining of special counsel, since the city employs a legal department costing a substantial amount in lawyers' salaries.

Replying to a direct question, Waldschmidt said his department could handle the pending litigation.

However, he and Evans declared that precedent justified special counsel in a case of the apparent proportions of the pending suit.

One of the requirements that Evans demanded of the company before current bills were paid, and one that so far has not been met, was that the company should not declare another dividend, reduce its assets in any other way or sell the property, until the city's claims had been determined by the courts.

Dr. C. B. Maits, health director, in charge of the garbage and rubbish activity, declared that he had the assurance of the company that the collection of refuse would be continued on a normal basis regardless of the city's attitude toward current bills.

Guard Camp Sidelights

MT. GRETNA, Pa., July 11.—The rattling of ivories used in that well-known game of African golf is going to be heard in many a tent of the boys from Battery F tonight. This morning the artillerymen from this outfit were paid for attending drills during the past year at Pittsburgh. Many of the boys have been taken over since coming here and have been financially embarrased. With the B. R. replenished, if such sounds as "Baby Come to Papa," "Snake Eyes," "Box Cars" or "Come Seven" are heard, the sentries will know that Battery F is functioning.

Privates Jarl Gustafson and Regis (Mickey) Ryan, of Battery B, had a few minutes off yesterday. They decided to take a swim in one of the numerous ponds here. Hanging their clothes on a limb of a tree, the artillerymen hit the cooling waters of the pond. Dressing, the two started back to quarters. They had not gone far when Ryan gave a jump and a screech. It appears that a wasp or a bee had got mixed up in Ryan's breeches and failed to get out before he donned them. At mess today Ryan's place was vacant. He was later found eating from a table in the kitchen. And he was standing up.

Orchid pajamas are o. k. in elite society. In Battery B they are taboo. Last night Corp. Joseph Ruminsky was found wearing a pair. He's not going to spoil this outfit by wearing "them things," two of his pals said, as Ruminsky's cot was carefully picked up while he slept and carried to the pond. Splash and the corporal woke up. Dripping wet, he returned to his tent. The pajamas were found in the Battery street.

TERRIFIC STORM SWEEPS CAMP AT GRETNA

Soldiers Kept By as Wind Threatens Tents; Vigorous Training Work Continued

By FRANK J. SHENKEL, Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

CAMP THOMPSON, Mt. Gretna, Pa., July 11.—Cool weather prevailed here today. A heavy lightning and rain storm struck the camp of the Twenty-eighth Division, National Guard of Pennsylvania, commanded by Maj. Gen. William G. Price, Jr., late last night and for more than an hour the storm raged.

The wind gained in velocity until for a time it was feared that it would wreck the camp. At division headquarters, two tents were grounded. Over at the camp of the One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery Regiment, under the command of Col. Eric Fisher Wood, Pittsburgh, another tent was blown from its moorings.

Guardsmen were on the job, however. Wearing rubber boots and slickers, the tents were quickly erected again. Tent pegs and guy ropes of other tents which looked as though they would be blown down, were made more secure.

The day broke clear and cool. It was a relief, since the weather had been sweltering.

VARIED SCHEDULE

Today's training schedule opened without a hitch. Early this morning, members of the various branches of the service left camp to continue maneuvers. Throughout the large military reservation an air of activity prevailed. The novelty of camp life has worn off now and the citizen soldiers are now taking things as a matter of course.

Members of the Pittsburgh regiment had a varied but interesting training schedule today. Starting at 6 o'clock this morning, five members of each of the six firing batteries of the regiment, with six officers, left camp for the machine gun range, about a mile from the camp area, to participate in machine gun firing. Incidentally, this is the first time in the history of the One Hundred and Seventh Regiment during an encampment that the artillerymen had the opportunity to actually fire the machine guns.

This morning the artillerymen went through the maneuver with infantrymen. In the afternoon they were to be alone on the range. They had noon mess on the range.

BUSY DAY FOR OFFICERS

While this group was on the range, other members of the regiment were being instructed in draft. The officers of the outfit also had a strenuous day. Following mess this morning, Col. Wood with his aide, Loeut. Harry Armour, and members of the technical staff of the regiment, went to brigade headquarters where they studied maps of the surrounding country in preparation to the "big push," which will take place next week.

Alleged Pugilist Beaten Up By Brother of His Boy Victim in Wild Scuffle

George Redlinger, 11, of 1120 Warrington avenue, was nursing cuts and bruises today from being hurled down a flight of steps at St. Thomas street and Warrington avenue by John Bartell, 23, an alleged pugilist, of Mt. Oliver street, yesterday afternoon, police said.

Bartell, drink crazed, according to the officers, was captured by Joseph Redlinger, 20, the victim's brother, who, with his mother, Mrs. Anna Redlinger, held him until police arrived. Bartell suffered a fractured nose in the scuffle with the older Redlinger, who witnessed the abuse of his brother.

After riding the Twelfth street incline for two hours, Bartell attacked Daniel W. George, the operator at the head of the incline, police asserted.

Bartell was fined $50 with the alternative of serving 30 days in the workhouse by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Morals Court today.

When a Glacier Moves

THE general belief that a glacier moves slowly and smoothly down a mountainside has been shattered. Investigations covering seventeen years have shown ice fields move forward with spasmodic jerks as stress accumulates.

FOREST LOVE

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy and Roger Return To His Rough Cabin In the Mountains

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Hollenbeck, though young and beautiful, is poor. Her mother, of a socially accepted family, married a poor man. She warns Nancy against this "mistake." Nancy, becoming cynical, gives up handsome Mat Tully and begins an affair with Jack Beamer, married to wealth. He plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a trip to Yellowstone, Nancy meets Roger Decatur, a ranger, who falls in love with her. Nancy tells him she will only marry for wealth. She prepares to leave the mountain camp and rejoin her Aunt Ellie. On a hike with Roger he declares his love and Nancy admits her love for him. When Nancy misses the bus, Roger tells her they will be married at once. Aunt Ellie and Louise, at home with Mrs. Hollenbeck, wonder at Nancy's continued absence. In Reno on their honeymoon, Roger pleads with Nancy to write her mother of their marriage.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVII.

NANCY thought she hated Reno. "We can't leave too soon to please me!" she told Roger, over and over.

"I'll be just as glad to get out of here as you'll be, honey," he said, and she knew that he was hurrying, trying to finish the work that had brought him there.

On the fourth afternoon he went over to the Riverside Hotel to meet two government officials motoring south. It seemed funny to think of Roger at the Riverside while she waited in their hot little home on the other side of town.

"I wish we'd gone there and taken a chance," she told herself for the hundredth time. "It would have been exciting to be over there where all the really smart people stay." . . . But that might have meant a meeting with the Porters, or Jack Beamer's wife, and Nancy wasn't really ready for that. She wore Roger Decatur's ring on her finger, an unimpressive platinum band. . . . Jack Beamer would have given her a circlet of diamonds or emeralds, not that she cared, she insisted loyally. She'd rather wear Roger's utiliarian wedding ring than a pear-shaped diamond from Jack . . . still . . . plenty of time to 'tell about it. In spite of "Mrs. Decatur" on the hotel register, and moments when she could hardly remember that she had ever been single, she still thought of herself as Nancy Hollenbeck. Sometimes she found herself planning, "When I go home . . ." But of course she wasn't going home, she was going on with Roger, forever and ever.

And whenever she thought of life without him her knees felt weak, and she wanted to cry. She did cry a little this afternoon, thinking of him at the Riverside, hobnobbing with notables, beautiful jeweled divorcees passing in and out, and she stuck in this dingy, ugly little room!

But she knew it was silly, so she bathed her reddened eyes and put on her best dress, the beige crepe de chine, and went for a walk.

The loungers in the lobby turned and stared after her. "I suppose they think I'm a divorcee, too!" she thought, and the very idea of it amused her so that she looked right at a fat man in a loud checked suit, and laughed.

Where can you walk in a strange town? Nancy followed the main street past rows of pleasant-looking homes, and over a bridge. She didn't know which way to go then, so she walked back on the other side of the street, and reached the hotel half an hour later, hot, tired and cross.

It was such a relief to find Roger back and waiting for her that she fairly flung herself into his arms, rubbing her hot, pink cheeks against his cool, brown one, showering him with absurd, mumbling kisses. "Roger, I do love you, but I hate this horrid place. Can't we go soon?"

Roger held her at arm's length. His whole face was shining. Every bit of him, from his crisp yellow hair to his polished brown boots radiated good news.

He said, "Nancy, old girl, we're going back to the tall timbers. I'm all through here. We're going home."

Home was a ranger's cabin, perched, precariously, Nancy thought, on the barren mountain side.

"But I thought . . . trees . . ." she began a little uncertainly, knowing that she was expected to like it, and feeling lost for words.

"Oh, we're up above the timber line," Roger exulted. "Look! We're on top of the world. You can see all over the valley. There's Mt. Dana, and there's Glacier, and Nancy . . . the timber is in the way, but beyond the green lie the Meadows . . . our meadows, Nancy, where we found each other—see!"

Nancy followed his finger, but it all looked alike to her. One peak was all jagged and rocky as another. It was all too big and strange to be familiar and friendly.

"I wish we were back in the Meadows," she said, wistfully.

"But this is my place, honey. This—this is home!"

"Yes, and I'm going to love it!" she promised warmly, holding tight to his hand. (Oh, Roger, don't leave me . . . . don't leave me alone in this lonely place!)

He was so proud of the interior, of his own crude but not inartistic attempts to make it home-like. He pointed out the book cases made of packing boxes, the barrel chair, the kitchen cupboard, the Navajo rugs. "I tell you there aren't many fellows who could bring a girl into a cabin without planning ahead of time!"

"I'll bet there aren't!" she marvelled, patting the pillows on the neat army cots, straightening a pile of old magazines. And inwardly she was wailing, "Oh why doesn't he bring in the bags, and show me where to wash? Oh dear, he's so fresh and enthusiastic, and I'm so tired and dirty!"

She took off the hat, the lovely brown hat that had been new a few short weeks ago, and was dusty and out of shape already. In the bright afternoon light from the biggest window he saw with a guilty start that she was very pale and there were dark circles under her soft brown eyes.

"Why didn't you tell me you were tired?" he cried hotly, snatching her off her feet and depositing her tenderly in the barrel chair. "Lord, I'm so used to it I never stop to think how far it is . . . poor kid, you're all in!"

"I'm all right. I'm not the least bit tired," she lied happily, snuggling back against the pillows he piled behind her. Her heart melted. She looked at him with love and pride. Tall, bronzed Roger with the strong, gentle hands and the funny sunburned hair, lighter than his brown skin. While he went into the leanto kitchen and started dinner she lay back on her pillows, eyes closed . . . happy . . . happy . . . Presently she smelled coffee, and the pungent smoke of sizzling bacon. Lying there, half asleep, she almost thought she was home again, in her own room, and Louise getting papa's breakfast in the kitchen downstairs.

Louise read Nancy's last letter again. Not a word about when she was coming home. Not a bit of news in it, either. What was the matter with the Porters, staying so long in Reno? And why was Nancy staying so long with them?

Mamma couldn't understand it either. Now that Aunt Ellie had gone home and she didn't have to make custards and junkets for her, she had twice as much time on her hands, and twice as much opportunity to worry.

With the summer drawing to a close any number of smart functions were under way, and Nancy wasn't there. May Belle Craig was going to finish her Russian River season with a Venetian Water carnival. Cora Craig dropped in to remind them of it, and asked again for Nancy.

While her motor with the liveried Oscar waited outside, she drank three cups of mamma's best jasmine tea, and her sharp eyes darted about the shabby room, resting now on the worn place in the carpet, now on the mahogany chair with the cracked rung, then back to mamma's old brown silk dress with the patch under the arm, that she hadn't had time to change.

Louise, pretending to be wrapt in her music at the piano at the other end of the room, heard and winced at every word of Mrs. Craig's fashionable gossip, knowing how mamma was suffering because she couldn't boast about her girls.

Mabel . . . Gil Neal . . . the Sydney Taft's tea . . . Mabel's new cerise velvet evening coat. . . . .

She ought to be shot, the old crow, rubbing it into mamma that way, Louise thought, angrily, striking loud chords in the hope of drowning her out.

But above Lou's music, above mamma's timid offer of more tea, Mrs. Craig's voice rose determinedly:

"By the way, I met that Porter woman who took Nancy to the High Sierras. She was at the Prescott's garden party yesterday, though why they invited the creature I don't understand. Common! My dear Kitty, she's the most ordinary—"

Louise fumbled, choked and looked appealingly at mamma.

Miss Pru Wins — By D. R. SCOVILLE — Daily Short Story

JONATHAN WELLINGTON chewed on his long, black cigar and scowled at the little white house next door.

"No reason why she can't sell and move somewhere else," he fumed to Mr. Weeks, the real estate agent from down in the village. "Just wants me to boost my price, that's all — well, I won't!" he growled, "I've offered three times what the place is worth now."

Mr. Weeks sighed. "She says she won't sell at any price."

"Humph!" snorted Mr. Wellington. "Money'll buy most anything in this world."

Mr. Weeks shook his head. "It won't buy Miss Pru's house," he said. "The Randall's have owned that place since old Cap'n Randall built it."

"What difference does that make?" grumped Mr. Wellington. "Her house spoils my view and I want that point of land."

"Well, I've done all I can," Mr. Weeks turned toward the door. "Why don't you try?" he suggested as a parting shot.

Mr. Wellington glared after him then accepted his challenge. "All right—I will!" he barked at the retreating Mr. Weeks, "and I'll settle all this palavering!"

Miss Pru saw Mr. Wellington coming up her path and her thin lips thinned to a firm line. She waited until he had knocked twice before she laid down her mending and went calmly to the door.

"Come in, Mr. Wellington," she invited serenely. "I have been expecting you."

Mr. Wellington sniffed. Been expecting him, had she? Probably had her price all ready. He followed her through the wide, old-fashioned hall, with its braided rag rugs, past the winding stairway, to the parlor. A high-ceilinged room with a faint musty odor, as though the windows were not often raised.

Miss Pru sat down on the haircloth sofa while Mr. Wellington gingerly lowered himself into a slippery chair. A marble-topped table with a huge, gold-embossed Bible on it stood between them.

"Mr. Weeks told me you wanted this place very much," Miss Pru began.

"I do," Mr. Wellington stated briefly.

"And Mr. Weeks has probably told you it was not for sale."

"He did," Mr. Wellington agreed. "But I am willing to pay you well."

Miss Pru shook her head. "We Randalls seldom change our minds, Mr. Wellington."

"Neither does a Wellington," he retorted.

Mr. Wellington realized that the interview was over and left with a rather ungracious "Good day."

Back in his own home with its coldly correct furnishings, selected by one of New York's best interior decorators, Mr. Wellington meditated upon the ways of women in general, and after due consideration laid his plans accordingly.

"Hanb'ry, what is the shortest way to win a woman?" Mr. Wellington questioned his valet while dressing for dinner that evening.

"Flatter 'er, sir," announced Hanbery after a moment's thought.

"Exactly," approved Mr. Wellington, as he went down to his solitary meal.

Two days later he saw Miss Pru puttering in her old-fashioned garden, and he wandered over leisurely.

"That's a beautiful garden you have, Miss Randall."

She beamed at him. "My grandmother started it," she said. "Some of the plants she brought home from foreign ports when she went on the whaleship with my grandfather." She touched a little gray plant with a scarlet bud. "This one came from India."

Mr. Wellington expressed his wonder, and Miss Pru expanded. They talked in the garden an hour or more, until the sun cast a warning shadow on the bronze sundial.

"Sometime I'll show you other things she brought back, if you'd care to see them," invited Miss Pru. "Come over for tea," she urged.

Mr. Wellington accepted with a smug grin. He had outwitted too many men to allow a lone woman to stand in his way.

Miss Pru smiled to herself, too, as she watched her neighbor's well-fed figure disappear through her lilac hedge. Next morning she baked cookies—fat, gingery ones and crisp sugar wafers made by her grandmother's recipe.

They sat in the parlor, but first she took him all over the house; showed him her grandfather's battered old sea chest that had carried home so many treasures; told how the mellow old secretary had been brought from England as a wedding gift; pointed out the graceful prism candleholders and the hand-made pewter ones, the carved whalebone and ivory — trinkets from the seven seas; invaluable bits with a story attached to each one.

Together, Miss Pru, staid New England spinster, and Jonathan Wellington, shrewd Chicago banker, moved through the old house, laughing over some of the reminiscences, sighing over others and forgetting completely that the house was the chief bone of contention. At least, Mr. Wellington forgot it until Miss Pru led him to the parlor.

"You see, these are the things I value," she said simply. "They cannot be bought." Her thin hands moved evenly over the fragile tea service.

Jonathan Wellington did not reply. He was munching a cookie and looking out the window at the prim row of hollyhocks standing against the blue sky. It had suddenly occurred to him that his own house was filled with things that had no meaning. He had bought them at a price. There were no memories attached, no sentiment in their presence.

Miss Pru offered him candied ginger from a Chinese jar, and he noticed that the blue top matched the color of her eyes. Must be about his own age. Her gray hair was sprinkled with white just as his own. Those were good cookies. Not many women made cookies nowadays. Bakeries provided all that.

By midsummer a path was worn from Jonathan Wellington's big house to Miss Pru's little one. There was a hole in the lilac hedge where he could squeeze between the sturdy bushes.

It was late September when Mr. Weeks again called on Jonathan Wellington. Mr. Weeks had heard vague rumors which he wished to confirm. Then, too, he was leaving for Boston in a few days, and it was his custom to bid his wealthier clients a gracious farewell.

They had finished their long black cigars and had discussed a number of general topics when Mr. Wellington approached the very subject on Mr. Weeks' mind.

"By the way, Mr. Weeks, I wish you would put this place up for sale."

Mr. Weeks stared.

"I'm not going to want it," Mr. Wellington hesitated a moment. "You see, Prudence — er — Miss Randall — likes her own place better, and I do, too—she has things money can't buy over there—so that's where we'll live."

Mr. Weeks gulped once and recovered. "I congratulate you, Mr. Wellington. When is the event to be?"

"The event — oh, yes — why, we were married this morning at the parsonage." Mr. Wellington beamed.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Daughters of Eve

HO-HUM? It's so difficult to persuade a man that, these days, the most costly part of an evening gown is what's cut out at the back.

Some women seem to have a positive weakness for worthless, lightweight men. But what of it? Most men have a positive complex for that kind of women.

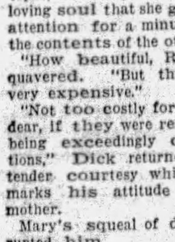
Ennui is that tired feeling a girl has, when the right man leaves at 10 o'clock, and the wrong man hangs around until closing time.



HELEN ROWLAND

Somehow, it is much easier to listen to a man when he is criticizing your faults, than when he is praising some other woman's charms.

A man's social distinction no longer depends upon his birth, culture or ancestry. It appears to depend mostly upon the number of motor cars he keeps, and the number of ex-wives to whom he can afford to pay alimony.

Many a man who takes a secret pride in his wife, seems to be afraid that she might suspect it, if he treated her with any flattering attention in public.

The world is like a roller coaster. Sit tight, keep your head, and hold onto nothing but your conscience, your independence and your ideals, and you'll land safely, somehow.

A man's idea of a thrifty wife, is one who can stretch out a dollar bill like a rubber band, and make it go all the way 'round the marketing. His idea of a reasonable wife is one who will be all ready, promptly, at the hour he appoints ,and then greet him with a smile of joy, when he arrives an hour later.

Man is more consistent than woman; yet he will talk brilliantly all evening on "efficiency"—and then forget to wind the clock, until after he puts out all the lights.

It has gotten so that it takes at least three divorces for a woman to attain distinction as a successful matrimonial failure.

THE HOOP OF FASHION

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

FASHION holds the hoop and and all her subjects willingly jump through it on her slightest word. She controls young and old, fat and thin, blonde and brunette, queen and peasant. None can refuse, none dare refuse her mandates. She is absolute empress of the feminine world.

One day she decrees "long hair." The next it's all kinds of bobs. Long skirts, then short. Slim silhouettes, then the molded figure. It keeps one dizzy trying to do everything she says. But—when she holds the hoop, through we go! Sometimes we land in a heap. Then we start all over again and do our best to live up to the last letter of her peremptory demands.

She's the most fickle jade that was ever known. sometimes we find ourselves saying, "Let her talk! I'm going to dress to suit myself!" But no sooner do we get the words out of our mouths, than presto! through the hoop we go, and there you are!

But let me tell you a secret! Use your imagination and whatever is most becoming to your own particular type, wear it. Adapt it to her decrees, but let your own individuality so shine forth that every one thinks you are the best dressed woman they know. And that's the real secret of charm!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, July 12.

CONFLICTING situations and occurrences abound in this day's affairs, according to the auguries of the stars. There are several excellent prospects of new projects, managed by bold initiative and good judgment, but tendencies toward craft and cleverness may bring defeat of the best intentions and ambitions. Anteward change or journey may also be regretable, and other adverse conditions may bring disruption, litigation or misunderstanding. Personal affairs are happy.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of excellent opportunity and much splendid initiative, but these may be clouded by unwise attempts at cleverness or misrepresentation. Likewise there may be hasty changes or travel, litigation or quick judgment. But with great discretion all may flourish.

A child born on this day may have a very contradictory character, possessing excellent talents, faculties and graces, but with an inclination to be smart or to misrepresent, unless given proper training in infancy.

He that intends well yet deprives himself of means to put his good thoughts into deeds, deceives his purpose of the due reward.—Beaumont and Fletcher.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Tells a Neat Story Concerning the Jewelry.

DICKY'S command to "look at the loot" in the jeweler's boxes which Junior had distributed to the women of our household was eagerly obeyed by Mother Graham, Katherine and Mary. Lillian and I opened ours more slowly for she, I was sure, shared my intuition concerning the contents of the boxes.

Mother Graham had untied the cord around her box before Dicky's mandate; so her gift was the first uncovered. Two beautiful filigree brooches, one set with an amethyst, the other with a topaz, so delighted her ornament-loving soul that she gave but scant attention for a minute or two to the contents of the other boxes.

"How beautiful, Richard?" she quavered. "But they must be very expensive."

"Not too costly for you, mother dear, if they were real, instead of being exceedingly clever imitations," Dick returned with the tender courtesy which generally marks his attitude toward his mother.

Mary's squeal of delight interrupted him.

"Oh! oh! Uncle Dicky, you darling!" she exclaimed, rushing at him and hugging him rapturously. In her hands were a choker necklace and earrings of cleverly simulated pink pearls and tiny diamonds.

"What is Marion's?" she asked with childish inquisitiveness, veering from Dicky to Lillian, who held up a set like Mary's, but of aqua-marines.

"Oh! how they'll bring out the color of her eyes!" Mary commented ecstatically. "But let's see the rest. Haven't you any curiosity, Auntie Madge?"

Thus challenged, there was nothing for me to do but to open my own box as I saw Lillian doing. Before me lay a long necklace and earrings, exactly like those I had seen decking Edith Fairfax, except that the stones of mine were the exquisite green of jade. A swift glance at the others told me that Katherine's gift was an exact replica of Edith's, with its blue stones like sapphires, while Lillian's held the deep, glowing red of rubies.

From somewhere I plucked out the courage to murmur, "How perfectly exquisite, Dicky!" adding to the general chorus of feminine ejaculations which filled the room. But it took all my strength of will to keep from hurling the beautiful baubles straight into Dicky's face, for I was sure that he had arranged this wholesale distribution of gifts in the excited minutes following my encounter with Edith, for the sole purpose of quieting any jealous qualms on my part.

Grateful indeed was I for the lazy, drawling, impudent comment which Harry Underwood contributed when Lillian held her gift out to him for inspection.

"There are only two explanations of this," he said. "Either this room is a wholesale junk shop or a fence for the 'international jewelry robbers' so beloved by our tabloids. Come clear, old carrot! Are you the 'master mind,' the 'Raffles' and all the rest of it, or what?"

"'What,'" Dicky retorted promptly with a laugh. "But I resent your term of 'wholesale junk,' although it's all anybody could expect from a low-brow like you, with no appreciation of art in your soul."

"Gramercy for the greens," his friend returned, "and get on with the explanation. Can't you see your lady friends holding their respective breaths?"

Dicky's gaze swept us with apparent carelessness, but as his eyes met mine squarely for the first time since our inopportune meeting in his office, I saw not only anxiety for my belief of his explanation, but also the sort of impish triumph with which a small boy invests his highly colored and deceiving account of some exploit.

"It's very simple," he said: "The man who is designing these things has a most romantic and genuine story, which Ede dug out when she copped an advertisement from the firm which employs him. She verified the story, and we're going to run a nice little spread in our next number with illustrations of some of the things. The people were so pleased—that they wanted to give me the ornaments we photographed.

"Of course I wouldn't accept that, but I did purchase them at cost. I gave Ede her pick because she got the ad and wrote the story, and then I brought the rest home. I think they're pretty nifty, myself, don't you, Madge?"

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Thanking a Hostess.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please help me with a grave and serious question? I was invited to a dinner last Sunday and I enjoyed myself immensely, but on leaving with other friends I forgot to thank the hostess for the good time that I had had. What can I do to square myself with the people, as I have been invited to dinner again this Sunday? I will feel ashamed when I meet them for my neglect of last week. READER.

WOULD you like to send a box of flowers on the morning of the day on which you are to go again to dine with these friends? Or perhaps take the flowers with you? Or a box of candy? Or an especially interesting and attractive box of glace fruits or nuts, perhaps combined with candy? Or an interesting book being discussed at the moment? Or a box of candy AND a book?

Greeting Older Women.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I expect very soon to visit the home of a boy friend and would appreciate your advice as to the following situations. When his mother enters the room while I am there, he will, of course, arise. I have been taught to rise when an older woman enters the room. In a case of this kind, shall I remain seated, or arise and await her permission to sit down?

2. When having tea or a light luncheon at which toasted muffins are served, should they not be eaten from the fingers? A knife and fork is served with them.

D. E. H.

RISE at once when the mother enters the room. It is then not necessary to wait for her permission to sit down—simply wait until she sits down and then you sit too.

2. I think that English muffins should be eaten with a knife and fork, and when I eat them I always use a small knife and fork. English muffins are certainly in the category of foods that are called "moist," and usually they are so buttered that the butter comes on the fingers and makes the fingers messy. So, why not use a knife and fork and keep our fingers "neat and tidy?"

Marriage Announcements.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

There is an attorney with whom I have business relations. I am not acquainted with any members of his family, having just spoken to his daughter in the office. I have received an announcement of the daughter's marriage and an "At Home" card. It was addressed to me, not to Mr. and Mrs. I do not know the mother of the bride. Should I acknowledge the announcement and does it mean that I am to call on the newlyweds?

READER.

THE way that you acknowledge such an announcement is to call after the date mentioned on the "At Home" card. The card of invitation should have been addressed to Mr. and Mrs., if there are both Mr. and Mrs. Such formal invitations should be addressed to both the husband and wife.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Respiratory Trouble Common in Infancy

I WISH little babies could be spared the diseases to which they are liable. But in the nature of things some of these precious infants must suffer as babies have from the beginning of time.

DR. COPELAND

The breathing organs are the weak portions of the child's anatomy. It is here trouble is likely to be found. That is why "respirator diseases" are so common in very early life.

Among such ailments is what the doctors call "acute broncho-pneumonia" or "catarrhal pneumonia." Another name is "capillary bronchitis.

The disease is really a farm of pneumonia, the peculiar pneumonia of infant life. It is the most common of the pneumonias or "lung fevers" met with in early life.

While the disease may be more common in cold weather it is seen in every month of the year. As a matter of fact according to some figures I have seen, a third of the cases appear in warm weather.

Well-nourished, well-fed and well-kept children are far less likely to have it. If there is some underlying weakness of the system it is more to be dreaded.

This is an ailment which is sudden and severe in its action. The whole attack may be compressed into the short period of 24 hours.

The temperature runs very high. There is extreme prostration, blueness of the skin and rapid breathing. The poor youngster is dull and may be actually unconscious.

A strong baby will rally and throw off the disease within four or five days. The attack, as I have said, may come on suddenly, but, in spite of its severity, it clears up speedily.

If your baby shows signs of difficult breathing, has loss of appetite and gives evidence of fever send for your doctor. Don't wait a day or two for expert advice. It is always better to be on the safe side.

There is much to do to make the infant more comfortable, and that is another reason for medical attention. Your own anxiety and sense of responsibility will be lessened if your doctor is at hand.

MAISON FREDERIC, Beauty Headquarters

Recommends this 2-minute olive-and-palm-oil complexion care

FREDERIC LICHTI OF PITTSBURGH
whose smart clientele consult him regularly regarding complexion care

"One basic rule is to keep the skin clean. Every day one must wash with Palmolive Soap—a rich lather of soothing palm and olive oils."

FREDERIC G. LICHTI
MAISON FREDERIC "BEAUTY HEADQUARTERS"

IT is strikingly significant that the leading beauty authorities of Europe and America agree on one basic beauty rule, a rule for keeping complexions radiantly lovely. They call it "foundation cleansing."

Not only in this city but in every important beauty center of America and every capital of Europe, today, the leading authorities advise a simple home treatment to keep skin beautiful. It is a treatment involving the twice-a-day use of Palmolive Soap and water.

"Foundation cleansing"

"Foundation cleansing," as advised by the great experts, is simply the daily elimination of pore-clogging dirt and dust, of rouge and make-up. And this is done most effectively, they find, by the bland, creamy lather of Palmolive Soap.

This internationally-used complexion soap, blended of oils of olive and palm, rids the skin of secretions—provides a basis upon which individual beauty treatments are found to be most successful.

In Paris, Mme. Cavalieri, after much study, adopted Palmolive for her clients' use as a home treatment. So, too, did Le Brun and Massé—other long-established leaders. In Vienna, Pessl decided upon Palmolive. In Berlin, Mme. Bock—in London, Bertha Jacobson.

Independently, the great experts of Europe have discovered for themselves the amazing effectiveness of this olive and palm oil complexion soap.

Lina Cavalieri, beautiful opera star, who now conducts a smart beauty shop in Paris. Mme. Cavalieri's own loveliness is proof of the wisdom of her beauty advice.

The Palmolive daily massage

Here is the treatment recommended by beauty authorities: massage a smooth lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water into the skin with both hands. Rinse first with warm water, then with cold, until all impurities are washed away. That's all! Yet this simple treatment is an important reason for the increasing number of lovely complexions all over the world.

Consult your own beauty expert. Follow her advice and this very day begin "foundation cleansing" with Palmolive Soap. A clear, radiant complexion will be your reward.

Beauty culture has become an exacting profession today. The American woman relies on her beauty specialist not only for treatment but also for advice. And the average beauty specialist today has studied skin texture and the connection between health and beauty, between cleanliness and beauty.

The endorsement above, of one of the city's greatest experts, is in utter agreement with the advice on care of the complexion offered by Madame Jacobson of London, Institut de Beauté of Paris, and leading beauty experts of Berlin, Vienna, Geneva—twice-a-day cleansing with Palmolive Soap.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Pirate Gait Gives Hope.
Club Shows No Strain.
Young Golfers Develop.
O'Brien Lauds German.
Homer Record Neared.
Trouble Yet for Cubs.

MAJOR CLUBS MAKE 763 FOUR-BASERS

THE Pirates have won nine of their last 10 games up to today. They took five in a row, lost the sixth and now have a string of four straight to their credit. Five of the 10 games were played away from home, and the Bushmen won them all. Changing conditions have not feazed them. They have met every sort of opposition successfully, have proved equal to every kind of going.

George Grantham.

On Tuesday, for instance, they found themselves one run behind with only two innings to go in a pitchers' battle at Brooklyn, but they won out, 3 to 1. Yesterday, just 24 hours later, they were challenged to meet the other extreme, a slugging match, at Philadelphia's joke park, but they punched home a 15-to-9 triumph in a home-run orgy, with George Grantham's wallops playing the feature part and each of the regulars doing his share.

That continued great showing at this stage of the sizzling pennant fight means more than the retention of a slight lead.

FOR behind it is to be seen evidence of two essentials to pennant success in a close race like that of 1929—steadiness when the fighting is hottest and freedom from the mental strain that has caused many a flag contender to slump or crack in a prolonged jam.

Those items are as necessary as playing ability in the winning of baseball championships. The club that frets and worries will in time be strained to the breaking point. That's why the continued success of the Bucs counts for more than it represents from day to day in the "Won" column.

IT MEANS that, thanks to the smart and smooth handling of Donie Bush, off the field as well as on it, there is no strain on the Pittsburgh club. And this all-important light-heartedness among the Corsairs has not failed to attract attention abroad.

Tom Holmes, of the Brooklyn Eagle, is one of the Eastern critics impressed by it in contrast to the worry that the Cubs have manifested in resorting to rough stuff.

Donie Bush.

"THE Bruins are tense," Holmes says, "but the Pirates act as though there is no mental strain in defending a first-place hold of a few points day in and day out. Bush has had his men in or near first place for more than a month, with never a commanding lead, in daily danger recently of being knocked out of the lead, yet they have that 'We have not yet begun to fight' attitude on the bench every day before the game begins."

WHO knows but that a future Bobby Jones, if there can ever be another Bobby, may be among the more than 200 youthful golfers out of an entry of 700 who started play on the Schenley Park municipal links this morning in the second annual Western Pennsylvania junior tournament for the William Randolph Hearst trophy and team plaque?

Certain it is that some of the championship contenders of years to come will emerge from this great tournament, helped along greatly in their early development by an opportunity for competitive play that they did not have prior to the institution of the big yearly fixtures. No other event ever put on hereabouts has done so much for the future of golf.

AT THE recent Schmeling-Paulino fight in New York, a Pittsburgh man found himself sitting directly in front of Jack Johnson. "What do you think of Schmeling?" he asked the former champion before the bout started.

"I haven't seen him in action yet," said Jack. "I'll have to watch him at work first." At the conclusion of the bout the Pittsburgher again turned to Johnson and asked "Well, what do you think of Max now?" "He'll do," responded Jack. "He's got everything."

Jack O'Brien.

JOHNSON isn't the only veteran fighter to put the stamp of approval on Schmeling. Philadelphia Jack O'Brien is sold on the German. 'He's a very good fighter and a very smart fighter,' O'Brien remarked to Ed Hughes in a burst of enthusiasm. "Either Dempsey or Sharkey would be a cinch for Schmeling. In my opinion, Dempsey would not last three rounds with Max. The German would cut him down in just about that time. Dempsey is done. His legs are gone. He'd never land his punch on Schmeling. This fellow can box almost as well as Tunney and he's still coming. He can box, hit, use his head and is physically fashioned for fighting. What more need be said?"

THE Pirates and Phils came within one notch of equaling the modern major league record for number of home runs made in a game when they piled up nine yesterday. The standing mark is 10, set by the Philadelphia and St. Louis National League clubs in Philadelphia on May 11, 1923. The Phils made six and the Cardinals four.

The American League record is eight, Philadelphia making seven and Detroit one in their game of June 3, 1921. The Bucs, with five homers yesterday, fell two short of their own record of seven in one game, made in Boston on June 6, 1894.

FANDOM continues to wonder when the big league magnates are going to wake up and save baseball from the ruin that threatens it as a result of the farcical home runs that are due to the lively ball and such joke parks as that of the Philadelphia Nationals, where the right field fence is only 280 feet 6 inches from the home plate.

Back in 1917, the Pittsburgh club made only nine home runs during the entire season and Washington made only four. There were only 202 homers in the National and 143 in the American, a total of 345 for the full year.

IN THE first four games on their present Eastern trip, the Buccaneers made 12 homes, or three more than in all of 1917. Up to today no fewer than 763 home runs have been made in the major loops this year, 455 in the National and 308 in the American. And the season is only half over. They are not only breaking all records, but are breaking the game too.

WITH Guy Bush, who has lost only one game this season, pitching his eleventh victory yesterday, the Cubs won the first ball in the important series with the Giants and defeated one of John McGraw's main hopes in the person of Carl Hubbell.

However, it does not follow that the Bruins are going to ride roughshod over the New Yorkers throughout the series. They will have some tough right-hand pitching to contend with in the remaining games, particularly that of Larry Benton, who has won four of his last five contests and seven of his last 10, and who, in his last two slab appearances, shut out the Braves and Reds with six and three hits, respectively. An even break in the Cub-Giant series would be just to Pittsburgh's liking.

Larry Benton.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11. — The Waner act and the rest of the Pirate cast has gone into burlesque for four days, but a victory in a travesty counts just as much as one of those dramatic classics, so while the Freebooters are in Quakertown they will do as the Quakers do.

The Pirates today were convinced that the best way to trim the Phils in the Baker demi-tasse was to overpower them. Our boys used this system with great effect yesterday to win one of those loose-leaf games, the score being 15 to 9 with all districts in.

Nine of those funny homers rent the sweltering atmosphere, which besides carrying a load of humidity, was well filled with Japanese beetles that harassed both players and fans. The fact that the Pirates made five of the fluke offerings enabled them to come out at the laughing end of the horn, although Donie Bush and his players did not feel like shouting until the last Quaker was out of the way. The fellow who said a five-run lead in the Baker bowl was a safe score spoke somewhat logically in jest.

BRAME TO PITCH

The sharpshooting at the much-battered fence is scheduled to be resumed this afternoon at 3:30. Pilot Bush, of the Pirates, has Ervin Brame and Larry French primed for the second encounter while Manager Shotton is expected to counter with Luther Roy or Claude Willoughby.

Picking a Quaker pitcher is no cinch for any manager inasmuch as the boss of the Phillies generally has to stage a parade of flingers to get 27 visiting firemen out of the picture each day. Shotton, however, has evolved a very resourceful plan which saves time and energy.

Instead of rushing a pitcher to the hot bull pen on a hot day he warms up said thrower by sending him to pinch hit for some mate. By the time he gets through taking three healthy cuts he is as loose as a goose, and then he walks to the mound and begins to pitch just as freely as if he was twirling in the pen. The system was used twice yesterday.

FUSSELL STARS

Anything can happen at the Baker demi-tasse and the Buccos figure that way as they go into a battle here. The Pittsburgh bullpen was as crowded as a Soho speakeasy when the contest got under way. Fred Fussell had the slab ticket, but the day was warm and the balls continued lively.

The jackrabbit spheres began to disappear early. Dennis Sothern, the first to face Fussell, lost the first offering in the leftfield bleachers. The wallop was the signal for eight others that disappeared over the rightfield fence into Broad street. So the defeat was very

INAUGURAL MITT SHOW TONIGHT AT SPEEDWAY

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

The inaugural show of the new Keystone Arena Club at the Bridgeville Speedway and another card of battles at Junction Park, New Brighton, are on the mitt calendar for tonight.

Cuddy DeMarco, of Charleroi, meets Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, in the main bout of 10 rounds at Bridgeville in an effort to succeed where Jack Zivic failed, at the Meyers Bowl, Tuesday night of last week, in the task of beating Baker.

In the eight-round semi-final, Harry Williams, Negro light-heavyweight, of Rankin, and formerly of Cincinnati, boxes Ray Fay, of Charleroi. The two six-round preliminaries bring together Johnny Michaels, of Swissvale, and the North Side, and Mike Hogan, of the North Side, in the second event and Paul Balint, of the North Side, and Joey Angelo, of Braddock, in the opener, a return engagement, Balint having beaten Angelo in their first meeting, at the Meyers Bowl a few weeks ago. Balint is a protege of Patsy Brannigan and Angelo is handled by Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion.

The show at the Speedway will get under way at 8:30 o'clock, daylight saving time. A special train will be run from Pittsburgh and return for the show, but most of the fans will make the trip by automobile. Plenty of parking space is available on the grounds. Bus lines will run to the track. The special train leaves Pittsburgh at 7:20 o'clock. The boxers weigh in at 3 o'clock at Flynn's gym, downtown.

RODGERS BOXES DENCIO

Jackie Rodgers, Negro bantamweight, of the North Side, fresh from his one-round knockout victory over Dan Billick at the Meyers Bowl Monday night, faces Pancho Dencio, Filipino, of Cleveland, in the main bout of the Junction Park show. Frank Monroe, of Fair Haven, meets Maxie Brown, of Youngstown, and Nick Polis, of Aliquippa, faces Frankie Chuck, of Cleveland, in the two six-round bouts, while Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, opposes Jack McCarthy, of Pittsburgh, subbing for Bob Collura, of Beechview, and Red Hartley, of the North Side, meets Georgie Compton, of Rocheater, Pa., in the two four-rounders.

Lou Sanders, of Ambridge, is off the Johnny Farr-Andy Martin card at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night. He was to meet Frankie Moran, of Homewood, but recently had his nose broken in a bout and is not yet ready to return to the ring. The Bowl card will be completed today. Harry Williams and George Pavlick, the latter of Johnstown, are signed for the eight-round semi-final.

The tournament got away to an auspicious start, when John Jay Burke, city office manager of the Allegheny County Parks, former U. S. G. A. public links committeeman, who is acting as honorary director of today's affair, hit a beautiful ball down the middle of the first fairway.

MALONE GREETS BOYS

James F. Malone, president of City Council, appeared at the tournament about 10:15, and he was given an ovation by the youngsters gathered at the first tee waiting to start. The starting was halted for a short time, while Malone was introduced to the boys, after which he made a short talk, which was well received. John Jay Burke presented him to the crowd.

"The city of Pittsburgh is proud to be able to assist in encouraging any sort of competition among the juniors, especially in golf," Malone told the boys. "It was a great pleasure to your City Council to be able to set aside this day for your tournament. For two years now Pittsburgh has won the

WILMERDING, VERONA NINES CLASH TODAY

CLUBS BATTLE FOR FIRST HALF FLAG

By TOM BIRKS

When Wilmerding and the Verona Community clash at Verona field this evening to decide the championship of the first half of the West Penn League, it is expected that one of the largest crowds of the local sandlot season will be on hand.

The Airbrake nine, headed by Eddie Artmann was in the stands when Verona beat Universal Tuesday, and it is expected that the boys got a good, line on the Verona sluggers. Manager McConell, of Wilmerding, declares a large crowd of fans will accompany the team to root for the Airbrake nine.

Bill Bright states that McNally, who finished the game against Universal will work for the Community and it is more than possible that Artman himself, will hurl for Wilmerding. The game will be called at 6:30 sharp.

REINECKERS SEEK GAMES

The W. L. Reinecker club, greatly strengthened for the second half race of the City League, is desirous of booking a strong club abroad for a Sunday game. Other dates are also open on the Reinecker schedule. Managers wishing to book this attraction should write H. Hofbauer, 626 Herron avenue, or call Mayflower 2820. Pleasant Valley will be the attraction this evening at Malone field.

W. O. W. will be the attraction at Frazier street this evening meeting the J. J. Boyles in the Central League. The Boyles expect to beat the first half champions. A good battle should result.

GRAYS BEAT HOMEWOOD

Well, the Homestead Grays won the rubber game of the series with Homewood, beating the Inter-County Leaguers, 6 to 4, last evening. Joe Semler was unable to record his third triumph over the Negro stars and was injured and had to leave the game.

GUNNERS ON TOP

national public links championship—not only the individual championship, but the national team championship as well. And we are proud of these men who brought the honor to their city. I think that there is real championship material among you boys and I expect to greet certain of you in later years as city and possibly national champions.

"We thank the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for giving you this opportunity to go out and win; we thank the boys here at Schenley Park, John Jay Burke and former Mayor Diehl, now 85 years of age, for presenting themselves upon this occasion to inspire and encourage you to the better things—especially in the good game of life. Give the best you have and you'll never regret it."

FEW DISQUALIFIED

Several of the boys had to be disqualified because they did not hole out their putts, but generally the contestants sent out have been conducting themselves in a gentlemanly manner, observing the etiquette just as earnestly as the rules of the game.

Sheriff Nabs Three At Cleveland Track

CLEVELAND, July 11.—(AP.)—Defying threats of Sheriff E. J. Hanratty that he would close the Thistledown track, if necessary, to prevent gambling, the track was opened here today for a 22-day session of horse racing with the "contribution system" of betting in full play. They were the first running races in this county for three years.

Although restrained by a temporary injunction from interfering with operations of the track, Sheriff Hanratty answered the challenge of the track operators by having six deputies arrest three of the "system" employes.

The arrests, however, did not stop the betting at 65 wickets, and the sheriff said he would take no further action until the contribution system has been ruled on by the courts.

Homewood Beaten; Reliance Nine Wins

The Homewood Club suffer a double blow last evening when it lost to the Homestead Grays, 6 to 4, and Pitcher Joe Semler was knockout in sliding home on an infield tap to the pitcher in the seventh inning. CUBS TO TELL HEYDLER CASE TOMORROW

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—President John A. Heydler of the National League completed his examination of Cincinnati players in connection with the Wilson-Donohue fisticuffs in a Chicago railway station on the evening of July 4. The Cincinnati testimony was closed after Infielder Joe Stripp and Outfielder Bill Zitzmann appeared as witnesses.

President Heydler has also heard the testimony of Reardon, Jorda and Rigler, the three umpires in the Cincinnati-Chicago series.

The Chicago side of the controversy will be heard before the league executive tomorrow when Outfielder Hack Wilson, Pitcher Claude Jonnard and possibly other Cubs will give their sworn testimony.

Manager Joe McCarthy of the Cubs said on his arrival in New York from Boston yesterday that he knew nothing of the affair. The manager had boarded an earlier train for the East and was not a witness.

"I don't know what it's all about," said McCarthy, "but any of our players who have any information on the subject, of course, will appear before President Heydler Friday."

German Papers Hand Maxie The 'Razz'

BERLIN, July 11.—(AP.)—German sporting editors generally regret Max Schmeling's action in regard to his manager and countryman, Arthur Buelow, which led to the German heavyweight boxer's suspension by the New York State Athletic Commission.

Various papers characterize the conflict as disgusting and Tempo apostrophizes Schmeling sarcastically as follows:

"Long live the thick skull which stood you in excellent stead in boxing, but which is an evil thing for this 'match.' Long live the inability to be diplomatic.

"There is, of course, only one solution of permanent character—agreement between Schmeling and Buelow. But in the way of such an agreement stand two thick skulls, two very thick ones, at that, and no enlightening ray can apparently penetrate them."

MOE ADVANCES IN WESTERN AMATEUR

KANSAS, CITY, July 11.—(AP.)—Don Moe, handsome, meticulous 19 year old University of Oregon student from the Alderwood Country Club at Portland, plays par golf despite handicaps. He entered the quarter finals of the thirtieth annual western amateur tournament under way on the Mission Hills course yesterday afternoon after shooting one under par on the 28 holes he had to play in his first and second round matches, although obliged to battle rain, heavy fairways and treacherous greens.

DOG IN WAY

As though this were not enough in the way of impediments, he had to overcome the mental hazard of a brown dog that insisted upon standing in front of him when he drove. The dog was a faithful gallery member at the finish. Moe had conquered the course with two par 72 rounds for medalist honors in the qualifying rounds.

The major upset of the tournament came in a second round match when Art Sweet, golf writer from Chicago, defeated a former champion, Keefe Carter, Oklahoma City, 4 and 2 after Carter has eliminated the sweet-shooting Chester Jones, University of Kansas student 4 and 3 in a morning round.

BEATS OKLAHOMA

In his morning round, Moe won from W. S. Critchlow, Ardmore, Okla., six and five, and in so doing turned in the lowest nine hole score of the tournament, a 32 on the first nine on which par is 35.

In the afternoon, Moe eliminated Clarence Hubby, of Dallas, Texas, 4 and 3. Hubby had a qualifying medal of 149 and at the end of the first day was in a four-way tie for low score with 71.

BRUINS SINK GIANTS; ROBINS TOP CARDS

By HENRY McLEMORE.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(INS.)—Wanted: One rib. Must be in sound condition and in no danger of cracking. For immediate delivery.

Don't be surprised if you run across this singular notice in a few of our leading dailies, for Cornelius is likely to get that desperate in his desire to get Catcher Mickey Cochrane back in the Athletic's lineup. Since the fiery catcher took to the bench with an injured slat, Mr. Mack's hopefuls have taken two and dropped four, which is certainly no way to win a flag.

Yesterday they managed to break even in a double bill with the pesky Browns, thanks to the fancy flinging of Howard Ehmke in the first game who allowed but two hits. This picked up a half-game on the Yanks, who staggered around all afternoon before the fast shoots of Alphonse Thomas, White Sox hurler. Gehrig continued in his hitting slump, but Babe Ruth smacked a couple of doubles and was frisky no end on the bases.

McMANUS HERO

Marty McManus, second baseman, for the second time within a week saved the Tiger's tail from being twisted by slapping a homer with the bases loaded. The Red Sox were the victims this time.

In another of these crucial affairs the Giants couldn't "guy" Bush and the Cubs fortified their second place position by whipping McGraw's boys in the first of a five-game series. Bush allowed only seven hits. "One-round" Hack Wilson, after being generously razzed for eight innings, answered his tormentors with a homer in the ninth.

The Pirates showed no signs of quitting their tremendous hitting, in swamping the Phils, 15 to 9. The Bucs slammed out five home runs, two being from Grantham's bat, while the Phillies chipped in four. The clubs came within one home run of the major league record total for both clubs in a game.

ROBINS BEAT CARDS

Incidentally, there were 12 homers smacked in the National yesterday with six being cracked out in the American.

The once-mighty Cards took another slide toward fifth place when they blew one to the Robins. Johnny Fredericks, the Robins, amazing young fly chaser, rapped out his twelfth circuit hit of the year, while Chick Hafey pulled up alongside Jim Bottomley with his twenty-second.

The Reds punched the Braves by 10 to 2 at Boston in the opening of Jack Hendrick's personal campaign to escape from the cellar.

Cleveland rallied sharply to defeat Washington by 9 to 7, climbing one notch above the .500-mark.

MERCUR, HALL WIN TITLE

INDIANAPOLIS, July 11.—(AP.)—Coming from behind to take advantage of every error made by their opponents, Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., and J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., yesterday defeated Ben Gorchakoff and Arthur Kussman, both of Los Angeles, for the national clay court tennis doubles championship here.

Five sets were necessary before the Eastern duo downed Gorchakaff and Kussman, who two weeks ago won the national intercollegiate doubles title. Scores were 10-12, 3-6, 6-2, 9-7, 6-4.

Volomite Scores Win On Grand Circuit

TOLEDO, July 11.—(AP.)—Volomite, a 3-year-old colt, and Harry Stokes, a veteran driver, of Toledo, shared the spotlight in the Grand Circuit racing program at Fort Miami Park last night in winning the twentieth renewal of the classic matron stake in straight heats, enriching his owner, Tom D. Taggart, French Lick, Ind., by $4,108.50. The favorite, Contender, driven by Sej Palin, was second in two heats.

The first heat was one of the most thrilling of the year, with Volomite and Contender racing neck and neck the entire distance. Under a withering stretch drive Volomite eased ahead slightly to win by a scant nose.

Stokes later drove two other winners consecutively. He held the reins over Hollyrood Lexington, victor in split heats in the 2.2-18 class trot, and brought Zev McKlyo home first in the 2.2 class pace.

HERRON WINS STATE LINKS CROWN

ARDMORE, Pa., July 11.—(AP.)—S. Davidson Herron, of the Oakmont Country Club, Pittsburgh, won the Pennsylvania amateur golf championship at the Merion Cricket Club yesterday, defeating Hugh M. Hamill, young Merion player, 1 up, in the tense final round struggle.

Herron scored a 76 for the round, about the same quality golf with which he won the qualifying medal and three previous matches. He had two three-putt greens, but aside from these errors his game was nearly flawless.

The new state champion was national amateur king in 1919 and won the Pennsylvania title the next year. Although he had failed to repeat in either tournament until yesterday, he had been a frequent contender in the late rounds of both.

HAMILL TAKES LEAD

Hamill was 2 up on Herron in the first six holes. The seventh was halved and the Pittsburgher took the eighth and ninth to pull up on even terms at the turn.

Hamill hooked his drive badly on the tenth and was over the green with a niblick, Herron winning the hole. On the eleventh both visited water, but Hamill revisited it and Herron won the hole with a conceded 5 to 7, making him 2 up.

On the fifteenth Hamill squared the match by running down an 18-foot putt for a birdie 3.

COWS SPOIL SHOT

Herron again took the lead on the sixteenth, Hamill missing his drive when two cows were led across the tee behind him just as he was at the top of his swing. Hamill made a remarkable recovery from an almost impossible lie on the quarry seventeenth hole for a par 3 to square the match, Herron taking three shots from the short grass on the left of the green.

On the eighteenth Hamill outdrove Herron by 30 yards, but dug under his mashie shot and dropped it into a bunker. Herron was over the green in 2, but chipped for a par 4 to win the match and title.

costly to President Baker and his brother officials, inasmuch as the rockets must be paid for.

HILL REPLACES FRED

Carmen Hill eventually came out of the maze of the bullpen workers to relieve Fussell, Manager Shotton calling on several mound toilers. He started with Ray Benge, right hander, who would be a fine pitcher if he had a ball park to work in.

Boots Grantham was the master swatter of the afternoon with two homers over the wall. Traynor, L. Waner and Fussell also hit for the circuit, the slim southpaw pitcher marking up his second four-sacker since the invasion began. Sothern, Hurst, Klein and O'Doul clouted the ball out of the park for the Phils.

Choice Boxing Bits for 'The Book'

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—So far in 1929 the fight game has had a flock of unusual episodes, but these three now lead the contest for first prize:

1. Suspension of Al Brown, bantamweight star, by the Illinois boxing authorities, for failure to fulfill a contract to fight in Denmark.

2. Fine of $13,000 against Ace Hudkins by the California boxing solons for stalling, although the boxer was cleared of any charge of "sharp practice."

3. Arrest in Havana of Hilario Martinez, Spanish welterweight, on charges of assault and battery preferred by his beaten opponent.

Fernandez Beaten By Kid Chocolate

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—Kid Chocolate, speedy Cuban boxer, added one more victory to his long string last night by defeating Ignacio Fernandez, of the Philippines, in his first important battle as a bantamweight.

Chocolate had the best of the 10-round battle, which opened the outdoor season at Ebbets Field, by a good margin, although he found the going hard in spots. Fernandez weighed 125, Chocolate 123.

Armando Santiago, Cuban lightweight, knocked out Tony Pellegrino, of New York, after one minute and 44 seconds of the first round of the scheduled 10-round semi-final bout. Black Bill, 109, of Cuba, won an easy 10-round decision over Phil Tobias, 111, of New York.

HEAVY SELLING DEPRESSES MARKET

Brokerage Loan Report Prompts Profit Taking; Reaction Follows Rise

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—Persistent selling for both accounts again depressed a wide range of issues in today's stock market, but operations for the advance, centering in the utilities, carried the general list irregularly higher.

Failure of the call loan rate to go below 9 per cent and uncertainty as to what may be expected from the weekly brokerage loan statement, due to appear after the close of th market, caused some uneasiness and induced profit taking and lightening of commitments.

UNDERTONE EASY

The undertone of the money market, however, was easy and Wall Street still believed that lower money rates can be expected in the near future. Further paying off of New York banks' indebtedness to the Federal Reserve, however, tended to nullify for the present the influence of an inflow of funds from the interior. Announcement that the Treasury will retire $75,000,000 in 3½ per cent notes was regarded as promising some improvement, unless the Federal Reserve acts to offset the influence on the money market.

As last weeks brokerage loan was but $24,000,000 from the record total of March 20, Wall Street was prepared to see another new high record, but the highly irregular market of the past week made predicitions difficult as to what change may be expected in the total.

TRADING IS LIGHT

The day's business news was meager, and not of a nature to influence the market, a few earnings reports for the first half trickled in, however, in general justifying the optimistic estimates. Underwood Elliott Fisher earned $4.57 a share in the first half against $2.92 in the like period of last year.

Brooklyn Union Gas and Consolidated Gas were again strong in response to merger rumors, rising 14 and 3 points respectively to new high prices. American Power and Light also reached a new peak, and such issues as American Water Works, Columbia Gas and Detroit Edison mounted 4 points or so.

Midland Steel Products preferred jumped more than 12 points in response to recapitalization reports.

REACTION SETS IN

Case Threshing sold up 8 points, and Auburn Auto mounted 9 points to react later. Eastman Kodak was again a strong feature, soaring 7 points to a new high record. American Can, American Rolling Mills also achieved new peaks.

Several recent favorites encountered heavy realizing. Snider Packing preferred dropping 8 points, and Norfolk and Western and Atlantic Refining about 4 each. General Electric and Radio were again under pressure, losing 2 or 3 points. Du Pont, Westinghouse Electric, Bendix Aviation, Columbia Graphophone, and Commercial Solvents were among issues losing a couple of points or more.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, July 11.—(AP.)—With many traders inclined to regard bullish aspects of government crop reports as having been discounted before hand, wheat prices suffered a sharp break early today. Light rains in drought districts Northwest and hedging pressure from the southwest tended also to give an advantage to the selling side. Opening ⅜c off to ⅜c up, wheat later developed a pronounced downward trend. Corn and oats weakened also, with corn starting unchanged to 1c higher and subsequently undergoing a general setback. Provisions held firm.

Uncertainty as the basis on which either the Canadian or the United States crop reports have been figured contributed in a material degree today to sharp downward swings in wheat values. It was shown that the Canadian official report, worked out on a basis of a 10-year average production, would mean a yield of 310,000,000 bushels of wheat this season, whereas worked out on the basis of last year's harvest the 1929 yield would be more than 400,000,000 bushels. Similarly, the United States government report would indicate a wide difference according to whether or not damage since July 1 had been allowed for.

Harvard Business View.

The Harvard Economic Society's weekly letter on business conditions says in part: "The half-year closed with no serious disturbance in the money market, despite the huge size of the financial transactions at that time. On the contrary, money conditions displayed in June the first signs of easing since late last fall, although interest rates remain so high that conditions are obviously far from easy. The softening in rates was not the effect of a let-down in business, but rather the result of a less urgent demand from speculation and of the long-continued inflow of gold. The evidence now available for June indicates that business has continued active, though expansion appears to have been halted, at least temporarily. On the other hand, the decline in commodity prices, particularly those sensitive to impending business development, has been checked. In other respects, the conditions pointing to business recessions have not been modified. Such a recession may prove more severe than if it had occurred earlier, but with the Reserve System in possession of its present large resources, it is not likely that any recession which may occur will develop into depression."

Banking Company Gets Willys Stock

CHICAGO, July 11.—(AP.)—Verification of the report that a syndicate represented by Field-Glore & Co. of Chicago and George M. Jones, Toledo banker, had purchased a substantial part of the common stock holdings of John Willys, in the Willys-Overland Company, was contained in a company statement issued here last night.

The brokerage company statement said it is expected Marshall Field and Charles M. Gore, representing the Chicago interests, will become members of the board of directors of the Willys-Overland Company. No further information concerning the syndicate was forthcoming.

The deal is said to involve more than $25,000,000.

Mellon Inspects Hydro-Electric Plant

POINT MARION, Pa., July 11.—In company with officials of the Aluminum Company of America, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon visited the West Penn Hydro-Electric plant at Lake Lynn, on the Cheat River, near here. Mellon and 15 others occupied a special car which came over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Immediately after the inspection of the plant the cabinet member and his party left for Tennessee to look over other water power projects. They will visit a half dozen before returning to Washington.

Walter Finley, president of the West Penn Company, was host to the party.

ARKANSAS GAS CONTINUES ADVANCE

Stock Sells at New High On Exchange Here; Other Securities Hold Steady

Arkansas Natural Gas scored a further advance to a new high record price above $11 a share in the early trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, but the volume of trading was comparatively light.

The stock opened on a 2,000-share block at 11, an overnight rise of a half point, and there was a subsequent fractional advance on later smaller sales. The current advance has failed as yet to bring out any profit-taking of consequence, and while there has been a little professional selling, the volume of trading on the present move has indicated that the largest holders of the stock have not changed their positions. Aside from reports that consolidation plans of the Cities Service interests will work out to the advantage of Arkansas stockholders, there has been nothing to account for the recent activity and strength in the stock.

Miscellaneous manufacturing issues were somewhat irregular. Pittsburgh Plate Glass moved up fractionally in the forenoon dealings while United Engineering lost a point to 44. Armstrong Cork held the gain established in yesterday's market and was handled again at 74½ in the early trading today. Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt was steady.

In the late market Westinghouse Airbrake moved up vigorously, going above 50 for the first time in several months. Buying of the issue was based on expectations of increased earnings resulting from the expansion of operations in the equipment field and also on the favorable outlook for safety device business for its subsidiary, Union Switch and Signal.

Is Prosperity Lop-Sided? These Readers Say It Is

By B. C. FORBES

THE mail received by this column often recalls the fight between two men because one insisted an apple on a table was rotten and the other insisted it wasn't. After the fight was over they discovered that one side was rotten and the other was not. They had looked at it from different angles.

Much is said and written these days about our unparalleled prosperity. Yet, many communications violently deny the existence of general prosperity.

SO much space is devoted to presenting the bright side of the picture that it may be well, today, to give a few glimpses of the other side of the picture.

A SEVENTY-ONE-YEAR-OLD Pennsylvanian writes: "I am one of the many victims of the cleaning house process in the Allegheny Valley. Henry Ford started it and the rest of the manufacturers followed suit. I was an office employe for almost ten years, when last July the manager gave me notice. He told me my services had always been entirely satisfactory, but they had to economize.

"I pleaded with them to give me at least part time at anything on account of my $2,000 insurance and weekly benefits in case of sickness or death. I also called their attention to my limited means and my very helpless dependents and the utter impossibility for me to secure employment elsewhere on account of my age. All in vain.

"I am seventy years of age. My wife has been in the hospital for seven years, incurable. I being unable to pay, she is now a charity patient. It is needless to say I am facing poverty."

ANOTHER reader writes:

"Rural life is just about passing out. Country schols, churches, stores and farms are just about done for. The small man in the city is in just as bad shape. The small factories are simply hanging on. The country garages and many of the city garages are waiting for the sheriff to call.

"If the Federal government does not take matters in hand and see that there is work enough for all who care to work, and at wages that will allow the laborer to become married and raise a family, not necessarily in luxury, but at least in decency, then it will not be long until that government begins to decay at the core.

"The trouble with the big men is that they have become blinded by the bright glare of big profits and big dividends through mergers, squeezing employes and customers alike, until it is impossible for them to see the handwriting on the wall, which is plainly visible to the rest of us."

FROM another reader comes this:

"During the past several years much has been said about America's prosperity. Ex-President Coolidge had a lot to say on the subject.

"I am wondering if America really is enjoying a period of prosperity, or is it a delusion? It has been said, both before Congress and the Senate that there are approximately 5,000,000 men in the United States who are out of employment. This condition has been existing for several years. The question is, how long will it continue, and what is the solution?

"Let the proclaimer of prosperity check up with the merchant, the realtor and millions of men who are trying to scratch out a living for their family. In the coal mines and steel mills many thousands of men have been laid off. This is also true of the railroad industry. We find in every branch of industry that modern methods and modern machinery have made tremendous inroads on labor. In many cases they are operating with about one-half the man power formerly employed.

"I most heartily approve of all these modern developments, but I believe that they have brought us to a place where we are face to face with one of the greatest problems since the Civil War. I am thoroughly convinced that no country can be prosperous and keep her people poor. I believe that the world owes every man who is willing to work, a living. I believe that idleness is the root of much of the present-day lawlessness, and that we have reached a place in our national existence where the whole social order is due for a change.

"This may mean a six-hour day and a five-day week. It may mean a five-hour day, or it may mean a four-hour day and a six-day week. In any such change is necessary in order to absorb our surplus man power, and keep every person busy, I believe it is a responsibility that our nation and our legislators should begin to face.

"I am not a Socialist. I am a 100 per cent Republican—but believe in national responsibility for our own people."

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 2 to 6 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables, a favorable view of the early weather reports and the standard cloth statistics showing an increase of 9.2 per cent in stocks and a decrease of 6.2 per cent in unfilled orders for the month of June.

Offerings were not heavy, however, and were well enough absorbed by covering and trade buying to hold the market steady at about the initial prices. After selling off to 18.38, October rallied to 18.44, and was ruling around 18.42 at the end of the first half hour.

Private cables said Liverpool had been influenced by local, London and continental liquidation, promoted by the weather news from the South, and said that business in cotton cloths and yarns was much restricted pending a settlement of the wage question.

U. S. SHIPPING SUFFERS LAPSE

Industrial Commerce Board Asks Government Aid to Revive Industry

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER.
Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.

NEW YORK, July 11.—When the ordinary American business man or economist discusses native shipping activities and prospects, he develops an inferiority complex. To combat this defeatist philosophy, the National Industrial Conference Board, in a new book on the American Merchant Marine problem, undertakes to stress some of the potential natural and economic advantages which may be the basis for a renaissance of American shipping prosperity.

At this period of peak American business prosperity, shipping is one of the outstanding laggard industries, which has failed to fall in line. Yet the conference board, after reviewing the situation, sounds this hopeful keynote:

"While these natural and economic advantages have not in recent years been sufficient to overcome the adverse factors in the situation, they may prove of greater importance in the future. This applies particularly to the advantage arising out of ability of American industrials, in the organization and management of private business enterprises. There is no reason to expect that private interests and the American genius for organization will prove less energetic in the field of ship operation, when the incentive for the exercise of that initiative and genius arrives, than in other industrial fields.

"However, during the past 50 years these natural and economic advantages have not been sufficient to maintain more than a small merchant marine, notwithstanding various governmental measures which have been adopted from time to time with a view to stimulate private effort."

ASSETS OUTLINED

In the inventory of American shipping assets, the board lists: Long seacoasts, on the Atlantic and the Pacific, as well as the Gulf of Mexico, and numerous excellent harbors; extensive supplies of coal and oil; ample surplus capital; managerial skill, and an extensive foreign trade.

Of course, in spite of these theoretical advantages, shipping activities in the United States in the last 15 years have been far from successful. The new book conceded:

"In taking stock of the present situation with respect to the American merchant fleet in foreign trade, the fact stands out most clearly is that the only distinct advantage which American shipping has over its foreign competitors lies in the possession of a very considerable amount of oil-burning tonnage, an advantage which is at all times contingent upon the relationship between the price of oil and the price of coal.

"With respect to age and speed, the American merchant fleet is not on a par with the fleets of other countries. There are relatively few old vessels in the American Marine, but there are still fewer of recent construction. A large proportion of American ships are low speed vessels, principally those built during the war. Moreover, the large number of motorships—a type of vessel in which this country is particularly deficient—which have been added to the merchant fleets of foreign countries in recent years is contributing to increase the relative inferiority of the American Merchant Marine.

"The larger part of the American vessels engaged in foreign trade will soon need to be replaced with faster and more modern ships in order to make this merchant fleet an effective instrument of national defense or an efficient agency for the development and protection of foreign trade interests. Some steps in that direction have already been taken as a result of the enactment of the merchant marine act of 1928."

FEDERAL AID URGED

The National Industrial Conference Board in stating its conclusions, indicates that governmental subsidies should be given, not on the theory of a protective tariff, but along the lines of promoting national defense. It also urges that complete withdrawal of the shipping board from competition with private shipping interests, echoing the Chamber of Commerce of the United States slogan calling for "less government in business."

The board feels that the government aid provided in the merchant marine act of 1928 was sound and already having a stimulating effect on shipbuilding. The industry, however, is still perplexed by problems of reorganization and economy in connection with the necessity of meeting world competition on the seas, despite higher costs prevailing here, resulting in part from higher scale of wages.

The forthcoming maiden voyage of the fast steamer Bremen of the North German Lloyd dramatizes the new competition in speed. In this race, American ships are backward. Only one express trans-Atlantic steamer flies under the Stars and Stripes. New ships are likely to be constructed with the speed factor inmind.

SMALLER CROP YIELDS ARE ESTIMATED

Combined Condition as of July 1 Shows Drop of 3.7% Under 10-Year Average

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(AP.)—Decreased yields this season in grain crops below last year's harvest were forecast today by the Department of Agriculture on the basis of information on July 1 conditions.

Of the major grains, only rye was estimated to show an increased production, although reports from producers, included in the survey, showed that up to July 1 the weather was 2.7 per cent more favorable for crops than last year.

Estimates for leading crops, compared with the 1928 harvest, follow: Corn, 2,662,000,000 bushels, compared with 2,836,000,000 harvested last year; wheat, 834,000,000 and 902,000,000; oats, 1,247,000,000 and 1,449,000,000; barley, 317,000,000 and 357,000,000. The rye forecast was for 41,900,000 bushels, compared with 41,700,000 a year ago.

In the country as a whole the condition of crops averages 3.7 per cent below the 1918-1927 average, the department commented.

DROUGHT ON PLAINS

"On the first of July crops were in a particularly critical condition in the northern great plains region, where drought and high temperatures prevailed and prospects were declining daily.

"The estimates for this area allow only for damage in evidence on the first of the month. Allowing for some late crops still to be planted and for usual loss of acreage from drought, flood and other causes, the total crop acreage harvested this season seems likely to be about the same as that harvested last season."

The separate wheat crop estimates were winter wheat 582,000,000, compared with 578,000,000 harvested last year; Durum wheat 58,000,000, compared with 93,000,000; other spring wheat 193,000,000 and 221,000,000.

Decreased acreages were indicated in corn, oats, rye, rice and potatoes, and increased acreages were planted to wheat, barley, flaxseed, cotton, hay, sweet potatoes, tobacco, beans, peanuts and sugar beets.

POOR FRUIT YIELD

Of the crops reported on, increased yields over 1928 were estimated in flaxseed, tame hay, beans, tobacco and sugar beets. Decreases were shown in hops, broom corn, sweet potatoes, potatoes, pears, apples, peaches and rice. Particularly poor yields were estimated in fruit crops, pears being estimated at 19,800,000 bushels compared with 24,000,000 bushels last year; peaches, 47,100,000 bushels compared with 68,400,000, and apples, 154,000,000 bushels compared with 186,000,000 bushels last year.

"Farm wages for the country were about 2 per cent higher on July 1 than a year ago," the department reported. "Wage increases are general except in the south Atlantic states where some decrease is shown. The supply of farm labor is reported as 101.7 per cent of demand, as compared with 105.5 per cent a year ago."

PENNSYLVANIA CROPS

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 11.—(AP.)—A sharp decline in the condition of oats in Pennsylvania was experienced during June, according to the federal-state crop report issued today. The forecast on July 1 was more than 2,000,000 bushels below the estimated harvest of 1928, and nearly 5,000,000 below the five-year average.

Wheat prospects continue good, the forecast being 21,788,000 bushels, as compared with an estimated harvest of 17,066,000 bushels last year. Hay and fruits, however, suffered during the past month. Wheat harvesting has begun in southeastern counties.

Apples were severely damaged by late frosts, and the present outlook is for a production of 6,635,000 bushels, in contrast to 8,460,000 bushels last year. Scab, rust and aphis are bad in some sections. The decline in peaches was general. A crop of 1,192,000 bushels is expected, while 1,867,000 bushels were harvested a year ago. Pears and cherries were also injured by late frosts.

Commercial growers in the Cumberland-Shennandoah region expect 46 per cent of a full apple crop and 82 per cent of a full peach crop. Erie grape growers look for a two-thirds of a full crop.

Corn was reported late, but doing well. The indicated yield per acre of 44.2 bushels is expected to reap a harvest of 58,963,000 bushels this year, as compared with 50,037,000 in 1928. Condition of spring wheat was said to be the lowest in years; rye, with an expected yield of 2,063,000 bushels, ripening well, and barley late.

Bugs and blight are affecting potatoes and the crop is generally late. The forecast is for a crop of 28,655,000 bushels. The 1928 production was 31,980,000 bushels.

Tobacco is poorer than a year ago. Cut-worms destroyed many plants, necessitating much replanting. A crop of 52,416,000 pounds is expected.

Dry weather was responsible for a state-wide decline in the condition of hay during June. Clover was reported to be very short, while rains helped the timothy, but interfered with harvest. New seedings are much better than old meadows. The forecast is 4,167,000 tons. The 1928 crop was 4,645,000 tons.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 11.—(AP.)—The total area estimated as sown to wheat in Canada for the season of 1929 is 24,305,300 acres, as compared with 24,119,140 acres finally reported for 1928, an increase of about 1 per cent.

Illinois Buys Five New Locomotives

NEW YORK, July 11.—Illinois Central Railroad has ordered five 600-horsepower oil-electric locomotives from the Ingersoll-Rand Company and General Electric Company.

Campbell Window Sold To Am. Radiator

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Corporation is following out its policy of expansion into additional parts of the building supply field through the acquisition of the Campbell Metal Window Corporation.

An agreement has been reached for the consolidation. Payment will be made with 110,000 shares of American Radiator and Standard Sanitary common stock. At 52, the closing quotation yesterday, this would be equivalent to $5,720,000.

The Campbell Metal Window Corporation has its principal offices in New York and its factory in Baltimore. It produces metal window frames for office buildings, apartment houses and hotels.

Recent Expansion

LAST January the merger of American Radiator and Standard Sanitary Manufacturing was announced. The two corporations are still working separately from an operating standpoint but the organizations are mutually helpful since both are serving the same customers and they can aid each other in securing new business.

Standard Sanitary is expanding into European fields while American Radiator is already established on the continent. The organizations can be helpful there. Standard Sanitary's plants in Germany will be in operation in the later months of this year.

Both companies are also large users of pig iron and are expected to prove mutually valuable in securing the most advantageous arrangements for supplies of this raw material.

Morgan Influence

THE Morgan influence in the companies' affairs became apparent a few months ago. On April 4 Francis D. Bartow of J. P. Morgan & Co., and Jackson E. Reynolds, president of the First National Bank of New York, were elected to the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary board.

Following this Clarence M. Wooley, chairman of American Radiator and Standard Sanitary, was elected a director of the Johns-Manville Corporation.

Officials of the companies were emphatic in denying that any merger of the organizations was planned. It seems very probable, however, that, through the Morgan influence, a closely linked interest, covering a wide range of building products, is being assembled, although no actual consolidation may be found advisable.

Johns-Manville Products

JOINT interests in the control of Johns-Manville and American Radiator and Standard Sanitary are entirely logical. The products are different, just as radiator and bathroom fittings are different, but the same market is served and similar problems are met.

First of all Johns-Manville is a producer of heat insulating materials which have a direct application to heating systems. In addition to this Johns-Manville makes a large number of other building products.

Building Activity Reduced

NO OFFICIAL estimate of the earnings of the consolidated Radiator and Sanitary organizations for the first half of this year is available but it is generally believed that some decline will be shown from last year as a result of the curtailed activity in building construction.

The erection of new apartment houses has been particularly affected by the excessive activity in this direction since the war and the higher cost of financing speculative building.

Office and industrial building has been well maintained. This should tend to maintain the volume of radiator sales but the slump in residential construction has undoubtedly been reflected in the earnings of Standard Sanitary to a more pronounced extent.

Kolster Radio

THE Kolster Radio Corporation and its British subsidiary, Kolster-Brandes, Ltd., will benefit by the action of the International Safety of Life at Sea convention at London in adopting a provision requiring that all passenger ships of 5,000 tons and over be equipped with radio compasses.

The Federal Telegraph Company, another Kolster subsidiary, was the first American company to equip vessels with radio compasses. The Kolster radio compass is in use on vessels of the United States Shipping Board and on merchant vessels in all parts of the world. Commander Byrd is using two Kolster radio compasses on his Antarctic expedition.

RADIO COMPASS REQUIRED

NEW YORK, July 11.—Kolster Radio Corporation and its British subsidiary, Kolster-Brandes Limited, are expected to derive considerable benefit as a result of the adoption by the International Safety of Life at Sea convention of a provision requiring all passenger ships of 5,000 tons and over to be equipped with radio compasses. The London convention, which was recently concluded, and of which the radio compass requirement is a section, becomes effective in 1931 upon ratification by five of the contracting governments.

Federal Telegraph Company, a subsidiary of Kolster Radio Corporation, was the first American company to equip vessels with radio compasses. The Kolster radio compass is in use on vessels of the United States Shipping Board and other departments of the United States government and on merchant vessels in all parts of the world. Signal recognition of the Kolster compass was given last year by Commander Byrd, two Kolster compasses now being used by him on his Antarctic expedition.

GULF STEEL INCOME UP

NEW YORK, July 11.—Based on operations of Gulf States Steel Company during April and May, and with June estimated, it is anticipated by well informed interests that second quarter's earnings will be in excess of $400,000 after taxes and depreciation. This would establish a new high for quarterly profits for recent years, and would compare with $354,255 reported for quarter ended March 31, 1929.

This would bring results for first six months of 1929 to $750,000, which would contrast with $541,802 in 1928 period. After preferred dividends above estimated earnings would equal in excess of $3.40 a share on 197,500 common shares now outstanding or within 60 cents a share of full year's common dividend requirements of $4 a share.

Highly favorable earnings reflect benefits from substantial operating economies and cost reductions obtained by improvements and betterments undertaken in 1927 and 1928 and completed toward end of last year, as well as a better demand for bars, wire rods, plain, galvanized and barbed wire and nails, some of principal products of the company.

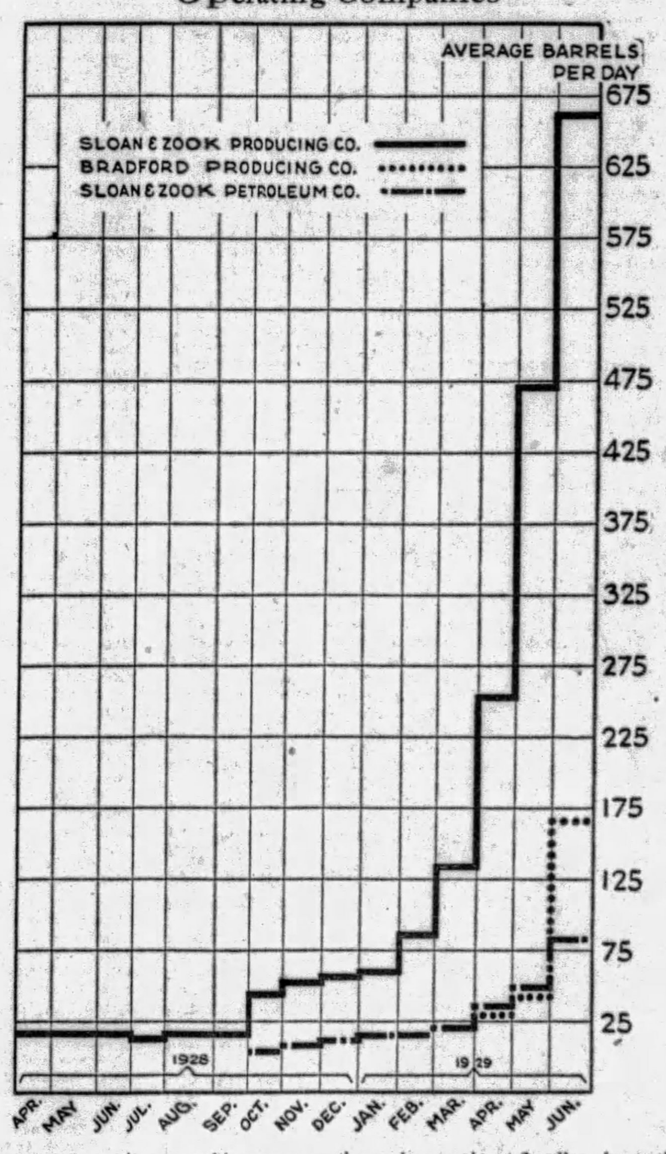
Oil Production Chart of Affiliated Operating Companies



ILLUSTRATING the monthly average increase of Bradford Grade Pennsylvania Crude Oil produced by the Pennsylvania-Bradford Group of affiliated operating companies.

Each of the companies is recovering oil by water flooding, a scientific and proven method particularly adapted to the Bradford Field. As the chart indicates, production increases slowly in the early months of flooding due to the time required for the water pressure to work through the sand and force oil to the pumping wells. The apparently extraordinary rise in production which follows is not unusual but is the normal result expected from water flooding, and follows closely the estimate made by the operators before the developments were started.

MAY RAIL NET AT 5.81% RATE

Carriers' Earnings Show Good Gain Over Same Month's Profit Last Year

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Class 1 railroads in May had net railway operating income of $103,616,046, which, for that month, was at the annual rate of return of 5.81 per cent on their property investment, according to reports just filed by the carriers with the Bureau of Railway Economics and made public today.

In May, 1928, their net railway operating income was $88,221,666, or 5.02 per cent on their property investment.

Property investment is the value of road and equipment as shown by the books of the railways, including materials, supplies and cash. The net railway operating income is what is left after the payment of operating expenses, taxes and equipment rentals, but before interest and other fixed charges are paid.

This compilation as to earnings in May is based on reports from 182 class 1 railroads representing a total mileage of 241,297 miles.

Gross operating revenues for the month of May amounted to $537,747,535, compared with $511,511,966 in May, 1928, or an increase of 5.1 per cent. Operating expenses in May totaled $390,977,050, compared with $382,369,709 in the same month of 1928, or an increase of 2.3 per cent.

Class 1 railroads in May paid $33,661,523 in taxes, an increase of $2,757,169, or 8.9 per cent over the same month in 1928. This brought the total tax bill of the Class 1 railroads for the first five months in 1929 to $161,763,466, an increase of $10,735,583, or 7.1 per cent above the corresponding period in 1928.

Twenty-one Class 1 railroads operated at a loss in May, of which seven were in the eastern, two in the southern and 12 in the western district.

Class 1 railroads for the first five months in 1929 had a net railway operating in come amounting to $457,362,036, which was at the annual rate of return of 5.60 per cent on their property investment. During the corresponding period of the preceding year, their net railway operating income amounted to $376,309,981, or 4.68 per cent on their property investment.

Gross operating revenues, for the first five months' period of 1929 totaled $1,864,233,006 compared with $2,408,273,320 during the corresponding period of 1928 or an increase of 5.1 per cent. Operating expenses for the first five months period of 1929 totaled $1,864,233,006 compared with $1,833,265,235 during the corresponding period the year before or an increase of 1.7 per cent.

Complete reports showed that the Class I railroads in the Eastern district for the first five months in 1929 had a net railway operating income of $248,091,153, which was at the annual rate of return of 6.16 per cent on their property investment. For the same period in 1928 their net railway operating income was $195,401,156 or 4.93 per cent on their property investment. Gross operating revenues of the Class 1 railroads for the first five months in 1929 totaled $1,273,370,732, which was an increase of 6.5 per cent over the corresponding period the year before, while operating expenses totaled $926,140,382, an increase of 2.3 per cent over the same period in 1928.

Class 1 railroads in the Eastern district for the month of May had a net railway operating income of $59,759,148 compared with $52,018,729 in May, 1928.

SEARS VOLUME HOLDS UP

CHICAGO, July 11.—The drop in wheat prices had no effect on the sales of Sears-Roebuck in the areas most affected. The management has been able to find no indication of a decline in mail order volume in Kansas and the Dakotas. With the total value of this country's wheat crop estimated at 6 per cent to 8 per cent of all agricultural production, the company's mail order volume in the rural district rests on a broader and more secure base than formerly, while its entry into the retail field in the large and medium-sized cities has further diversified the nature of its customers and their purchasing power.

Taking all factors into consideration, including the fact that sales in the last three months largely determine the total for the year, Sears' sales for 1929 should run around $450,000,000, barring any general business depression in the last quarter.

The management at present is understood to have no intention of doing any financing, either through an offering to stockholders or otherwise. Sears' expansion program as in the past is being taken care of from profits and through current bank loans, which remain relatively small in proportion to the business, and which can be cleaned up next year unless the company does more expanding in 1930 than present plans contemplate.

Sears reports net profits only once a year, and in the interim no official information as to profits is obtainable. In the first six months company's gross sales increased $46,629,646 or 31.9 per cent; its expansion program proceeded according to schedule; and no major factors disturbing to operations appeared. In view of these facts, it is believed profits in the first half showed a good increase over the same 1928 period.

Car and Foundry Industry Expected to Report Good Half Year.

W. H. WOODIN, head of the American Car and Foundry Company, expressed himself as optimistic on the outlook for the industry and for this company in particular, at today's annual meeting of shareholders. He expects car and foundry will have a good first half year, and stated it as his opinion that the "importance of the O'Fallon decision does not seem to have been fully appreciated." He said, that one of its results as he sees it will be to stimulate the interest of the railroads in buying new equipment.

That the strain of mid-year settlements had been a factor in the sharp drop recorded in the reserve ratio of the Bank of England's report for last week is clearly indicated in its current statement of condition. The ratio which dropped about 11 per cent a week ago to 33 per cent is shown at 41.9 per cent this week, due to contraction in public and private deposits, but mostly to the reduction of almost 50 per cent indicated in holdings of miscellaneous securities, it is interesting at the same time to note that the bullion, or gold, holdings of the bank show a slight increase for the first time in many weeks.

UNION CARBIDE was the strong spot in the chemical group rising sharply on buying reputedly based on important developments in its affairs which are said to be nearby. One report had it that negotiations have been under way looking toward the acquisition by the company of at least one other formidable unit in the field. This deal, according to current gossip, involves the American Syanamid, which incidentally has been one of the spectacularly strong features on the curb for several weeks past. Judging from the current relationship of market prices for the two issues, it would appear that the deal would call for an exchange of shares on something like a 1 for 2 basis.

Net operating income of class 1 railroads for May aggregated $103,616,046, or at the annual rate of about $5.81 per cent on their property investment based on reports of the roads filed with the bureau of railroad economics for the period. This compared with net operating income of $88,221,666 or at the rate of 5.02 per cent on property investment in the same month last year. Gross operating revenues showed an increase of 5.1 per cent over last year. Net railway operating income for the first five months totaled $457,362,036, or at the rate of 5.60 annually on property investment compared with $376,209,981, or the equivalent of 4.68 per cent annually in the corresponding period last year.

POWER and light stocks continued the outstanding group from a viewpoint of uniform strength. Demand was especially keen for the shares of those companies in which the United Corporation, as revealed in its listing statement, was shown to have increased its interest considerably in the last three months. United Gas Improvement, Columbia Gas and Electric, and Public Service of New Jersey were prominent in that respect, the first mentioned two stocks pushing into new high ground.

Underwood Elliot Income Increases

NEW YORK, July 11.—Underwood Elliot Fisher Company reports consolidated net income of $1,450,569 for the quarter ended June 30 after depreciation and federal tax reserve, equal to $1.94 a share on 696,853 common shares, against $783,418 or $1.07 on 645,200 common shares in the 1928 quarter. Six months' consolidated net income was $3,374,184, or $4.57 a share, against $2,074,669, or $2.92 in the 1928 period.

Shoe Firm Offers Conversion Privilege

NEW YORK, July 11.—Ground Gripper Shoe Company is offering preferred holders the privilege of exchanging their stock for common stock on a share-for-share basis.

The company is also asking stockholders to approve creation of $5,000,000 of debentures of which $2,500,000 are to be issued immediately in connection with acquisition of new properties.

Rainbow Luminous Products Expands

NEW YORK, July 11.—Rainbow Luminous Products, Inc., has acquired the electric and commercial sign division of the Central Outdoor Advertising Company, a recent consolidation of the General Outdoor Advertising Company and the Harry Packer Company.

Glidden Company Adds Another Concern

CLEVELAND, July 11.—Acquisition of another large Eastern food products concern producing goods under a national label was authorized by directors of the Glidden Company, and the deal will be completed July 15, it was announced last night by Adrian D. Joyce, president.

At the same meeting, Kenneth D. Steers, of New York, member of the New York Produce Exchange firm of Paine, Weber & Co., was elected to the Glidden board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of P. L. F. Elting, while G. W. Grandin, Cleveland capitalist, was elected to succeed H. R. Hamilton, who resigned.

President Joyce says preliminary figures indicate that business in June, both from sales and profits standpoint, were the best for any like month in the company's history.

U. S. LEATHER EXPORTS UP

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Seventeen foreign markets each bought more than a million dollars worth of American leather in 1928, according to a world survey of markets for this product just issued by the Department of Commerce. According to Julius Schnitzer of the Department's hide and leather division who made the survey, this development is of marked significance to American producers as showing the trend of our export business. Back in 1913, the only countries in the western hemisphere which were in the million-dollar market class for American leather were Canada and Argentina and there were four countries in Europe. In 1928, Brazil, Columbia and Cuba had been added to the million-dollar markets in Latin America; China, Japan and the Philippines came into this class in Asia and five more countries were added in Europe. According to Schnitzer, three additional countries may be included in the million-dollar market class before long these countries being Belgium, Mexico and Turkey. None of them produce enough leather to meet domestic needs and in each case leather imports have been steadily rising.

Although the United States is the largest leather producing country in the world, it ranked in 1928 second to Germany as a leather exporter. The chief reason for this, it is pointed out, is the proximity of Germany to the large consuming countries. American tanners, according to Schnitzer, might offset this advantage by maintaining larger stocks of staple lines in the proper distribution centers.

Total sales of American leather in foreign markets in 1928 had a value exceeding $55,000,000, a figure which was 30 per cent higher than 1913. During the past five years, with the exception of 1926, leather exports have risen steadily, this development being accomplished in the face of the keenest competition.

In concluding his study, Mr. Schnitzer points out that American leather has obtained a world-wide reputation for quality and there seems to be no apparent reason why our export trade should not continue to grow. However, he makes it plain that American producers cannot hope to obtain the best results from foreign markets if they devote their attention to them only when the domestic market is dull. A definite policy in connection with foreign trade should be formulated and strictly adheared to regardless of the domestic situation, he declares.

BUGS BAER Says

CABBAGES AND FADS

THAT 18-day diet ain't so hot.

We started on it yesterday, and finished it all in five minutes.

Bugs Baer

Ethel Barrymore commenced all this business when she started ordering cucumbers and Melba toast in a mezzanine-soprano voice.

Ethel is a great artist and claims that the 18-day diet has endowed her with psychic power over her audience.

Besides, she has got her figure back. But it's still an 8.

A strange, supernatural power has been attached to the genius of Ethel when she distributes her drama to thousands of people.

While Ethel is speaking, not a person in the theater coughs, sneezes or snickers.

They all must be unconscious.

In addition to that she has made every waitress an actress.

The second day of the diet consists of a sprig of parsley, aided and abetted by a mossaic of Melba toast.

After you eat that measly bit it's time to act like Oliver Twist. But the waitress beats you to it with the Ehtel's famous line:

"That's all there is. There isn't any more."

Now, people, if we had our choice of a big, fat hamburger steak and the ability to act like the Barrymores, we would choose liver and onions.

It's beautiful to be able to know about the finer things of life—

—But it's terrible to be too hungry to appreciate them.

Out in Hollywood the diet has been marvelous. Bill Collier has lost 10 pounds.

The Siamese twins started on it and there's only one of them left now.

John Gilbert has lost 20 pounds and Lon Chaney has lost 17 different kinds of faces.

And, as to Ethel Barrymore's audience, we do not think it is the Barrymorian psychic power that makes them remain seated in an apathy of anemia.

The audience is also on the 18-day diet.

And they are too weak to do anything about it.

We do not denounce the 18-day diet without careful jurisdiction and forethought. We have given it a fair trial of about 11 minutes and we find that nations cannot be conquered on parsley and cucumbers.

We will continue to allow the Barrymores to sway audiences with an invisible scepter while we continue to stab a happy sirloin with those weapons indorsed at Versailles—the knife and fork.

CULTURAL NOTE

Harry Brand, our Paris representative, sends the following pamphlet—

Considering the ever increasing number of tourists coming to our Capital every year, it has become necessary to create a special tour summing up what the City could offer best. Therefore, we have organized a visit of five selected cabarets from the underworld to the Montmartre with champagne for an end at a very moderate cost.

Our service can hardly be rivalled as we take you home if necessary and bring you back home. The tour is charged 150 francs and ends at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Milk Strike Is Ended As Each Side Concedes

There will be general satisfaction as a result of the settlement of the strike of milk wagon drivers, whose difference with the Liberty Dairy Products Company has continued for a period of two months. The public is not particularly concerned about the conditions under which amicable relations are restored, but will congratulate both parties to the strike on the fact that it was due to concessions on each side that a basis of agreement was reached.

During the course of the strike there was violence and disorder that the public could not condone, the latest occurrence being an attack on a driver and setting the milk wagon he drove afire. That is a matter that should be thoroughly investigated even though the strike has ended.

Our police did not make a very enviable record in this strike, and it is possible much of the violence might have been averted had the city administration shown more backbone in giving protection to the property of the dairy company, the guarding of which became rather perfunctory after Mayor Kline decided the police should not be "strike breakers."

Fortunately the strike is over, but that should not be a reason why activity against lawlessness it developed should be dropped.

A Senator Should Know

This One Is at Least Frank.

Senator Arthur R. Gould, Jr., says he is against prohibition. The people in his state make wine from elderberry flowers and grapes, says he, adding, "God Almighty put those flowers and vines on the earth, and He intended them to be used."

The Senator buys grape juice to make wine.

All of which would not be important, as there are millions like him, except that Senator Gould represents in Washington the state of Maine, "dry" for 75 years.

Senator Gould, of prohibition Maine, says.

"As you know, I come from a prohibition state and I am supposed to be a prohibitionist, but I am about as loyal to the prohibition element as some of these southern Democrats are to the Democratic party. I note they are obliged to be Democrats to hold their jobs in Washington, but some of them often vote with the Republicans. While I find it is not policy to be too outspoken as to my sentiments, I don't mind telling you and the world that I believe a license for light wines and beer would be a great improvement over the present prohibition law that seems impossible to enforce.

"I have talked this to a good many Senators and Congressmen since I have been here, and I find a good many of the members feel just about as I do, but lack the moral courage to stand up and vote as they believe. I may be able to be of service to you people before my term expires here."

And that was written to a man whose business it is to sell grape juice to be made into ALCOHOLIC WINE.

We Need Him Here

That Is, If He Really CAN Catch Criminals.

Scotland Yard crime expert quits after "solving more murders than any other man."

At the age of 64 he plans to take Voltaire's advice, "Cultivons notre jardin." "Let us cultivate our garden."

Before he starts gardening, Mr. Wemsley, terror of British criminals, should spend a year in America. We could show him a crime wave worth talking about. Corpses thrown headfirst out of automobiles every here and there, citizens shot in their automobiles, suspected of having whisky with them. Many exciting things.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ANYONE who tries to convince Carolyn that men are clever, resourceful, handy humans is accumulating a red-hot argument. For Carolyn spends her summer vacations regularly with males and what she thinks about masculine cleverness is PLENTY.

I'll let her tell it. And immediately thereafter I shall scoot for the tall timbers and remain incognito until the row blows over.

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"I read your articles regularly. I like a great many of them but you certainly do rile me sometimes with your praise of men.

"Now, I like men. I'll frankly state that I like men better than women. I am married to the finest man on earth. We have two sons. My husband's brother and cousin also live with us, so you see we are a 100 per cent masculine household. And we have a great time together. But there are also times when I wouldn't give you junk prices for the whole crowd of them!

"Miss Robinson, you seem to think that men have such superior intelligence to women. I want to ask you a frank question. DID YOU EVER GO CAMPING WITH A MAN? I have. The six of us go camping together, every Summer. And believe me, if you want to find out how superior a man's intelligence is just take him camping. You'll be surprised.

"My husband and his brother and cousin are all very successful men in their lines of work. My husband is a lawyer, his brother is a real estate man, and his cousin works in a broker's office. They are, all three, lively, bright young men, making rapid progress in their various lines. And whenever we begin to discuss our annual camping trip they attack the problem with their customary vigor.

"According to them, they're the world's greatest woodsmen. They are always buying 'something for camp.' When we start out in our three machines we look like a traveling tin shop. And they have the most wonderful 'schedules' and 'programs' laid out for camp life. They always assure me that I won't have a thing to do except take a nice long rest. Oh, yes!

"Well, any woman who has ever gone camping with men can tell you the rest of this story without half trying. The truth is that when we once get into camp those men are about as useful as a basket of pups. All their schemes and contrivances are just a nuisance. Of course they're willing to do anything. But if you have an atom of sense you won't let them try. FOR MEN CAN ONLY DO THINGS IN ONE WAY.

"THEY MAY BE WONDERFULLY EFFICIENT IN THEIR PARTICULAR JOBS, BUT A WOMAN HAS MORE PRACTICAL COMMON SENSE IN HER LITTLE FINGER THAN A MAN HAS IN HIS WHOLE BODY.

"IF A MAN STARTS TO PUT UP A CLOTHES LINE HE HAS TO HAVE A COMPLETE SET OF TOOLS AND THE WHOLE CAMP WAITING ON HIM. AND HE TAKES HOURS TO DO IT. BUT A WOMAN WILL FIX THE WHOLE THING IN 20 MINUTES WITH A PIECE OF STRING AND A COUPLE OF NAILS."

There's more, much more, to Carolyn's letter. But this should be sufficient for a week of riot calls. What do I think? I DON'T THINK, CHILE! I NEED TO KEEP ALL THE HEALTH I'VE GOT, SO HERE IS WHERE I VAMOOSE—PRONTO!

Bible Passages

Song of the Lamb

(Revelations 15)

AND I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvelous, seven angels having the seven last plagues; for in them is filled up the wrath of God.

And I saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God.

And they sing the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, Great and marvelous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints.

Who shall not fear thee, O, Lord, and glorify thy name? for thou only art holy: for all nations shall come and worship before thee; for thy judgments are made manifest.

After that I looked, and, behold, the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened:

And the seven angels came out of the temple, having the seven plagues, clothed in pure and white linen, and having their breasts girded with golden girdles.

And one of the four beasts gave unto the seven angels seven golden vials full of the wrath of God, who liveth forever and ever.

And the temple was filled with smoke from the glory of God, and from his power; and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

More Love

OUR wants are many, yet in truth
We have one need alone
Down all the road from age to youth,
More love than we have known.
Most wisely has it been decreed,
Love is the soil, love is the seed!

More love, that we may understand
A brother's grief or care,
More love to fill each day's demand
That all our good may share.
This trust was never yet betrayed:
Love is the sun, love is the shade!

So simple is the scheme, the plan
So wholly clear and plain
That gladness waits for every man
Who dwells in love's domain.
Whatever path our feet may tread
Love is our wine, love is our bread!

THE PROGRESS OF SCIENCE

By Archibald Henderson

WITHIN recent years, the progress of science has been immense. It is an age of scientific marvels. Science is constantly inventing a machine to do the work of men, devices for saving time and trouble, mechanical and electrical appliances of every description for convenience and utility. This modern scientific revolution has altered the complexion of human life in a remarkable degree. The American tendency is to label all this "progress;" for the American has, in the phrase of Disraeli, set up the ideal of a society which "has mistaken comfort for civilization."

It is only a comparatively short time that man has been here on the earth. But see what he has accomplished!

"Think of his industry and manifold achievements," says Lodge: "the way he has begun to alter the face of the ground, to direct rivers, unite seas and in general to take control, to exercise his dominion and to make the earth and many of its powers of his muscles a millionfold? His imagination has run riot in the realm of art, which must be regarded as the oldest of the heavenborn faculties; and comparatively recently he has initiated science, and has begun to use his few animal senses for the serious study and attempted understanding of all the atomic processes going on around him, and of all the material groupings among which his lot is cast."

Great tributes have been paid to the open mindedness and spirit of self-abnegation of contemporary scientists. Wells says that they tower above the mass, and surpass the thinkers and workers in every other domain. Various thinkers are commenting on the discrepancy between the quality of thinking and achievement of the scientists and the general achievements of the great mass of the people. James Harvey Robinson goes so far as to say that science has so hastened the process of change—in man's environment, habits of conduct, and purposes of life—that it becomes increasingly difficult for "man's common run of thinking to keep pace with the radical alterations in his actual practices and conditions of living."

This phenomenon is a perturbing feature of present-day civilization. Has science shot far ahead, or is it merely that everything else is lagging far behind? We have made an idol of efficiency, and set material comfort, convenience and well-being above everything else. Shall we try to bridge the gap between science and the rest of humanity's thinking and contribution? Or shall we be forced in the end, in order to keep our civilization from becoming unbalanced and out of focus, to call a halt on science until the rest of the professions catch up? Shall we decree a mechanical moratorium, a scientific holiday, for 25 or 50 years?

Surely it is impracticable to dream of stopping the progress of science. It is the most thrilling and romantic pursuit of our time. The conquest of nature, the discovery of new truths, the putting of new discoveries to practical use for man's benefit—all have an everlasting interest. And the material rewards of science are immense, both potentially and actually. One never knows when some new scientific discovery may pile up untold wealth for its author. Millikan says we owe the great fortunes of today to the discoveries in pure science, from Newton down to the present.

Many people nowadays would like to see science curbed and arrested, especially the theologians who find a menace to religion in many of the modern scientific theories. But I agree with J. B. S. Haldane that "so long as our present economic and national system continue, scientific research has little to fear. Capitalism, though it may not always give the scientific worker a living wage, will always protect him, as being one of the geese which produce golden eggs for its table. And competitive nationalism, even if war is wholly or largely prevented, will hardly forego the national advantages accruing from scientific research."

Isn't It So?

We can usually struggle along without most of the things we want.

Happy Father, Happy Daughter

Having Something TO DO Makes Life Worth While.

ENGLAND'S GREAT STATESMAN, LLOYD GEORGE, AND HIS DAUGHTER, AFTER ELECTION

Lloyd George and his daughter, seen here after the election which defeated Lloyd George's party, do not seem disturbed by the defeat.

Each of them has a job. They sit, not far apart, in the House of Commons.

He represents one British district, she represents another.

And each of them was elected by a vote bigger than the combined votes of the Labor and Tory parties.

Just what they are saying, during their few days of vacation before the opening of Parliament, you will have to imagine, but you can see at a glance that they are a HAPPY father and daughter.

And they are happy for good reasons.

They have work to do, and do it earnestly.

The father is the greatest man produced by the British nation in more than 100 years.

The daughter is a GOOD daughter, working for her father and WITH him. She is an excellent speaker, and beat her Tory and Labor opponents at the election with the greatest of ease.

Happiness in this life depends on having something to do that is worth doing.

Lloyd George, who with old Clemenceau, of France, unquestionably won the war for the Allies, has been a worker, a marvelous statesman, for more than 30 years. He is as able today as ever, and fights as hard as ever.

And though his Liberal party was beaten at this last election, he has a vote big enough to control.

If he sides with the Tories, then the TORIES have their way.

If he sides with Labor, then LABOR has its way.

Judging by his expression in this picture, he seems to know it.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 11.—Gyp night clubs are deprived of "important money" these days through fear of the rap for indiscriminate liquor sales. Hence many have turned to polite blackmail to keep open until snow flies. These are dangerous days for the come-on, the police say.

The Broadway philanderers are more plentiful during the summer months. Families are off to Europe and the seashore and after all the lonely husbands must have something to do to while away the tedium. The traps are all prettied up for him along White Way trails.

Cabaret blackmailing today is conducted with the shrewd trickery that characterizes rum running and dope selling. The fictional "master mind" is on the job and his tuxedoed scouts are combing the primrose path for those unfortunates who are likely material.

The cappers are clever in wriggling into places regarded as exclusive for contacts. They ingratiate themselves into the casual companionship of "summer husbands." The formula is then simple. A few cocktails, dinner, the play and afterward to one of those upholstered cellar dives where the web has been spun.

A Central Office man says girls in night clubs without male escorts are "100 per cent dynamite." They are jake to all the sly tricks and for the respectable gentleman enjoying a loose evening they are especially adroit in jockeying him into a blackmailing cul de sac.

Several male singers have girls "out front" as decoys in the flim-flamming. When the girls land their victims, the singers appear later as the injured husbands exact the proper tribute and split the spoils. A hundred and one variants of the badger game are employed.

Blackmailing has proven far less dangerous and almost as profitable as hooch selling. The sucker trapped rarely squeals, although a squawk would save him perhaps years of tribute. But to save his name and the family honor he takes his medicine.

A former district attorney declares he knows of innumerable men who are being bled for didoes that would be immediately forgiven by every member of their families. Yet they cannot steel themselves to face the music. He further stated many mysterious suicides of prominent men were due to the mental torture of blackmail.

A blackmailer is a coward before the law. A blackmailing case always ends when the victims go to the police.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ONLY a really big man can enjoy promotion and prestige without becoming arrogantly elated over his success.

The man who swells, but does not expand—you have seen him.

And the limitations of his success are due to his mighty big opinion of himself.

If you, Mr. Man, hold an important place, it might be well for you to realize that in a few years at most you will begin to descend.

And that descent will be far more rapid than your rise in the world has been.

Other men are coming up behind you and soon you will be relegated to a less important place, which may be occupied by the man you consider inferior at the present time.

Too many men think that a display of authority and positive assertion are necessary to establish them as heads of a business.

Such men are usually meek when they meet the real heads.

They have not enough ability to carry their self-conceit.

Are you bluffing?
